U. S. CANCELS ALL DOMESTIC AIR MAIL CONTRACTS; ARMY PLANES TO FLY ROUTES DURING EMERGENCY

Roosevelt Asks Strict Control of Security Trading

NEW BILL STRIKES AT SPECULATORS IN STOCKS, BONDS

President Urges Passage of Law Placing Ban on All Operations Calculated to Influence Prices to Investors' Detriment.

LONG ROAD AWAITS NEW LEGISLATION

Roosevelt Recognizes Worth of Exchanges But Holds 'Naked Speculation' Must Go.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—A long and probably rough legislative road lay ahead of the newly introduced stock market control bill tonight, precluding the fulfillment of President Roosevelt's special request for such legislation until late in the present session.

Democratic leaders said they had formed no plans for the measure as yet and made it apparent that it would not be rushed through congress with the speed that has characterized other administration-advocated bills.

The president's message, the reading of which interrupted briefly the senate's air mail trial today, urged that the curb of government regulation be imposed upon "naked speculation" as a matter of national policy, but lacked any request for quick action.

The securities bill introduced by Chairman Fletcher, of the senate banking committee, and Rayburn, of the house interstate commerce committee, after receipt of the chief executive's communication, by its own terms cannot become effective until October 1. It is to be allowed to take its own course through committee hearings and floor debate.

Power to Commission.

The measure would give the federal trade commission extensive discretionary authority for regulating the stock exchanges and would specifically prohibit several manipulative practices disclosed by the banking committee's recent Wall Street investigation.

It contained a stipulation making 60 per cent a minimum margin requirement.

At the White House it was said that neither the Fletcher bill nor any other measure dealing with the regulation of speculation had been examined by the president and that he was leaving the formation of such legislation entirely to congress.

"This congress has performed a useful service in regulating the investment business on the part of financial houses and in protecting the investing public in its acquisition of securities," the president said in his message.

"There remains the fact, however, that outside the field of legitimate investment, naked speculation has been made far too alluring and far too easy for those who could and for those who could not afford to gamble.

"Such speculation has run the scale from the individual who has risked his pay envelope or his meager savings on a margin transaction involving stocks with whose true value he was unfamiliar, to the pool, of individuals

Wall Street Is Divided On Exchange Legislation

Senator Duncan Fletcher, of Florida, left, chairman of the senate banking committee, and Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, who are to a large extent responsible for the stock exchange regulations contained in a measure recommended to congress Friday by President Roosevelt. The fruits of months of investigation are contained in the new legislation, the primary aim of which is to protect the market "outsiders" from the "insiders."

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER.
Associated Press Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Wall Street frankly had the jitters today, as it awaited publication of details of the proposed federal security markets regulation.

Outlines of the proposed legislation did not appear on financial news tickers until after the markets had closed, but many traders evidently decided they had better lighten their holdings in advance, and flurries of fitful selling swept through the stock list.

The appearance of the provisions of the proposed legislation on news tickers in brokerage houses and banks was an exciting occasion, and, first comments were highly confused.

Such conflicting ejaculations were heard as "highly constructive;" "thoroughly bad," it'll close the stock exchange;" "it'll put the exchange on its feet;" "it means heavy liquidation;" "it'll bring a wave of confident buying."

What seemed to disturb the Street most was the proposal of minimum margin requirements of 60 per cent, in contrast to present requirements of around 30 per cent. Some brokers thought this would mean heavy liquidation of present holdings, would restrict trading, and would tend seriously to hamper corporate financing.

Others said it was not proposed to make the regulation effective until

COMMUNISTS KILL PARIS POLICEMAN; CABINET IS CHOSEN

Riots Recur as Reds Protest "Fascism"; Political Enemies Make Up New Ministry.

FROT SAID FLEEING; ROBES ARE BURNED

PARIS, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Friends said today that Eugene Frot, minister of the interior in the resigned Daladier cabinet, had disappeared and, they believed, was leaving France secretly.

Frot's robes, which he wore as a lawyer, were burned publicly today at the palace of justice by his colleagues and disbarment proceedings were commenced.

Several public bodies have demanded that the responsibility for police turning their guns on the Place de la Concorde rioters Tuesday be fixed on Frot.

By RICHARD MASSOCK.
(Copyright, 1934, by The Associated Press.)

PARIS, Feb. 9.—Gunfire spurted anew tonight in the working quarter of Paris where communists battled police, set fire to two churches and besieged public buildings.

A policeman was gravely injured. Four others were seriously hurt and 32 less seriously, some of them struck by bullets. Eight hundred were arrested as bands of shouting men ran through the district, smashing windows and looting stores.

By midnight, calm seemed to have been restored.

The rioters, who were demonstrating against a "wave of fascism," enticed police to side streets where women hurled flowerpots upon the struggling masses from upstairs windows.

The working-class district near the Place de la Republique—a mile square in area—and the home of the notorious Apaches, was thrown into an uproar.

Churches Fired.

The Churches of St. Joseph and St. Ambroise were set afire. The neighborhood of the city hall was beleaguered.

Stone pavements were torn up to build barricades and for ammunition.

Troops of mounted guards rode into the fray and thousands of police sped through the streets in buses, while 16,000 troops awaited a call to action in their garrisons.

Many were seriously wounded, among them police who were shot and injured by bottles thrown from windows.

The fierce fighting began with a communist attempt to march on the Place de la Republique for a demonstration to break "fascism."

Gathering Forbidden.

Authorities had forbidden the gathering.

Just a few hours earlier Premier Gaston Doumergue had formed a cabinet of "political truce" to restore order in riot-torn Paris and called

COLDEST WEATHER OF SEASON GRIPS NORTH AND EAST

Atlanta, With Low of 20, To Escape Severe Conditions; New York Has Record Low of 14 Below.

With New York, Washington and other eastern points experiencing the severest cold in the records of the weather bureau, with much suffering and at least 22 deaths the result, the mercury in Atlanta is expected to halt at a low of 20 degrees this morning.

George W. Mindling, the forecaster, said the day probably would be fair or only slightly cloudy, although he noted the increasing cloudiness during the day and said that snow was possible unless the wind changed to the northwest. He said the temperature would probably not get above 32 degrees during the day, and might even go below 20 degrees this morning, if clearing conditions prevailed.

Snow was reported Friday in North Carolina and north Georgia points, but failed to reach Atlanta, due to the fact that the rainstorm from the southwest went south of Atlanta. Hard freezing weather is expected today in most of the area east of the Mississippi, except in Florida and the southern parts of the gulf states.

14 Below at New York.

While Atlanta escaped, and will escape today, the extreme severity of the weather, the rest of the east was not so fortunate Friday. New York reported a record-breaking low of 14 degrees below zero; Washington 6 below; Buffalo, 20 below; Louisville, zero; Chicago, 2 below.

The New England and north Atlantic seaboards bore the brunt of the cold. Nine deaths, due directly or indirectly to the weather, were noted, two each in Boston and New York; one each in Philadelphia and Schenectady, and three in Buffalo. Shipping was delayed, and floating ice was reported in the North and East rivers.

Lake Erie was frozen from shore to shore at one point. Temperatures of 54 to 56 degrees below were reported at Weedsport and Sardinia, N. Y. Train service was delayed at many points. At Hopatcong, N. J., where the mercury dropped to 32 below, the schools were closed. In the Pennsylvania mountain section, the ice was so hard that the natives couldn't harvest it.

8 Dead in Pennsylvania.

Pennsylvania, where the temperature in the Alleghanies fell to 40 below zero, reported eight deaths. Four died in upstate New York with unofficial temperatures reaching 60 below. Three deaths were recorded in New York city, with a similar number in Boston and Buffalo and one in Schenectady.

An ice-coated schooner was abandoned during a stiff northwest blow off Eastham, Mass., and the crew took off in a small boat in a hazardous effort to reach land.

Icebergs 75 feet long drifted past Monomoy Point off Cape Cod, the first seen there since 1917.

In Manhattan, city relief agencies were taxed to capacity aiding the homeless. Subway doors froze fast. Ice drifted in the East river and the bay. At one Brooklyn high school 166 students suffered from frostbite.

Eight of 40 homeless men, huddled above a bus terminal in Schenectady, N. Y., to keep warm, were taken to a hospital suffering from carbon monoxide fumes.

Record Broken at Boston.

In Boston, the temperature was 18 below, breaking another record. Telephone lines snapped throughout New

MacCracken and Brittin Defy Senate Authority

William P. MacCracken Jr. (1), former assistant secretary of commerce; Harris M. Hanshue (2), president of an air express company; Colonel L. H. Brittin (3), another aircraft executive, and Gilbert L. Givvin (4), Washington representative of Hanshue, all were haled before the bar of the senate Friday to answer contempt accusation in connection with an investigation of air mail contracts.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—A double defiance of its authority to punish persons who refuse to comply with the demands of its committees was put before the senate today and it was immediately set about demonstrating its power.

William P. MacCracken, former Hoover assistant secretary of commerce, was ordered arrested after he had refused to appear to show why he should not be cited for contempt. L. H. Brittin, vice president of Northwest Airways, came before the senate in person to present a statement arguing that it did not have the authority to punish him. For the time being, no action was taken in his case.

A legal tangle complicated the MacCracken case. The senate sergeant-at-arms, Chesley Jurney, could not immediately lay hands on MacCracken and Frank J. Hogan, his counsel, refused to produce him until a writ of habeas corpus was prepared to seek his release in the courts.

Hogan conferred with District Attorney Lester C. Garnett and said he had made arrangements for the issuance of a writ of habeas corpus if MacCracken were arrested during the night.

Later Hogan indicated a willingness to produce MacCracken whenever asked to do so by a representative of

FRAUD EVIDENCE PROMPTS ORDER FROM ROOSEVELT

Farley To Select Lines on Which Service Will Be Maintained by Military Fliers; Abrogation Effective February 19.

ARMY BEGINS WORK WEEK FROM FRIDAY

Law Requires That Firms Losing Contracts by Cancellation Be Barred From Bidding for Five Years.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The government today took the business of flying mail from all the 14 concerns with which it held domestic contracts and ordered the agency which first flew it, the army, to again take up the work.

The blanket abrogation of contracts, effective February 19, followed presentation to Mr. Roosevelt of evidence gathered by a senate committee in a long drawn study of the circumstances surrounding the letting of the contracts during previous republican administrations.

The army planes will begin carrying the mail one week from today, February 16, and since the abrogation of the private contracts is not effective until February 19 there will be no interruption in the service because of the order.

Mr. Roosevelt instructed Postmaster-General Farley to end the contracts and immediately issued an executive order, placing the army air service at the disposition of the postoffice department. He also arranged with Secretary Roper to make available to the army mail ships all landing fields under the regulation of the commerce department.

Careful Study Made.

"This order annulling the existing domestic air mail contracts," said Farley in a formal statement that accompanied the order, "has been issued after careful and deliberate study of the entire situation, which study included conferences between myself and other officials of the postoffice department with the president and with the attorney-general and other representatives of the department of justice."

President Roosevelt in his executive order said that "public interest requires that the air mail service continue to be afforded and the cancellation of federal contracts has created an emergency in this respect." He thereupon ordered the army into action to carry the mail.

The president made the disclosure of the cancellation at his regular press conference, indicating the basis of the action was the evidence of fraud and collusion produced by the senate inquiry and by a parallel inquiry by the postoffice department.

Pan-American Excluded.

4TH CORPS OFFICE TO BE MOVED HERE

Gen. Douglas MacArthur Approves Removal to Old Postoffice Building.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 9.—General Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff of the army, has approved the removal of the fourth corps area headquarters from Fort McPherson to the top floor of the old Atlanta postoffice building, it was learned here Friday.

The removal within a short time is now believed certain, as the army is awaiting approval by postoffice department officials before making the transfer. This approval is said to be a foregone conclusion.

As soon as the orders are issued here Major General George Van Horn Moseley and his staff will move to the city and it is expected that General Moseley and a number of other officers will take up residence downtown. Some of the corps area officers

ROAD BIDS ASKED ON $725,000 JOBS

Contracts on Paving, Grading, Bridge Projects To Be Let February 23.

The state highway board Friday issued a call for bids on $725,000 worth of paving, grading and bridge work, contracts for which will be let on February 23. The projects include 12 jobs on which federal funds will be used and three on which state funds will be applied.

Probably the most important project in the group is the one which will provide the first paving for Route 9, which extends from Neel's Gap to Atlanta and which has been sought for some time by the citizens served by the road. In starting this paving the highway board is carrying out a pledge it made to one of the greatest delegations ever to visit the capitol, several thousands coming here last year seeking improvement of the road. The project to be launched is one for the paving of the 5.849-mile stretch in Lumpkin county from Lumpkin-Dawson county line to the Etowah river.

Chairman W. Eugene Wilburn said that the money used from the federal emergency highway fund would leave about $4,000,000 to be spent, as nearly $5,000,000 already has been contracted for and $650,000 additional would be contracted for at the new letting.

The federal funds will be used on nine paving jobs, two grading jobs and one bridge job. The state funds will be used on one paving job, one gravel job and one bridge.

Federal Projects.

The federal projects follow:

Paving of 9.527 miles in Decatur county on the Bainbridge-Tallahassee road, beginning at Bainbridge and extending southward.

Paving of 4.120 miles in Troup county on the LaGrange-Chipley road beginning at the south end of present paving.

Paving of 2.692 miles in Chatham county on the Savannah-Hardeville road, beginning at the Georgia-South Carolina line.

Paving of 1.041 miles of street in the city of Pembroke, Bryan county, on the Claxton-Savannah road.

Paving of 1.668 miles of streets in the city of Eastman, Dodge county, on the Hawkinsville-McRae road.

U. S. Seeks Suspension Of Citrus Injunction

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Jerome N. Frank, general counsel of the farm administration, declared today the government would seek to obtain in the circuit court of appeals a suspension of the injunction issued by Federal Judge Alexander Akerman, of Tampa, Fla., against the proration of citrus fruit shipments from that state.

Judge Akerman yesterday granted an appeal of his recent decision holding the agricultural adjustment act unconstitutional, but declined to suspend the injunction issued against the citrus control committee which forbade it to continue prorating the total marketings of fruit among individual growers.

Frank said the circuit court of appeals had power to issue an order suspending the injunction and that government attorneys would push for it as rapidly as possible.

COMMITTEE BACKS COTTON PURCHASE

Senate Group Favors Plan To Use $150,000,000 in Staple for Needy.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The senate agriculture committee today favorably reported a bill by Chairman Smith, democrat, South Carolina, authorizing the purchase of $150,000,000 of cotton and cotton products for free distribution to the needy.

The favorable report came after Cully A. Cobb, chief of the farm administration cotton section, had testified the program would require at least 1,000,000 bales which he estimated would increase the price of cotton at least 1 cent a pound.

Cobb emphasized, however, this should be considered more as a relief measure than as a method of reducing the cotton surplus.

The bill contemplates, in so far as possible, the distribution of materials for the home manufacture of cotton household articles.

A federal cotton distribution board would be created to purchase and distribute cotton clothing, cotton material or clothing, raw cotton and ticking suitable for the making of mattresses and cotton bedding and similar household articles.

Cobb and chairman Smith pointed Publisher's Brother-in-Law Accused in Death-Bed Statement.

George Maddox, member of a wealthy Atlanta negro family, and a brother-in-law of W. A. Scott, negro editor, was arrested Friday in connection with the fatal shooting of Scott January 29 as the publisher was putting his car in his garage in the rear of his home on Ashby street.

Maddox, arrested by Detectives Woodruff and Hildebrand, was booked on "suspicion."

The arrest of the brother-in-law followed the deathbed statement that Maddox had shot him, detectives said. Eight witnesses appeared before the

Cannon's Son Ordered To Account for Cash

HAGUE, Va., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Judge W. T. Mayo, of the domestic relations court of Westmoreland county, today issued an order requiring Richard M. Cannon to file with the court by February 19 a statement showing how the money received from the parents of the children he was keeping had been expended.

Richard Cannon is the son of Bishop James M. Cannon, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

He came here recently from California to establish a school.

Judge Mayo transferred custody of the children from Cannon to Lemerle Trader after investigating complaints that too harsh disciplinary measures were being used.

Talmadge and Key Join Drive On Auto Deaths as Toll Rises

With Atlanta's February automobile accident fatalities already totaling five, equal to the toll for the entire month of January, and the city's unenviable position among 196 cities shown as 177th from the standpoint of low death rate, Governor Eugene Talmadge and Mayor James L. Key Friday joined officials of the Atlanta Motor Club in an educational drive to reduce traffic hazards and to make thoroughfares safe for pedestrians and motorists.

As a special committee headed by Robert P. McLarty, laid plans for an intensive drive by the motor club, Judge Jesse M. Wood, of criminal court of Atlanta, and Police Recorders John L. Cone and A. W. Callaway pledged their co-operation in so punishing reckless and drunken drivers as to make motorists take heed.

Figures for 1933 compiled by the National Safety Council show that in a list of 196 cities, Atlanta's death rate of 24 per 100,000 of population ranked in 177th place, there being 176 cities with lower death rates. In a list of 72 cities with populations of 100,000 and up, Atlanta stood instood in 63d place for 1933, the figures revealed. Atlanta's death toll for 1934 already is 10, this figure including only those accidents occurring within the city limits.

The rate for all cities in the nation was 16.9 per 100,000, and Georgia's rate was given as 21.9 per 100,000, both lower than Atlanta's.

Atlanta Reserve Bank Cuts Rediscount Rate

Following the lead of most of the other banks in the system, the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank Friday announced a reduction in its rediscount rate from 3 1-2 to 3 per cent.

Because of the strong condition of the banks in the district it is not expected that the cut will affect the credit situation to any great extent. In normal business times a cut in the rediscount rate usually opens up credit but under present conditions few banks are borrowing from the reserve unit.

F. D. R. WILL URGE WORK WEEK CUT

Johnson Maps Plans for Re-employment Program by March 5.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Determination on the part of the administration to move for a basic 32-hour work week in American industry was indicated today in an announcement by Hugh S. Johnson that he would be ready to put forward an expanded industrial re-employment program by March 5.

That date was set today for a mass meeting of code authorities at which the control groups of from 275 to 300 industries will be assembled to co-ordinate and revise NRA's code structure.

It is not proposed to force an hour reduction demand on industrial groups by administration fiat, but a chief objective of the meeting will be to try shouldering onto private initiative during the spring and summer months a large share of the employment now supported by the government through CWA.

Johnson said today he was strongly wedded to the idea that the work day should be kept at eight hours, and that the reduction in work time needed to make more jobs should be obtained by lopping off wherever possible one whole day from the present work week, which under NRA generally has been stabilized at 40 hours.

He made clear also that there would be no flat demand for every industry to adopt the 32-hour week.

'APPRAISAL BOARD TO BE INVESTIGATED BY LAWYERS' CLUB

The Atlanta Lawyers' Club at its monthly dinner meeting Friday night appointed a committee of five to investigate the proposed formation by the Atlanta real estate board of a corporation to represent property owners in obtaining tax reductions.

It was pointed out that the proposed corporation, to be known as the "Atlanta Appraisal Board," would represent property owners for a fee of one-third the amount of taxes saved. The lawyers' committee will examine the proposal to see if such representation would be in violation of legislation prohibiting the practice of law by corporations. The committee was empowered to take any action deemed necessary.

A resolution requesting the Atlanta newspapers not to publish names of attorneys filing suits unless the names of attorneys "constituted some matter of interest therein" also was adopted.

Stephens Mitchell, president, presided at the meeting, which was held in the club's quarters in the Citizens & Southern National Bank building. Attorney General M. J. Yeomans addressed the members, relating some of his experiences as a country lawyer and country judge.

What 120 Millions Think

A Symposium of the American Reaction to the New Deal.

(Copyright, 1934, for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

There is neither danger nor posibility of saddling the people of the United States with any system of regimentation or government by edict or of compelling a change in their ways of life unless they want it.

Prohibition proved that. All the laws and lawyers and marshals and sheriffs in the United States cannot foreclose a mortgage in North Dakota today. It's a dangerous business in a great many other localities.

I've seen piles of printed injunctions in many courthouses in the south. To stop a foreclosure, all one has to do is to fill out an injunction. A hold-up man has a better chance than a labor leader in southern California. People in the United States pay taxes as long as they want—and when they no longer want to no power or earth can make them. It's been tried and found a failure.

Will Head Majority.

Now I've reported that a majority of people want a regulated business. In the main they are trained and will stand by a majority rule within their own industry. In the main they are willing to grant the entering wedge of the principle of shorter hours and a living wage.

But as everyone knows, they are a resourceful, impatient and independent people. And the physical machinery of conferences, documents to sign, reports, delays and hindrances encountered in governmental regulations are getting them out of humor.

It is probably too soon to predict that this will cause a breakdown in industry. Everyone recognizes that the task was colossal and the time short. Moreover, 90 per cent of the arrangements have been made by the leaders in industry themselves.

The American executive, the dollar-a-year man, is the world's champion organizer. But the lawyers and blank makers have got a stranglehold and insist that every detail be drawn up, revised, scrutinized, signed, sealed, recorded and filed in quadruplicate in 13 places under their immedite supervision. The printing business is on the boom. And the people are getting sore. They are beginning to throw the blanks across the room into the waste basket. Neither the word nor the workings of bureaucracy is popular in any quarter.

Selective Observance.

Now all this way and probably will work out in typical American fashion. That is, the people are inclined to conform to the regulations they need and believe in, and blithely disregard the rest. And perhaps in this way the machinery may become simplified and speed up to the point where it will be endured.

Theer are various evidences pointing in that direction. Government officials are of necessity politicians. They aim to please. A fierce public demand for action usually results in official action. It only took four months for the home owners to begin to cut the red tape of the Home Owners' Loan bank. Some of the tape is still there and the home owners are up nights and Sundays still cutting it.

I've visited the offices of the bank several times and the change of heart is almost incredible. In Oregon, public outcry produced a set of plans, complete in every financial and engineering detail, for some 14 state projects for the PWA in about a week. In the flue-cured tobacco belt a red hot rebellion resulted in signing up thousands of farmers—about 96 per cent by count—in a few days. Bureaucracy is not fatal. But that its workings constitute an irritation and a real danger to the regulation of business cannot be denied.

No Tyrants in Sight.

That government officials will become tyrannical and arbitrary is a bugaboo. The people simply do not believe it. Like the sheriffs and the judges, these officials can only force the active will of the great majority on the fractious minority. Without active public support they are perfectly helpless. General Johnson is no dictator. He is as careful as any alderman or president or mayor to "crack down" only when the cheering section applauds.

These changes will crystallize voluntarily or not at all. Even today it is more than the whole United States, army cavalry and all, can manage to make one dry cleaner in Kansas City raise his prices. If his neighbors don't make him, he won't be made.

If my conviction, after my tour of observation, that the reorganization of business under regulation is an evolution and resulted from popular demand due to a new environment or situation is correct, then the deduction is necessary that this remedy, as finally applied, will be partial and not universal. For there is a goodly number of enterprises that experienced no change in situation and that have no more need of co-operation and trade regulation than a pig has of wings.

As in all human affairs, a good general rule is not poisonous in specific instances. Factories that make patented articles or unique articles or that have a special clientele, or natural monopoly, small factories that are ruined by general rules with no sensible relation to their particular situation, factories that make a heterogeneous variety of things, preposterously supposed to conform to the codes at once—all these I found on my journey and all will fight to get out of this Prussian goose-step. And they will win. They will win because, as in the case of the embattled farmer with his mortgage, there will be found nobody to coerce them.

No Reversal Apparent.

All industry will be subject to regulations of hours and wages, unless a major political reversal of the policy can be effected at the polls. In the present temper of the people this cannot be done.

There will be an optional self-government offered any industry the overwhelming majority of whose personnel desire it, operating with governmental participation and regulation, with a running battle going on as to how much influence organized labor shall have in the matter.

A great many standardized, nation-wide industries will operate under this arrangement because they want to. The merchants and distributors will work under it because they want to. The rest will not work under it unless modifications are made to benefit them. And nobody is going to make them.

DR. M. ASHBY JONES' TOPIC WICKEDNESS

Dr. M. Ashby Jones will preach Sunday morning at the Central Congregational church on the subject, "Is Religion for Heroes or Cowards?"

He says "very few people like to be called good, but rather like to be thought a bit wicked. Why? Are people bad because they are brave? Do men revolt against the limitations of goodness, in a desire to be free? Does Jesus appeal to cowardice or to bravery?"

ARMY PREPARING FOR AIR MAIL JOB

Specific Orders Awaited Here, But Planes, Men Will Be Made Ready.

Officers of the fourth army corps area Friday night were awaiting orders from the war and postoffice departments to move toward taking charge of the air mail facilities in this section. Pending the arrival of specific orders from Washington nothing will be done except to get all equipment and personnel ready.

With the army air corps placed under control of Postmaster-General Farley, it was expected that Major Ira A. Rader, air corps officer of the fourth corps area, would be placed in charge of the activities in this section, working in co-operation with W. H. Riddell, supervisor of the fourth division of the railway mail service.

It was learned Friday that already there are on duty in this corps area enough trained army fliers and enough planes to take over the transport of the section's mail. Records showed that the two companies operating out of Candler field, Eastern Air Transport, Inc., and American Airways, Inc., hauled 256,567 pounds of mail in and out of Atlanta last year, eight planes arriving and eight planes departing every 24 hours.

There are about 125 army pilots on duty in the corps area. Most of them are stationed at Maxwell field, Montgomery, Ala., and Barksdale field, Shreveport, La., with the balance on various assignments in different posts. The army has hundreds of planes in this section but a majority of them are pursuit ships and bombers and there are believed to be only about 30 equipped to fly the mail, which officers believe will be a sufficient number.

There was no indication that it would be necessary to call reserve officers to active duty, but General Douglas MacArthur said Friday that any pilots who are reserve officers and who lose their jobs with the air lines would be taken care of by the war department. A large percentage of the air corps reserve officers are air mail or commercial pilots.

Air mail planes leaving Atlanta fly to New York, Miami, New Orleans and Chicago, making various connections along their routes and at their terminals.

H. A. Elliott, vice president of Eastern Air Transport, is in Washington as are officials of American Airways. Officials on duty here knew nothing of the situation beyond press dispatches.

Thomas B. Doe, president of Eastern Air Transport, Friday night issued the following statement on President Roosevelt's order:

"Eastern Air Transport received its air mail contracts under open bidding in the Coolidge administration.

"No charges have been made against this company and, so far as is known, no charges are contemplated. No official of this company has been called before the senate investigating committee.

"I think I have a right to assume that I will be given a chance to answer specific charges, if there are any, before any final cancellation takes place."

Paving of 4.583 miles in Screven county on the Sylvania-Waynesboro road, beginning five miles north of Sylvania and ending at Hiltonia.

Burke County Paving.

Paving of 1.695 miles in Burke county of the Swainsboro-Waynesboro road, beginning at Midville and extending northward.

Paving of 0.289 miles in the city of Rome, Floyd county, on the Rome-Summerville highway.

Grading of 4.150 miles in Mitchell county on the Cairo-Pelham road, beginning at the Grady-Mitchell county line and ending at Pelham.

Grading of 3.221 miles in Appling county on the Baxley-Jesup road, beginning at Surrency and extending westward.

Construction of an overhead bridge over the Seaboard Air Line railroad in Stewart county on the Cusseta-Lumpkin road.

State Aid Projects.

The state aid projects follow:

Paving of 5.849 miles in Lumpkin county on the Dawsonville-Dahlonega road, beginning at the Dawson-Lumpkin county line and ending at the Etowah river.

Graveling of 5.234 miles of roadway in Clay county on the Fort Gaines-Morgan road, beginning at the east side of F. A. P. and ending at the junction of State Route 1.

Construction of a bridge over the north fork of Broad river in Franklin county on the Carnesville-Lavonia road.

WALL STREET SPLIT ON LEGISLATION

next October 1, which would give the Street plenty o time to adjust itself, and that in the meantime, if found unworkable, that provision would undoubtedly be modified. One banker said "The high margin is all right; it'll keep out pikers."

The day's waves of selling in the share market were rather large at times, and at the lowest many issues were off $1 to $5, but recoveries of less than a dollar to as much as $2 were numerous in the final dealings. The day's turnover in the stock exchange was 3,337,020 shares, slightly more than yesterday's.

Bonds were also unsettled, and sagged a little in quieter trading. Commodities markets were somewhat mixed. Wheat lost about 1 cent a bushel at Chicago, but cotton at New York closed with gains of 30 to 55 cents a bale.

Just how much of the reaction in securities was due to the proposed legislation was a matter of conjecture, inasmuch as it was a continuation of the movement of the past two sessions.

Official comment generally was withheld for the time being by stock exchange officials and others, inasmuch as the 14,000-word bill required considerable study.

Some commission houses commented, guardedly for the most part, on the proposals over their wires. One said, "We interpret as most important that part of President Roosevelt's message to congress which declared that security and commodity exchanges are necessary and of definite value to commorce."

While there was much confusion and a good deal of apprehension over the problem of the drastic changes in practices indicated, many brokers were inclined to take an optimistic view of the proposals.

Army Prepares To Fly Mail

Here are the two men whom it is believed will have charge of the airmail in this district during the emergency created by cancellation of all airmail contracts. On the right is Major Ira A. Rader, United States army air corps, fourth corps area air officer, and on the left, W. H. Riddell, supervisor, fourth division, railway mail service, postoffice department, in which department the airmail is handled.

U. S. ORDER CANCELS AIRMAIL CONTRACTS

ican Airways which carries mail to Caribbean islands, and to South and Central America.

Thirty-four routes, many of them extensions to the lines originally established under contracts, are involved in the order. The extensions were granted under authority of the former postmaster-general.

The names of the companies holding the contracts, together with the routes they operate, follow:

American Airways—Boston to New York; Chicago to Memphis; New York to Fort Worth; Fort Worth to Galveston; Dallas to Brownsville; Atlanta to New Orleans; Chicago to Cincinnati; Buffalo to Chicago; New Orleans to Houston; Chicago to Omaha; Atlanta to Los Angeles.

National Air Transport—Chicago to Dallas; New York to Chicago.

Western Air Express—Salt Lake City to San Diego; Cheyenne to Albuquerque.

Boeing Air Transport—Salt Lake City to Portland; Chicago to San Francisco; Chicago and Omaha to Atlanta.

Pacific Air Transport—Seattle to San Diego.

Pennsylvania Air Lines—Washington to Cleveland.

Eastern Air Transport—New York to Miami.

National Park Airways — Great Falls to Salt Lake City.

United States Airways—Chicago to Omaha to Atlanta.

Transcontinental and Western Air—New York to Los Angeles.

27,062-Mile Routes.

The total mileage for the mail flown last year by these lines was 35,909,811, over a route mileage of 27,062.

MacArthur said it was very doubtful that the air mail planes operated by the army would carry any passengers as the army's ships were not of the passenger-carrying type.

Officials of mail and passenger-carrying lines were stunned by the sweeping order of the government. Those by one company that operates through the capital declared "this will mean that we're all washed up." They said they would be unable to operate their system solely on the income from passenger carrying.

They expressed a belief that the order would mean virtually complete paralysis of their air passenger traffic pending resumption of mail flying by private companies.

The government has paid to air mail companies $82,319,000 in the last five years. This cost to the government, however, was reduced by the $54,453,000 the postoffice department received from the public for air mail stamps.

Temporary Expedient.

Putting the army fliers into the mail carrying field was described as a temporary expedient to serve until new companies bid and receive contracts for the work.

The present air mail companies cannot under law bid for the contracts for five years.

Hardly had Mr. Roosevelt made the announcement of his order to Farley when the war department, through Secretary Dern and the army chief of staff, General Douglas MacArthur, told newspapermen the army was ready for the job.

MacArthur said "orders have already gone out giving the air service throughout the country notification of our new job."

"We will start flying the air mail a week from today and there will be no delay, no difficulties and no interruption of the service," he said.

MacArthur said the army had between 1,600 and 1,700 planes that could be used and that at the beginning the 900 observation and cargo-carrying planes would be put into service to meet some fast schedules, he said it might be necessary to put some of the army's 100 speedy bombing planes into service.

Plenty of Pilots.

MacArthur said there would be no shortage of pilots because the air corps had between 1,200 and 1,300 officers, all of whom would be available, if required, for air mail flights. The air crops' 14,000 enlisted men will be used to service the planes.

He added that most of the pilots for air mail companies held commissions in the air corps reserve and if necessary could be called for active service.

Asked what salaries the pilots would draw if called for army service, MacArthur said the army fliers drew base pay plus 50 per cent and that such salaries were approximately the salaries drawn by air mail pilots.

"If any air mail pilots are dropped by the pricate companies," MacArthur said, "I can assure you that they will be taken care of by the war department and that an equitable arrangement for pay will be made."

RAILROAD BRAKEMAN KILLED IN LOUISIANA

MONROE, La., Feb. 9.—(AP)—H. L. Brown, 35, Missouri Pacific railroad brakeman working out of Monroe, who left here about 6:30 o'clock Thursday night, was shot to death near Louann, N. J., early this morning, according to information received here. George McCann, of near Louann, was arrested by Sheriff Arthur Ellis, of Camden, on a charge of murder.

McCann, 52, told the sheriff he thought Brown was a burglar trying to break into a warehouse. He said he fired four shots with a shotgun, but did not know that the charges struck anyone.

M'CRACKEN DEFIES SENATE AUTHORITY

the senate but said he probably would seek a writ of habeas corpus as soon as he knew MacCracken had been arrested.

In MacCracken's absence, the senate proceedings went ahead.

Brittin, vice president of the Northwest Airways, who testified before the mail contract inquiry committee that he removed personal letters from MacCracken's office and tore them up, challenged the senate's jurisdiction, but later was questioned by Chairman Black, of the investigating committee, regarding papers which postoffice inspectors recovered from the building in which Brittin's office is situated and pieced together.

Most of the letters had to do with air mail matters. Brittin agreed he had written them and also that they referred to air mail matters, but denied they had come from MacCracken's files.

As packed galleries and a tense senate looked on, Gilbert L. Givvin, Washington representative of Western Air Express, a third defendant, submitted a statement admitting he had taken the letters from MacCracken's office, but said he regretted the action.

He said he made a mistake in not relying on his own judgment as to the propriety of the removal and in depending on MacCracken, who went over the files with him, to advise him whether it were proper. He added that the papers he took had been returned and said Harris M. Hanshue, president of the Western Air, the fourth defendant, had advised him by telephone to look over the files to see if there were any personal letters that did not belong there.

Papers Returned.

Hanshue, asked by the president pro tempore, Senator Pittman, of Nevada, if he had anything to say in response to the contempt citation, also called attention to the return of the Western Air papers removed by Givvin and denied he had ordered their removal or that they were removed with his knowledge.

He said he didn't know the papers were sent to New York until they had arrived there. When he found this out, his statement said, he ordered them immediately returned to the committee.

Just what will be the outcome of the MacCracken case remained for later development. MacCracken had been released from his original technical arrest when the senate later ordered all four men cited to appear and show cause why they should not be adjudged in contempt.

After Brittin had failed to identify several of the letters produced as among those he took from MacCracken's file, Senator King, democrat, Utah, asked:

"Why did you remove them?"

Brittin repeated he did not think the letters presented were the ones he had taken.

Used Other Offices.

The aviation executive said he had gathered together and sorted out correspondence from several places at various times in the process of establishing an office here. Previously, he said, he had used MacCracken's office and others, including that of the Aeronautical Radio Company.

"When you removed those papers, you knew they were covered by a subpoena, didn't you?" King asked.

"I had no definite, specific information. I couldn't tell," was the reply.

Brittin said there was hardly a letter he had written in the past six years to intimate friends that did not relate to air mail in some way, adding he had spent virtually all his time in building up Northwest Airways.

King pressed the respondent regarding the letters removed, asking for "the name of one single person to which one was addressed" or for the subject matter of one, but Britten said he did not remember.

Brittin's counsel, Seth W. Richardson, questioned him and brought out testimony that he had carried his correspondence around in brief cases, envelopes and other temporary containers before establishing his own office.

Not Asked for Files.

Brittin added he had never been asked to produce any files from his own office.

Black repeated King's question, seeking the names of addressees of the letters removed from the Northwest Airways file under subpoena, but again Brittin did not remember.

The senate adjourned until tomorrow without completing the trial. It will take up where it left off then.

Hogan, in discussing his plans for obtaining a writ immediately on the arrest of MacCracken, criticized the action of the senate in delegating three men to come with Journey in his first effort to find MacCracken.

"I think Senator Black was doing what he could to prevent my client from securing a writ," he said.

He said a later senate instruction to Journey not to go to the courthouse to arrest MacCracken was another indication of the senate's intention to hinder legal efforts to expedite MacCracken's freedom and to transfer consideration of the case from the senate to a court.

ROOSEVELT URGES SECURITY CONTROL

or corporations with large resources, often not their own, which sought by manipulation to raise or depress market quotations far out of line with reason, all of this resulting in loss to the average investor, who is of necessity personally uninformed."

Registration Required.

The Fletcher bill, prepared largely by Ferdinand Pecora, banking committee counsel in the Wall Street inquiry, would require that all stock exchanges and all issues of securities be registered with the commission, with voluminous information as to financial condition, sales and earnings furnished in regular reports, some of them as frequent as once a month.

Brokers, dealers and specialists would be required to stick to the activities connected with those posts and the dissemination of misleading information would be stiffly penalized. Regulation of short sales would rest entirely with the commission. For any violation a maximum penalty of 10 years' imprisonment and a $25,000 fine would be fixed.

"The bill just introduced for the regulation of securities exchanges," said Fletcher in a statement accompanying the measure, "is one of a series of steps taken and to be taken for the purpose of bringing safety to the general public in the field of investment and finance.

"Necessary."

"The present step is made necessary by the misfortunes of great numbers of our people who have lost part, or all, of their savings through unregulated stock exchanges. Still more, this bill has been made necessary by the needs of the entire American public that the operation of the securities exchanges shall never again intensify a business depression, or help precipitate a business depression."

A measure to carry out the second part of Mr. Roosevelt's request, regulation of commodity markets, has been prepared by experts in the agriculture department, and action at this session is expected. The chief executive is known to feel that speculative activity holds perilous potentialities for the rise in commodity prices which the administration is fostering.

Rayburn said that hearings on his bill would begin before the house interstate commerce committee next Wednesday and that an effort would be made to expedite the legislation.

Question of Policy.

In his message the president asked that restriction of speculative operations be made a question of "national policy," and this Fletcher sought to do in the preamble of the bill, which contained a declaration that "transactions in securities . . . are affected with a national public interest."

"The national credit and safety and stability of investments are intimately related to and affected by the prices for which securities are sold and offered for sale upon exchanges," the measure said.

"National emergencies, which produce widespread unemployment and the dislocation of trade, transportation and industry and which burden interstate commerce and adversely affect the public welfare, are precipitated, intensified and prolonged by manipulation and control of prices and excessive speculation on exchanges."

Registration.

The bill proper began with a requirement that all stock exchanges be registered with the federal trade commission, with use of the mails or other means of interstate communication forbidden under penalty for the transaction of business upon unregistered exchanges.

Next came the significant requirement that no purchase of securities shall be covered by more than 40 per cent of credit, meaning a minimum margin of 60 per cent must be deposited. The commission would be given authority to increase the margin minimum "as may be deemed appropriate."

Several manipulative practices disclosed in the banking committee's extensive investigation were prohibited specifically. These included:

Any "fictitious" transaction whereby the ownership of a block of stock bought or sold is not actually changed.

"Wash sales," or the practice of one individual selling to another by agreement in an effort to support or depress prices.

Pool operations.

Rumors Banned.

The circulation of misleading information, with provision for the victim of such activity to bring civil suit.

Cornering the "floating supply" of any stock.

As for short sales, subject of much debate in recent years, the commission was given authority to prescribe all rules and regulations for their conduct. Stop-loss orders also were made subject to the commission's regulations.

The bill contained provisions requiring brokers, dealers and specialists to confine themselves to the activities of such posts. Specialists would be forbidden "to effect on the exchange any transaction except on fixed price orders or to disclose to any other person information in regard to orders placed with him which is not available to all members of the exchange."

Much Information.

Individual issues of securities would have to be registered with the commission, and the issuers would be required to furnish voluminous information regarding the financial standing, and previous activities, together with statements of profit and loss in recent periods. Beyond that the issuers would have to submit reports at regular intervals on various subjects, including monthly statements on sales and gross income.

Directors and officers of corporations or owners of securities owning more than 5 per cent of the stock of any one company would have to report to the commission on their holdings monthly and would be prohibited from acquiring shares "with the expectation or intention of selling them within six months."

Directors and officers would be strictly forbidden to "disclose, directly or indirectly, any confidential information regarding or affecting any such registered security, not necessary or proper to be disclosed as a part of his corporate duties."

For violations of any provisions of the bill, a maximum penalty of $25,000 fine and 10 years' imprisonment would be stipulated; or if the offender were an exchange, the maximum would be a $500,000 fine.

SANKEY AID GETS SENTENCE OF LIFE

Alcorn Pleads Guilty in Boettcher Case After Suicide of Chief.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Feb. 9.—(AP)—A life sentence for Gordon Alcorn today following the suicide of Verne Sankey in his prison cell last night wrote an end to the criminal careers of the principals in the $60,000 ransom kidnaping of Charles Boettcher II, wealthy Denver broker.

While Sankey, leader in the sensational abduction a year ago, lay dead by his own hand, Alcorn, his lieutenant, pleaded guilty to conspiracy to kidnap for ransom and was immediately sentenced to life imprisonment.

Brought into federal court at 12:30 p. m., still visibly shaken by Sankey's suicide in a state prison cell only one removed from his own, Alcorn was in custody of the United States marshal's office slightly more than 10 minutes later, and placed on board a train immediately, bound for prison at Leavenworth.

Pale and plainly nervous, the 27-year-old kidnaper stood with bowed head as the indictment was read by District Attorney Olaf Eidem.

"Guilty," he said clearly when asked as to his plea.

Gazing steadily at Judge A. Lee Wyman, Alcorn said he was not represented by counsel but had talked with an attorney and understood the full import of his action.

"The facts and circumstances in this case," said Judge Wyman, "call for no extended comment on the part of the court. It is sufficient to say that the facts disclose one of the most inexcusable and dastardly crimes known.

"You are a distinct menace to society and the ends of justice demand that you be severely punished. As the facts show you are a distinct menace to organized society and will be so long as you remain free, not only justice but society demands that you be given the maximum penalty.

"I hereby sentence you to Leavenworth prison to serve the full term of your natural life."

Federal officials said Alcorn's only means of escaping a full term would be through presidential pardon or commutation of his sentence which would permit him to apply for parole.

Mrs. Fern Sankey is held in jail under $25,000 bond pending trial at the May term of federal court at Pierre.

DEKALB TO ASK CWA FOR AIRPORT FUNDS

Commissioners Formulating Plans To Make Application for Loan.

Plans to make application to the CWA for funds with which to build a new airport on the site of old Camp Gordon were being formulated Friday by DeKalb county commissioners as a five-year rent-free lease on the property was offered by T. R. Sawtell, owner.

C. A. Matthews, chairman of roads and revenues of the DeKalb commission, and Julius McCurdy, DeKalb county attorney, visited Miss Gay B. Shepperson, director of the CWA funds in Georgia, and discussed the application, but formal papers have not been signed.

Officials of the county and the CWA Friday conferred as to the probable costs and amount of labor needed and seemed optimistic that the project would go through without difficulty.

George F. Longino, chairman of the Fulton county board of commissioners, Friday night added his praise to the project, terming it a "forward step." "I congratulate the DeKalb commissioners on this forward step and I think the location of the airport an ideal one," Longino said. "I am confident the CWA will grant sufficient funds to construct the field and the DeKalb commissioners will have my personal support and that of my colleagues, I am sure." A meeting which had been scheduled for Wednesday night to discuss the project in Buckhead, has been called off, he asserted.

The need of another airport which will serve Fulton, DeKalb and surrounding counties and cities was stressed by leaders of the project.

KEY AND TALMADGE JOIN SAFETY DRIVE

was that of Denver, Col., with 26.9 per 100,000. The lowest was Providence, R. I., with 8.1 per 100,000. Improvement was shown in the traffic death records for 1933 as compared with 1932 in the following southern cities: Birmingham, Ala.; Dallas, El Paso and Fort Worth Texas; Miami and St. Petersburg, Fla.; Greensboro, N. C.; and Lynchburg, Va.

Jack Strouss, secretary of the Atlanta Motor Club, announced that progress is being made in the club's campaign to draw attention of traffic ordinance violators to their violations in an effort to promote careful driving, and appealed to the public to turn in to the motor club the tag numbers of all cars observed in reckless driving.

Atlanta's record for February already lists five fatalities within the city limits, with only nine days of the month gone, and it lists one additional death on Peachtree road, outside of the city limits. Of four persons who died on Thursday, two had been injured several days previously. Another death from an accident near the city was expected momentarily, George W. Forrester, of 904 Peachtree street, who was in an accident on Peachtree road, in which O. J. Sala Jr. was killed, being in a critical condition at Grady hospital.

Two Struck by Auto.

New accident reports received at the police station Friday included the injury of Patrolman M. R. Dodd and Miss Betty Kirkland, of 992 West Peachtree street, who were struck down at Pryor and Garnett streets by an automobile said to have been driven by C. M. Hudson, of 1086 DeKalb avenue. Hudson told police that his foot slipped off the brake.

Miss Imogene Spinks, of 1298 Morningside drive, received a sprained ankle when her car was involved in a collision at Peachtree street and Ponce de Leon avenue, with a car driven by J. D. West, of 156 1-2 Piedmont avenue, according to police reports. No case was made.

Members of McLarty's committee include Louis M. Moore, a director of the motor club; Goodloe Yancey, president, and Strouss.

Governor Talmadge and Mayor Key both indorsed the drive, and called upon all citizens to join in the attempt to reduce traffic hazards in the entire metropolitan area.

The committee plans billboard posters seeking co-operation of the public, and newspaper space in the protection of citizens.

Key Suggests Markers.

Key suggested that some kind of marker be placed at every point where a fatal vehicular accident has occurred, and the committee concurred. Co-operation of the police and streets committees in the program will be solicited.

"You know, Mr. Mayor," McLarty said as the conference opened, "that Atlanta is forging ahead in this traffic casualty business."

"I am aware," said Key smiling, "that we have added another first to our long list of achievements; that Atlanta is at the very top; that it is unfortunate and that something drastic must be done to protect citizens."

"That is just what we are here for," McLarty asserted. "We want you and other progressive officials to aid us in an educational campaign. Atlanta pays about $40 a year for accident insurance, when other cities pay only $14 a year. That is because of the large number of accidents here—accidents which could and should be avoided."

"This office will co-operate to the utmost," Key said. "We want to help reduce the traffic accident toll."

65 Killed Last Year.

Key then gave McLarty and the committee a letter calling attention to the fact that 65 persons were killed in Atlanta in 1933.

It also set out that 1,336 persons were injured in Atlanta last year, and commended the motor club for its civic wrok in attempting to reduce the number of casualties.

He also pointed out that the number of those killed in traffic accidents last year exceeded the actual battle casualties of the United States in the World War.

The governor gave a similar letter, and called on Atlantans for sympathetic co-operation.

In an interview obtained between cases after he had suspended the driving privileges of three alleged drunk drivers, Judge Wood said that out of 125 persons whose sentences have been suspended on agreement not to drive again for a definite period, only one, a woman, has come back before him.

"A great many accidents are due to the fact that people attempt to drive automobiles while they are under the influence of liquor," Judge Wood said. "The results are the destruction of autmobiles and injury of persons riding in them and struck by them—frequently the result is death.

Hits Drunken Drivers.

"It is my strong belief that persons who persist in driving automobiles while intoxicated should not be permitted to drive at all. The policy of taking away driving privileges on conviction of drunken driving is working out well, as I frequently hear of intoxicated persons refusing to drive their cars. Rather than risk a second appearance here and face the revoking of their suspended sentences, they either get someone else to drive them home or take a taxicab."

Judge Wood said that he is applying his method of curbing drunk driving in all cases where the evidence shows positively that the driver was intoxicated, and that this policy will be continued in lieu of a driver's license law, which he favors. Frequently drunk drivers reappear in court when the driving privileges are not suspended, Judge Wood said.

Austell Man Fined.

G. D. Cobb, of Austell, appearing before Judge Wood for the second time, was fined $50 and given 12 months, the chain-gaing sentence being suspended on Cobb's promise not to drive a car for 12 months.

Judge Wood sentenced Benjamin Heard, 23, negro, to pay a fine of $35, and suspended a six-month sentence on condition that Heard not operate his motorcycle for six months.

Boysie Pounds, 17, negro, was given a 12-month sentence, and Judge Wood said that after three months he may probate the balance of the sentence on condition Pounds does not drive a car.

"My record speaks for itself," said Police Recorder Cone. "Without fear or favor, I have sent all drunk driving cases, where the evidence warranted, to the state court, and under my oath I am obligated to continue to do so in the future. Drunk and reckless drivers need to be taken off the streets, and I intend doing my part to that end.

"The great trouble with enforcing traffic laws is that those who get caught have all of their friends and relatives come down to beg off for them. People seem to be all in favor of enforcing the law except when it is on themselves," Cone said.

Callaway Backs Drive.

Recorder Callaway said that reckless and careless driving must be broken up, and that a good weapon in the hands of the recorders which is being used is the suspension of driving privileges in flagrant cases. Callaway said that such a curb seems to have a real effect, and that it will be used more and more until the streets can be made safe for the public.

Strouss appealed to the public to co-operate in the club's drive against reckless driving. He asked that persons observing violations of traffic ordinances notify the motor club of such violations, with the motor tag numbers of the violators, so that the offenders may be contacted by letter and be given a friendly warning.

Strouss said that all details of such reports will be kept confidential, except in serious cases such as hit-and-run or fatal accidents. Owners of cars involved in observed violations will be notified by letters, so as to remind them to be more careful, Strouss said.

"This is one way in which the general juzlic, drivers as well as pedestrians, can aid in making the streets safe for our citizens," Strouss said.

More Than 900 Fulton County Farmers Already Signed To Government Cotton-Reduction Contracts for 1934-35

Cotton committee members of Fulton county are shown above as they gathered Friday in the office of S. D. Truitt, Fulton county farm agent.

Fulton county farmers are expected to act nearly 100 per cent in the signing of cotton reduction contracts for 1934-35. At a meeting cotton committeemen of Fulton county, comprising one representative from each militia district, which was held Friday in the offices of S. D. Truitt, Fulton county farm agent, it was reported that more than 900 farmers already have signed the government's reduction contracts.

Although exact figures will not be known until February 15, the closing time for signing the agreements, Truitt said Friday that the number of eligible farmers who will join in the reduction program will pass the 1,000 mark and will include more than 90 per cent of Fulton county agriculturists.

In the meantime the committeemen will continue a comprehensive survey of the county in an effort to obtain as many signatures as possible.

Among those attending the meeting were S. D. Truitt, Fulton county farm demonstration agent; Glynu Francis, chairman of the cotton committee; T. A. Bennett, C. V. Rainwater, W. H. Powell, W. T. Broadwell, J. J. Rucker, W. T. Wright, W. F. Cox, P. H. Merritt, W. G. Thomason, W. H. Shirley, W. W. Barnett, L. D. Finley, R. D. Tatum, D. B. Gillette, Homer Cook, C. E. Stephens, Fred Turner, A. T. Boyd, C. J. Jeans, T. G. Roberts, R. P. Allen, Dr. J. L. Campbell, C. T. McClure, Walter Cook, A. T. Bartlett, J. J. Reid, W. H. Nance, R. D. Manning, C. B. Gladdin, and Misses Melissa Johnson, Amie Rae, Ruby Nance and Mrs. May Scriven and Mrs. Sarah Belle Isle, all of the home demonstration office.

Policeman Friend Is Beneficiary In Will of 'Mandy,' Dead at 70

A policeman, standing in Judge John D. Humphries' courtroom Friday, solemnly identified his signature on a piece of paper. The brief ceremony attracted no attention. The court, concerned with many things, turned to other business.

To Byron Benson, of 564 Candler street, who has been a member of the police department for 23 years, the signature, and the cross mark above it, recalled an afternoon more than two decades ago when he, a young railroader then, limped into Mandy Pannell's little store at 592 Marietta street and almost collapsed. He had cut his foot to the bone. Mandy, who knew no favorites in those days, who mothered everybody in the neighborhood who needed mothering and some who didn't, put young Byron Benson in a horse cab and sent him to a doctor.

That was the beginning. For 15 years Benson stopped at Mandy's little store every morning, on his way to town. Nobody in the neighborhood knew Mandy's age. She sold soft drinks, tobacco and odds and ends in one room, kept canned goods stored in another, ate in another and slept in a third.

Friday was the end. The signature Benson identified was his signature, and the cross mark was Mandy Pannell's, who couldn't read or write. The piece of paper was Irish Mandy's will. She died early Tuesday morning, sitting in a rocking chair in her storehome on Marietta street, just a little while after Mr. Benson left after being with her nearly all night. She was about 70 years of age. She left nobody, unless it was Mr. Benson, and Willie Reisman, who operates the Star Provision Company next door and had been her friend for many years.

Mandy wanted a real nice funeral. She could count on Mr. Benson, for he had called to see her at least three times each week during 23 years. She had done pretty well in a business way during the war, but the depression hit her pretty hard. There are a lot of people in the neighborhood who know that Mandy gave a deal of credit the last few years.

But Mr. Benson, who looked out for her, and took a hot meal from his wife's kitchen once or twice a week, could be depended on to give her a nice funeral, so Mandy, about six years ago, made a will. She named her friend, Mr. Benson, the only beneficiary and put her mark on it. She told Mr. Reisman about it.

She didn't leave much. Mr. Reisman took charge of the little store when she died. He found about $30 in a box. Folk in the neighborhood, knowing how hard Mandy worked, imagined she had money hid away but four old trunks in which she kept her clothes and trinkets did not reveal any.

Mandy had a nice funeral. Her friends met at the chapel of Harry G. Poole at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and the Rev. G. W. Cox preached a sermon. There were pallbearers. Then the body was taken to Casey's cemetery, and laid beside two little graves. Many years ago Mandy Pannell had twin boys who died.

She wanted a tombstone at her head. Policeman Benson, the only beneficiary under Mandy's will, is going to see that she has one.

STALIN, LEADERS VIEW RUSSIA'S RED ARMY

MOSCOW, Feb. 9.—(UP)—One of the greatest military demonstrations in the history of soviet Russia was held in the Red Square here today as an impressive display of the national armed strength.

Thousands of stalwart troops in the Red army passed in review before delegates to the communist party congress, in session here. The delegates, from the far corners of the Russian domain, cheered as the column moved along.

The demonstrations brought home to the delegates the recent vast technical and mechanical improvement in the Red army. It showed over 500 tanks, heavy, tractor-drawn artillery and anti-aircraft equipment.

The troops massed before the Kremlin, bands blaring martial tunes. The various bands totaled 2,000 instruments.

Josef Stalin, Premier Viacheslav Molotov and other national leaders appeared on top of Lenin's tomb, reviewing the display. As the Kremlin clock chimed noon, War Commissar Klementi Voroshilov mounted a charger, dashed through the Red Square and drew up to salute Stalin.

The bands, joined by the mighty chorus, played the "Internationale," soviet Russia's anthem.

Voroshilov joined Stalin on top of the tomb, and addressed the army.

"We remain true to the idea of general peace," he said, "but would not be true disciples of Lenin, the fighter, if we were not always ready to guard our frontiers.

"The Red army assures the congress of the communist party that its warriors as one man are ready to protect the soviet union."

The parade of infantry, artillery, tanks, aviation and cavalry units took two hours to pass the Kremlin in a vast, colorful display. The troops were constantly cheered and applauded, especially by Red veterans of Russia's civil war.

The diplomatic corps, foreign military attaches and other dignitaries reviewed the display.

STUDENTS AT DUKE DEMAND CONTROL OF OWN AFFAIRS

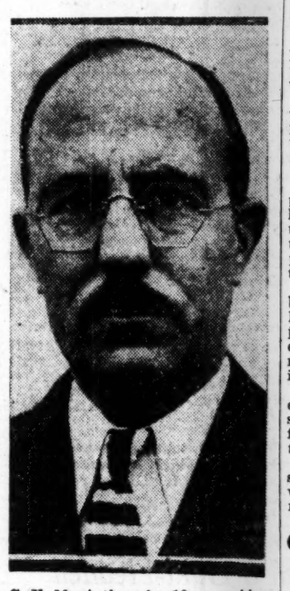

DURHAM, N. C., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Demands of the Duke student body that its organizations be freed from faculty control were considered today by university officials.

In a mass meeting the undergraduates demanded that the student government association be given authority to try all minor offenses, that policies of university publications be left with student editors and that the Pan-Hellenic council receive authority to handle all fraternal affairs. They also asked Sunday tennis and swimming privileges and better food at the student union.

A committee of students and faculty members was named to make an investigation and recommend changes in administration policy.

Dean W. H. Wannamaker's action in overruling a fine levied by the Pan-Hellenic council on a fraternity for alleged violation of rushing rules brought the issue of student autonomy to a head.

With Freitag Agency

S. V. MacArthur, for 10 years identified as an advertising executive in the local field, has joined the Freitag Advertising Agency, Inc. He has been appointed special representative in connection with the Pure Oil advertising account of the agency in the southeast. Advertising in its various forms is in for a fine year, Joseph V. Freitag, president of the agency, predicted. His agency personnel has been expanded, Mr. Freitag added, and he cited a single appropriation from one of his clients for six months which is in excess of $900,000.

Lumber Body Urges Forest Conservation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Rules long sought by conservationists to preserve the nation's lumber supply were adopted today by the lumber code authority and sent to President Roosevelt for his approval.

"Foresters and lumbermen alike pointed out today," the authority's said, "that, as with so many other projects under Preside Roosevelt, what has been for generations a subject of harmless conversation or academic dissertation has become a reality enforceable by the authority of the government."

The basic rules for the country as a whole:

Protection of standing timber and young timber from fire and other destructive forces.

Prevention of damage to young trees during logging operations.

Boy, 9, Gains 29 Cents On Warm Springs Gifts

TONAWANDA, N. Y., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Sending the 21 pennies he had saved on the president's birthday to Mr. Roosevelt for the Warm Springs Foundation fund was both sweet charity and good business for Jimmy Heller, 9.

Now Jimmy has a personal letter from the president, who called him "My Dear Jimmie" and he has a 50-cent piece in the bank. A doctor who heard about the letter demanded to see it, and paid for the privilege.

F.D.R. Economic Policy Is Lauded by Firestone

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 9.—(AP) Business conditions generally have taken a decided upward swing, Harvey S. Firestone declared here tonight.

Paying tribute to President Roosevelt for his economic rehabilitation program, the wealthy tire manufacturer characterized the chief executive as "a man who saw that something had to be done, and did it."

"I think he has done a splendid piece of work," said Firestone. "He has shown courage and initiative and the important thing to remember is that the success of the plan now depends on the attitude and spirit of the people."

Properly balanced agriculture, labor and industry, the stabilized dollar and an "inevitable" increase in prices, coupled with returning confidence, said the tire magnate, are the main highways along which America is traveling back to prosperity.

Keeping agriculture, labor and industry properly balanced, is vital, he said, adding that too much legislation for one group would lead to difficulties.

Speaking of the dollar, Firestone said that "anything which tends toward stabilization is beneficial to business."

COLDEST WEATHER OF SEASON GRIPS NORTH AND EAST

England and transportation was hampered. The coldest spot in Canada was White River, Ontario, with 52 below.

Washington temperature rose only 15 degrees during the day, and in New York the mercury's rise was halted at 5 above. The weather was moderating west of the Mississippi.

Relief agencies in the stricken areas did their utmost to relieve the additional suffering.

Friday's temperatures in the south reported late Friday were: Raleigh, 17; Norfolk, 10; Nashville, 32; Chattanooga, 44; Jacksonville, 45; New Orleans, 69; Washington, 9; Charlotte, 25; Memphis, 34 and Macon 40.

Friday's minimum temperature in Atlanta was 39, which rose to 42 by mid-afternoon, and then began to fall. Zero and below-zero temperatures extended Friday as far south as Virginia and Kentucky.

4TH CORPS OFFICE TO BE MOVED HERE

already are maintaining residence in the city.

The removal downtown was recommended by General Moseley shortly after he assumed command at Atlanta last month, succeeding the late Major General Edward L. King. The move has received widespread indorsement not only in Atlanta, but all over the corps area, which stretches from Virginia to Texas, because thousands of people who go to Atlanta to visit the headquarters find it difficult to reach Fort McPherson, which is only one of more than a score of posts comprising the corps.

Fourth corps headquarters were located downtown for about six years immediately after the World War. For a time they were located in the Red Rock building and later moved to the Hurt building. The move to Fort McPherson was made in 1925 for economy reasons.

The corps area was organized in 1919, replacing the old southeastern department of the army which had its headquarters at Charleston, S. C.

President's Message Asks Stock Control

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Following is the text of President Roosevelt's message to congress on legislation for control of security exchanges.

To the Congress:

In my message to you last March proposing legislation for federal supervision of national traffic in investment securities I said:

"This is but one step in our broad purpose of protecting investors and depositors. It should be followed by legislation relating to the better supervision of the purchase and sale of all property dealt with on exchanges."

This congress has performed a useful service in regulating the investment business on the part of financial houses and in protecting the investing public in its acquisition of securities.

There remains the fact, however, that outside the field of legitimate investment, naked speculation has been made far too aluring and far too easy for those who could and for those who could not afford to gamble.

Such speculation has run the scale from the individual who has risked his pay envelope or his meager savings on margin transaction involving stocks with whose true value he was wholly unfamiliar, to the pool of individuals or corporations with large resources, often not their own, which sought by manipulation to raise or depress market quotations far out of line with reason, all of this resulting in loss to the average investor, who is of necessity personally uninformed.

The exchanges in many parts of the country which deal in securities and commodities conduct, of course, a national business because their customers live in every part of the country. The managers of these exchanges have, it is true, often taken steps to correct certain obvious abuses. We must be certain that abuses are eliminated and to this end a broad policy of national regulation is required.

It is my belief that exchanges for dealing in securities and commodities are necessary and of definite value to our commercial and agricultural life. Nevertheless, it should be our national policy to restrict, as far as possible, the use of these exchanges for purely speculative operations.

I therefore recommend to the congress the enactment of legislation providing for the regulation by the federal government of the operations of exchanges dealing in securities and commodities for the protection of investors, for the safeguarding of values, and so far as it may be possible, for the elimination of unnecessary, unwise and destructive speculation.

Principal Provisions Of Stock Market Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Provision of the stock market bill introduced today:

Regulation of all stock exchanges by the federal trade commission.

Registration of all exchanges and all securities listed on them with the commission.

A minimum requirement for a 60 per cent margin on all exchange transactions.

Outlawry of price manipulations by making them criminal offenses.

Prohibitions against short selling and stop-loss orders except under commission regulation.

Compulsory disclosure of transactions by officers, directors or principal stockholders in the securities of a corporation and a prohibition against short selling or speculation by them in the securities.

A requirement that brokers keep complete records of transactions, open to inspection by the commission.

Penalties for violations up to $25,000 or imprisonment for 10 years, for individuals or companies; $500,000 for exchanges.

Man 'Taken for Ride' In Own Car, Robbed

V. A. Lambert, of 556 Robinson avenue, S. E., reported to the police Friday night that three white men held him up while he sat in his automobile on Central avenue, near Hunter street, early in the evening, forced him to drive 15 miles out on the Cambellton road and robbed him of $15.70 and his watch and took his car.

Two of the men had pistols, Lambert said, adding that he made his way back to the city from Constitution, Ga., after the men drove off.

Two L. W. Rogers Company stores reported hold-ups Friday night. The police questioned whether both robberies were perpetrated by the same two young white men. N. P. Redd, manager of a store at 925 Oak street, reported that he was robbed of $31.17, and D. B. Beverly, manager of a store on Glenwood avenue, reported that two white men held him up and took $200 from him. The robberies occurred within an hour.

Anti-Injunction Bill Is Passed by Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The senate today passed the Johnson bill to prohibit public utilities from petitioning federal district courts to enjoin rate orders of state public service commissions. It now goes to the house.

The controversial measure, which some republicans had assailed as discriminatory and an invasion of private rights, was approved without a record vote after pending before the senate several years.

Supporters of the legislation, including Senator Johnson, republican, California, and Norris, republican, Nebraska, contended its enactment was necessary to prevent federal courts from blocking rate decisions of state regulatory bodies for "interminable periods."

Senator Austin, republican, Vermont, and other opponents said it tended toward confiscation of private property and government ownership of utilities.

Georgia Woman Dies Of Auto Crash Hurts

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Mrs. R. L. English, 76, of Oglethorpe, Ga., died tonight in a Homestead hospital of injuries suffered today when the automobile in which she was riding with three other women overturned on the highway south of here.

Mrs. M. M. Lawrence, of Damascus, Ga., suffered a fractured collarbone, and the other two, both Homestead residents, escaped with minor injuries. Mrs. English received internal injuries.

Cary Grant, Virginia Cherrill Wed in London Amid Mix-Ups

LONDON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Virginia Cherrill and Cary Grant were married today—and the proceedings were just as confused as as though the couple was playing, as usual, before movie cameras.

The two film stars proved months of rumors correct by appearing at the Caxton Hall registry office and exchanging vows before a registrar.

They made their appearance, however, in relays.

Grant showed up without his fiancee. He telephoned. She arrived. they were wed.

And then they got separated all over again as they set out for Plymouth, the liner Paris, New York and Hollywood.

Each had stepped into different taxi cabs, but the error was soon rectified.

"We are both very happy," said Grant, who is a native of Bristol, England, after the simple ceremony.

"Now we are going straight to Hollywood," he added. "We have got to get back to work."

"We intended to get married quite awhile ago, but my illness prevented that," Grant said. "I am getting better now." He referred to a recent operation for an internal complaint resulting from an injury received when a bomb burst prematurely during the filming of a picture in Hollywood last March.

Grant's wedding attire was somewhat irregular, according to London custom he appeared without a hat but, nevertheless, wore a dark brown scarf with his beige tweed suit. The bride wore a close-fitting suit of yellow and black checks, a bright yellow scarf, a smallish hat over her golden hair, and a sable coat.

2,000 Atlanta Boy Scouts To Hear Radio Speech by Roosevelt Today

The largest gathering of Scouts in the history of Atlanta will take place this morning when more than 2,000 members of the 124 troops will meet at the Fox theater to hear a radio address by President Roosevelt and talks by Governor Talmadge, Mayor Key and Dr. Louie D. Newton, as a part of the national celebration of the 24th anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scouts of America.

The program will begin at 10:30 o'clock this morning and the president's speech will be heard from 11 to 11:30 o'clock. Roosevelt will issue a special call to the Scouts of America to aid in the administration's program, but the subject has not been announced.

Addresses by Governor Talmadge, Mayor Key and Dr. Newton will be broadcast over WGST from 11:30 to 12 o'clock. Dr. Newton, who is pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church, will speak on "What Price Citizenship." A quartet from his church will sing on the broadcast.

Thirty Atlanta troops will be awarded President Roosevelt streamers at the beginning of the exercises as a reward for general excellence in Scout work. W. A. Dobson, Scout executive of the Atlanta council of the Boy Scouts of America, announced Friday night. Dr. Herman L. Turner, pastor of the Covenant Presbyterian church, will speak on this part of the program. He is president of the Atlanta council of Scouts.

Dr. Turner announced Friday that many Atlanta churches will have special Scout services Sunday morning and night. The pastors will preach sermons commemorating the 24th anniversary observance and lauding the Boy Scout movement.

Dr. E. Bates Block Is Paid Tribute As Portrait Is Unveiled at Emory

A eulogy of the late Dr. Edward Bates Block, noted Atlanta physician, who died last year, was delivered Friday night by Dr. Charles N. B. Camac, assistant professor of medicine in the Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons, in an address incident to the unveiling of an oil portrait of Dr. Block at the Emory University hospital.

The portrait, painted by Albert Salzbrenner, was presented to the medical school of Emory University by Edward Bates Block Jr., and Julia Lowry Block, children of the former professor of neurology and psychiatry at the medical school.

The picture will hang in the lobby of the hospital beside the portraits of other men who were leaders in the development of the school. Dr. Russell H. Oppenheimer, head of the Emory medical school, made the speech of acceptance and other speakers were Dr. Richard B. Wilson, Dr. Lewis M. Gaines and Dr. J. Sproyle Lyons.

Dr. Camac, who was for many years a personal friend of Dr. Block, praised the Atlanta doctor for his contributions to medicine in an address titled "Edward Bates Block, His Life and Influence." The two were associates at Johns Hopkins hospital for several years before Dr. Block came to Atlanta in 1900.

"Dr. Block's influence in the world of medicine began when he was an interne at Johns Hopkins," Dr. Camac said. "He introduced into the United States the Widal typhoid agglutination tests and in later years wrote many books and articles relating to neurology and psychiatry which are of great value to the profession."

Dr. Block was assistant to the famous physician, Sir William Osler, while at Johns Hopkins.

Inside Lobbying Ban Ordered by Johnson

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—NRA clamped down tonight on inside lobbying, barring by general order all former excutives and employes from ever appearing before the recovery unit on behalf of industries with which their official duties brought them into contact.

The rigid rule was calculated to prevent any lesser officials from using code negotiations to make for themselves well-paid berths in return for lenient handling of an industry's demand, and "to avoid" any possible appearance of improper conduct.

A few former officials who already have left their NRA jobs to take places on code authoritaies will have their new posts knocked out from under them by the order. Not even letters will be accepted from them.

The action was taken in answer to developing questions of private connections held by NRA men, and coincided with a declaration by Hugh S. Johnson, that he had no fear of investigation into these connections. He said he intended to submit all data on the point to Senator Nye, republican, North Dakota, who now has a resolution asking for it pending before the senate.

Doctors Give Creosote For Chest Colds

For many years our best doctors have prescribed creosote in some form for coughs, colds and bronchitis, knowing how dangerous it is to let them hang on.

Creomulsion with creosote and six other highly important medicinal elements, quickly and effectively stops coughs and colds that otherwise might lead to serious trouble.

Creomulsion is powerful in the treatment of colds and coughs, yet it is absolutely harmless and is pleasant and easy to take.

Your own druggist guarantees Creomulsion by refunding your money if you are not relieved after taking Creomulsion as directed. Beware the cough or cold that hangs on. Always keep Creomulsion on hand for instant use.

GEORGIA'S PRISON A MODEL.

There will be general gratification that the final contract between the federal and state governments, under which a magnificent new prison will be constructed in Georgia with federal funds, has been approved in Washington and forwarded to Georgia for the signature of state officials.

No achievement of Governor Talmadge deserves warmer commendation than that which will give to Georgia the most advanced state convict system in the Union.

Heretofore the convicts of the state have been apportioned out among the counties, many of which have not wanted them and turned them back to the state, which has had inadequate provision for their proper care and safekeeping.

Under the plan which the governor has carried to successful conclusion, all convicts not wanted by the counties will be concentrated in a great prison and farm to be located in Tattnall county. There the convicts will raise food and feedstuffs that will supply all of the public institutions of the state. The saving thus effected will be enough to largely pay the federal government the annual amount necessary to amortize the loan for the new prison.

The completion of the new prison will mark the beginning of a new era in the handling of convicts in Georgia. The state prison commission, composed of able and outstanding Georgians, has done the best it could under existing conditions, but it has been handicapped by an archaic system for which it was not responsible. The board in charge of no other state department has been more painstaking or earnest in its efforts. It has had to get the best results obtainable under the working tools provided by the state. That it has done as well as it has is a tribute to the zeal and the ability with which the members of the commission have discharged their duties.

The new plan will make the Georgia convict system a model for the Union.

THE INSTITUTE OF CITIZENSHIP.

Probably none of the institutes of citizenship held at Emory University in the past has had a more varied program nor more outstanding speakers than the one which will be held next week, starting Monday and continuing through Friday.

Among the widely known speakers will be such men as Dr. Linley V. Gordon, of the World Alliance for Friendship Through the Churches, of New York; M. Pierre de Lanux, director of the League of Nations office, Paris; Miss Lucy Mason, of the Consumers' Research, New York; Hon. Chester McCall, assistant to Secretary of Commerce Roper, and Dr. Stuart Rice, assistant director of the census bureau.

Both domestic and international problems affecting the welfare of the world will be discussed by these and other speakers, and there will in addition be held a number of round-table discussions, under the direction of men familiar with world affairs.

These annual institutes of citizenship under the auspices of Emory University offer rare opportunity to learn not only the high points of problems prominent in world affairs, but their intimate details and relationship to the welfare of the people of all nations.

They are an important addition to the educational advantages offered by Atlanta and should receive the cordial support of the city.

SAITO'S STATEMENT APPROVED.

The statement in London of Hiroshi Saito, new Japanese ambassador to the United States, of his government's desire for the friendship of this country, has served a good purpose in counteracting the recent eruptions of the jingo elements in both the United States and Japan.

The new ambassador frankly states in his interview that "Japan's greatest concern is to establish relationships of sincerest understanding with the United States."

That the statement reflects the sentiment of the Japanese government and people is attested by his selection to fill the Washington ambassadorship, the most important in the Japanese diplomatic corps. He is American educated, has served for 20-odd years in the Japanese consular and diplomatic service in this country and has a large circle of warm American friends.

The Japanese government generally gives important diplomatic posts only to men of long experience and advanced age, and it is known that the comparatively young Saito was chosen because of the belief that he is best qualified, because of his intimate knowledge of American conditions, to aid in preserving the friendly relations between the two nations.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer, a leading newspaper of the middle west, is particularly pleased at Ambassador Saito's expression, not only because it elaborates the recent expression of good will by Foreign Minister Hirota, but because of its contrasting tone to "the expressions of a year or more ago when Japan, engaged in her greatest imperialistic enterprise, as much as told the rest of the world to mind its own business." Our Ohio contemporary points out that—

> It is much more agreeable to deal with a smiling neighbor than with one who frowns. If the chip is not on the shoulder there is no danger of knocking it off by some awkward or inadvertent motion. It is hard to talk reasonably in the presence of a doubled fist, but not hard at all to discuss almost any topic with someone who says you are a good fellow.

In considering the attitude of Japan towards the United States we should remember that in the entire history of the relations between the two countries, the Nipponese have always been "smiling neighbors," with the exception of the period immediately following the inexcusable and diplomatically blundering communications sent to the Japanese government by Secretary of State Stimson. Had we followed the wise example of Great Britain and kept out of a mess that was none of our affair, there would not have grown up among some Japanese cliques the natural resentment that has since been expressed in a less cordial attitude towards us.

Another influential American newspaper, the Portland Oregonian, published in the section where the jingo element some years ago was the strongest, is of the opinion that "there is no real imminent conflict of interest or ambition between ourselves and the Japanese. In trade they are among our good customers and we are among theirs; they ought also to be among our good friends and we among theirs."

Such expressions coming from the American press and undoubtedly representing the opinion of the vast majority of the American people, are reassuring and encouraging especially in that they follow so shortly after the latest effort—which has evidently proven abortive—of the jingoes of this country and of Japan to stir up trouble between the two nations.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

"Impressionism."

Funny how people will try to impress you with their dignity or merits or even with their ancestors. Every European train is a show in that respect. They come in taking good care that you get a good look at that splendid leather valise. Nonchalantly, like born dukes, they fling their cloaks in the baggage net, fold their legs and pull their gloves on and off.

At one of the stations a few miles out of Paris a man with a decided flair for showing off entered my compartment. Somehow we got into conversation. He offered me a cigaret with a gold crown on it. I never smoke that vile paper stuff, but the coronet intrigued me. "D'Harcourt," I read on it. A historic name, I mused to myself. There was a Duke d'Harcourt once who came to Flanders with that great rush prepared by the French king to crush the life out of the country. He fought gallantly, but the Flemings fought better. They stripped the golden spurs off him and the mail-coat of beaten silver after his glorious death and hung it in the town hall of the little community where I was born. There it hung from 1326 onward until the Germans blew the town hall up in 1914, after first shipping the treasures home, no doubt.

Well, he was a Duke d'Harcourt, my travel companion. At least he said so. He talked of his estate, his horses, his travels in glamorous foreign lands, bored-like, condescendingly. And we parted the best of friends, although in my mind there lingered a suspicion of vulgarity. He really wanted to tell too much. Hadn't seen wrong either.

Three days after having suddenly been seized by a violent toothache on the street, I entered a bar to drink something sharp to check the pain. A man with toothache will do anything. He is desperate. "Give me a 'Fine Napoleon,'" I said to the barkeep and only then looked him in the face. It was my travel companion of a few days before. The toothache vanished as by magic.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

BREATHE WITH YOUR BELLY AND LIVE.

Normal young adults have only a limited chest expansion, perhaps 1 1-2 inches. Individuals who have a chest expansion of more than 2 inches have learned by practice to contract the pectoral and shoulder girdle muscles to achieve the freak effect. They have no greater vital capacity, that is, total air capacity of the lungs, than have other individuals who have never practiced this quaint stunt.

Chestiness, a tradition of old time trainers and nineteenth century soldiers, has gone out of fashion along with the notion that athletes required more meat than ordinary folk and the notion that strength, agility or endurance can be rubbed in.

Physicians have discarded the tape measure in the examination of the chest, and nowadays the doctor measures the chest expansion only when filling out an examination blank for some shoddy insurance company or a civil service rite.

The right way to breathe, for good health, good looks and efficiency, is the natural way. That is belly breathing.

We are not talking about "deep breathing." People who stress that are generally ignorant of the physiology of breathing. So are people who talk about "diaphragmatic breathings."

The purpose of conscious breathing exercise is not to get more oxygen into your blood, for you can't do that by breathing alone. The main purpose of belly breathing is to boost your circulation.

Some general suggestions.

Never think of your breathing except at the time you do your belly breathing exercise.

Observe a sleeping person breathing. That's belly breathing.

Each night when you get to bed lie supine, knees flexed, one hand resting on belly. Through open mouth draw a slow, full even breath and notice how the hand rises as the bellows expands. No straining. Hold the breath a moment, then let the bellows deflate passively, like an inflated rubber bag, and notice how the hand sinks. Repeat this from six to a dozen times at the seance. By that time you'll probably be dozing off to sleep. It has a remarkable tranquilizing effect.

Belly breathing is helpful for poor circulation, weak heart, asthma, chronic gall-bladder and liver troubles, functional maladies of women, varicose veins, high blood pressure, insomnia and cold feet both actual and figurative.

Ark. Girl Nominated Junior League Head

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Miss Elizabeth T. Taylor, of Little Rock, Ark., was nominated for president of the Association of Junior Leagues at a meeting of the board of directors today. The annual meeting will be held at Toronto in May.

News Behind the News

By Paul Mallon.

INITIATIVE WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Mr. Roosevelt put over another fast one on the inside in this current war department scandal talk.

The first hint that some of the army contracts were not on the level came at a secret meeting of the house appropriations subcommittee. Certain army officials whispered their suspicions to committee members.

At the same time a republican newspaper here got a tip on the situation. It spent a week digging up the facts. But just when it was ready to publish the story Mr. Roosevelt and the war department announced it.

Previously house democrats and some war officials slipped up to the White House and whispered in Mr. Roosevelt's ear.

That enabled him to take the initiative instead of having a republican source get credit for it.

TALK That makes a bigger difference than you suspect. It has been followed up by war department whispers that the old republican administration is responsible for the situation.

These whispers come from democratic officials and may be discounted for that reason at the present time. But if half of them are true, the biggest story is yet to come. Do not bank on that. Some of the inside stories indicate much of the evidence is inconclusive.

For instance, some army officers say that a contractor staged poker parties for some of their colleagues, that the stakes were heavy and that the officers always won.

CARS More indicative of possible grafting methods is the experience of a certain army captain.

This captain says he was driving to work a year or so ago. His automobile was smashed by a larger car occupied by a negro chauffeur. The chauffeur said the car was owned by a certain contractor doing business with the war department, whose name meant nothing to the captain because he was not connected with the contract end of war department business.

Later that day the captain was called on the telephone by a war department superior who turned his end of the telephone line over to the contrator, owner of the larger car.

The contractor laughingly asked if the captain's car was badly damaged. The captain replied that it was and he intended to get damages.

The contractor laughed again and said: "Don't worry about that. How would you like a new car?"

The captain replied he only wanted damages. The contractor told him to do whatever he chose and send the bill.

The repairs cost less than the captain thought they would, so he decided to pay them himself.

CONCLUSIONS There can be no question about the accuracy of this story, because the accident was reported both to an insurance company and the police by the captain. But it is only circumstantial evidence.

Undoubtedly, most of the firms doing contract business with the war department are reputable. They did not need to stoop to graft to get the business.

Also the army has an enviable reputation of its own in such matters.

Another thing is that only about 150 trucks have already been purchased under the new $10,000,000 allotment for motorization. Bids have been asked on about 2,000 more.

Most of the 150 were bought from reputable companies, not even suspected of graft.

So it seems that one contractor may bear the brunt of the attack, and that his past, rather than his present, activities will be the basis.

SCOOP The joke is on Senator Fletcher.

As chairman of the stock market investigators he has taken extreme precaution to prevent Wall Streeters from finding out what he intends to do.

The other day a newsman employed by a Wall Street agency was told by a friend that Fletcher had a statement ready at his office regarding stock market legislation. The newsman called at Fletcher's office and was handed several memoes and letters.

Reading them over outside he found that they contained all Fletcher's confidential views as to what the stock market regulation should contain.

Fletcher's office had given him the wrong statement.

CONSCIENCE These confidential papers were drawn by Fletcher for his legislative drafting adviser. The adviser happened to have the same last name as the newsman. So when the newsman gave his name at Fletcher's office, the clerk there apparently thought he was the adviser.

The newsman debated with his conscience for a while and then decided to forfeit the best scoop he had ever had. He took the papers back to Fletcher and did not publish them.

Fletcher was wild. Publication would have cost the clerk his job and accomplished no good.

NOTES War Secretary Dern is complaining privately that terror-stricken contractors are circulating rumors about him resigning because they want to crowd him out to cover up something. If he is resigning, he does not know it yet.

The current embarrassed look on the face of President Green, of the A. F. of L., is due to the fact that he had to change his position about the election of officials to the labor board. If he had held his ground, a radical anti-A. F. of L. official would have been elected from the fur industry in New York.

Green paid only $2 for most of that communist literature he presented to the White House recently. He bought it at a bookstore here.

Wall Streeters are trying privately to convince the administration that the recent recession in stocks was caused by a threat of stock market legislation. That is a laugh. The truth is that the market was going too high and too fast and the Wall Streeters decided to sell so they could buy later at reduced prices and get ready for another rise which will go even higher.

A certain telegraph company has a new scheme for promoting influence on congress. It is circulating pamphlets containing blank canned messages to be sent to legislators. One is "Cannot commend (criticize) you too strongly for your attitude on —— legislation."

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Red-Headed Daughter

By Robert Quillen

My Dear Louise:

Do you sometimes wonder why home sapiens continually nags at his young?

ROBERT QUILLEN.

It may be a mixture of conscience, sense of duty and parental vanity; I don't profess to know. But I can tell you why I persist in trying to wean you from a fault.

I have eaten some bitter fruit. And if I see you about to set your teeth in the same bitterness, isn't it the part of good sportsmanship to warn you?

I stepped into your room yesterday, just after you had left it. You had dressed in haste and the result was shipwreck—shoes here and there, stockings on the floor, toilet articles and gimcracks scattered everywhere.

A mess, you will say, but easily mended. Ten minutes of industry would set everything to rights. But that isn't the point.

Suppose you observe two girls walking down the street—one with bowed shoulders, almost dragging her feet, the other moving rapidly, chin up and eyes alight, humming a tune as merry as the tattoo of her heels on the pavement.

Or suppose two girls, driving cars, meet the same emergency. One turns the wheel, clamps the brakes and cuts the switch; the other throws up her hands, shuts her eyes and screams.

Why the difference? The girls have different minds. Their physical movements are symptoms of their mental state.

That, of course, is obvious. Your hands don't move until your mind directs them. Practice gives your fingers skill on the piano keys, but they could produce nothing but discordant sounds without the guidance of a trained mind.

Now do you see what your room signifies? Your hands didn't make that mess. Your mind directed every movement. And the room is a portrait of your mind—disordered, careless, irresponsible, thoughtless.

It works both ways, my dear. Scattered wits prompt your hands to scatter belongings; but teach your hands to be neat and orderly in all they do, and Lo! your mind gets the habit, also, and your wits no longer tangle when you need them.

It isn't a little matter, Honey. All of your affairs will stay in a mess if your mind has the habit of making messes.

Love, DAD.

SAWMILL OPERATORS TO NAME CODE GROUP

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Operators of small sawmills in eastern Florida and ten southeastern Georgia counties will meet here tomorrow to elect a regional code advisory committee to represent the section on the southern pine lumber code administration committees.

A regional committee of six is to be chosen and an additional group of three will be selected to confer with a similar committee from west Florida.

MORE WITNESSES TELL OF 'RACKET'

Authorities Plan To Probe Arrest of 14 Negro CWA Workers.

While witnesses continued to pour into the office of the solicitor-general volunteering statements as to alleged irregularities in relief administration and abuses by recipients of relief, several new matters developed Friday which will be investigated by authorities, including the arrest of 14 negro CWA workers, three of whom were fined $12 each in police court Friday.

Following the special session of Fulton county grand jury Thursday, at which time about 75 witnesses were examined during the course of its probe of relief conditions, a warning was sent out to merchants by Irving S. Nathan, attorney for Fulton county relief administration, enjoining them to observe strict scrutiny when filling relief orders; police were called to "keep in line" persons applying for relief at 23 Pryor street, the administration headquarters; and the United States postoffice department was said to have launched an investigation of one complaint that a CWA payment had been stolen in a manner involving the mails.

Although the grand jury investigation is still under way, no announcement has been made as to whether the probe will continue beyond next Tuesday's session, or whether the entire matter will be referred to the federal government as a matter without the jurisdiction of Fulton county. Clerks in the solicitor-general's office, however, were busy compiling a mass of evidence produced before the grand jury Thursday, and it is generally understood that all testimony will be turned over to United State District Attorney Lawrence Camp.

With the warning to merchants issued Friday, it is expected that many irregularities will be eliminated. In his letter, which was sent to all merchants for whom the relief administration has cashed orders, Nathan admonished them that they must exercise the same care in filling relief orders as they would exercise in cashing a check.

Nathan said that orders have been altered in reported instances by "raising" the amounts, and by changing the name of the payee, and that these alterations may be made either by the person originally receiving the order or by the merchant cashing it. Under new rules, strict regard to all regulations will be required. The merchant must know that the person presenting the order is the one to whom it was issued and must insert on the back of the order a list of all articles purchased, with the price of each item.

The relief administration is no more responsible, Nathan explained, for the payment of orders which have been altered than it would be in the case of an altered check. The attorney warned merchants that in future any order so altered will not be honored when presented for payment.

Mr. Nathan Friday was making a thorough investigation of the arrest of the negro CWA workers. The alleged ringleaders fined were J. D. Tyler, William Julks and Frank Clark. The arrest of the men followed alleged circulation of a petition asking the dismissal of the foreman under whom the men were working.

COMMITTEE BACKS COTTON PURCHASE

out there would be virtually no expense for the members of this board as one member will come from the federal relief administration, one from the agriculture extension service and one from the agricultural adjustment administration. The top salary for any additional employes was fixed at $3,600 annually.

This board would use the $150,000,000 appropriation to distribute cotton and cotton products to needy persons in much the same manner as wheat, pork and other food stuffs are now being distributed by the federal surplus relief corporation.

Distribution direct to the needy would be through state and local relief organizations and persons would be taught the home manufacture of cotton articles by county farm agents.

K. Southland, executive officer of the surplus relief organization, said his organization would be able to "cooperate" in every way with the plan he said it would be necessary to "be careful" not to interfere with normal commercial sales.

NEGRO ARRESTED IN SCOTT KILLING

officers and told them of Scott's last words that he had turned around after being wounded and had recognized his wife's brother, it was said.

The officers took him into custody at 11 o'clock Friday morning on a train as he arrived in the city from Birmingham. They said he was "deadheading" his way.

Maddox is a brother of Scott's fourth wife, whom he married secretly last October. The wedding was not announced, however, until December, when the publisher of the Atlanta World, only negro daily newspaper in the world, and his bride went on a honeymoon to Cuba.

An inquest is scheduled to be held this morning by Coroner Paul Donehoo to probe the circumstances surrounding Scott's death. The negro journalist was wounded Tuesday night, January 29, and died a week later at a hospital. He was shot, according to police, as he was locking the doors of his garage. His assailant fired at him four times from the rear, two bullets striking Scott in the back.

Detectives said Maddox came to Atlanta from Chicago the afternoon before the shooting and left town the next day for Birmingham. Domestic troubles were thought to have motivated the shooting, the officers asserted.

Scott edited and published the World and 50 other papers and owned the Scott Newspaper Syndicate. He was a graduate of Morehouse College, where he was a star football player.

Comment at the Capital

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

Federal Legislation Sought To Supply Operating Capital for Small Business.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Intermediate credit for the small businessman at last.

Ever since the depression started, many businessmen needing operating capital have been making futile endeavors to raise money either to keep themselves going or to finance pay rolls as an increased volume of business appeared in sight.

DAVID LAWRENCE.

Various plans have been urged and suggested. There are pending in congress a half dozen bills. The Roosevelt administration has about decided to approve a plan which will not set the government up in the banking business but will enable the government, in partnership with the banks, to supply legitimate needs for intermediate credit or what the banks heretofore have always classified as capital loans.

The idea is for congress to authorize the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to guarantee 80 per cent of the dollar amount of loans made by banks for capital purposes, provided the banks themselves take the responsibility for the remaining 20 per cent.

In other words, if a small business needs $10,000, whether for capital or for any other operation that seems sound, and will, in the judgment of a local bank, appear to be certain of repayment over a period of time, the government will stand ready to take 80 per cent of the responsibility any time the bank in question wants to convert the note of the business in question into cash. This means a chance to become liquid to the extent of 80 per cent of such loans overnight.

The plan is to allow the banks to approve all loans up to $25,000 without referring the matter to Washington, provided of course certain rules and regulations to be set up by the R. F. C. are followed. Any loans above $25,000 would have to be approved at the R. F. C. in Washington.

The advantage of the plan, which in its essential features is covered in a bill proposed by Representative Hamilton Fish, of New York, is that the government does not have to employ a separate machinery for the investigation of the credit condition of businesses and, also, there is no opportunity for political pressure such as might have been the case with a direct lending system.

Mr. Fish's bill, which is shortly to be considered by the house banking and currency committee, provides that the loans should be made only by banks which are members of the federal reserve system. It limits the total amount to about $1,000,000,000 and stipulates that 50 per cent of this sum shall be used for loans ranging from $1,000 to $25,000 and about 33 1-3 per cent of the money shall be loaned in amounts from $25,000 to $100,000 and that the remainder, namely 16 2-3 per cent, shall take care of the loans above $100,000.

To avoid becoming mixed up in new speculative enterprises, the bill provides that no loans shall be made to businesses which were not in existence three years before December, 1929, so that the help can be extended to businesses affected by the depression. Also, loans would be made only to concerns that employ five or more persons.

It is estimated that there are more than 1,000,000 firms in America with capital of less than $50,000, so it may be seen how far-reaching the extension of this credit might become in assisting in the re-employment of persons now out of work. It is believed that much of the money will be used to buy equipment to replace wornout machinery and tools.

The rates of interest would be somewhat flexible, so far as the R. F. C. is concerned, in order to help the banks carry what might otherwise be described as "slow" paper. Thus if a bank rediscounted a loan for $10,000 and received $8,000 back from the R. F. C., the bank in question might pay 4 per cent for that loan, whereas the customer himself might be paying 6 per cent on the whole $10,000. In this way, the bank would be reducing its risk and increasing its chance to make money on the loan. The bill declares that no more than 10 per cent of any loans can be used by the borrowers to pay debts to banks.

With these and other safeguards it is felt that small businesses will be encouraged to borrow and banks will be persuaded to lend, thus ending the stalemate on intermediate credit which has been retarding re-employment of millions of workers for the last three years, even when spurts of good business have appeared.

The present plan is to limit the loans entirely to businesses operating under the codes and to require collateral in the form of mortgages on machinery or equipment or accounts receivable of a suitable character. The loans would be on notes not to exceed three years in repayment but under certain conditions renewals would be granted.

The NRA is sympathetic with the plan and has indorsed the principles of it, and so have other departments of the government, so it may be expected that something in the way of legislation will be adopted within the near future.

COMMUNISTS KILL PARIS POLICEMAN; CABINET IS CHOSEN

upon the populace to renounce agitation and place "the interest of France and the republic above all else."

Seven persons were hurt in the first clash, while officers' ranks were being reinforced the crowd also gained new members, until it was estimated to number 10,000, and surged through the Belleville and Menilmontant sections.

The demonstrations, which was intended as a prelude to a general strike Monday against fascism, turned into running gun battles.

Police said the communists opened fire when officers tried to disperse them. The rioters broke up into bands of 50 and ran into narrow and dark side streets, reappearing later for sudden attacks.

Troops Held Back.

The 71-year-old Doumergue, at his first cabinet meeting, took precautions to protect the quarter, but decided to keep the troops in reserve unless the rioting got out of hand.

Pistol shots greeted every squad of police reinforcements, and many police fell under the hail of bullets or were set upon and furiously kicked.

Windows in police stations were smashed.

Doumergue had brought together a group of political enemies pledged to restore order, and while the "truce" was being reached 30,000 troops and police stood ready to avert further violence like that of Tuesday and Wednesday nights which cost 14 lives, including two who died today from injuries received during the 48 hours of terror.

After presenting his 19 ministers to President Albert Lebrun, the new premier faced the immediate tasks of coping with threats of a nationwide "anti-fascist" general strike Monday.

Included in Doumergue's government on a basis of equality as "elder statesmen" are the political arch-enemies Edouard Herriot and Andre Tardieu, both former premiers, who were named ministers of state without portfolios.

Four "Outsiders."

That four of the cabinet men are not members of parliament—an unusual development in French politics—testified to Doumergue's desire for a representative government that would forget politics in the great job of struggling with labor troubles, economic ills, an unbalanced budget, and charges of corruption that grew out of the $40,000,000 Bayone pawnshop bond scandal and gave rise to the anti-government demonstrations.

The 71-year-old Doumergue, who left the peace of his southern country home to enter again the political arena, himself sounded the rallying call to his appointees at a meeting in the foreign office.

"From the premier to the last of the ministers," he declared, "everyone will do his duty."

Only the communists and socialists headed by Deputy Leon Blom were omitted from the roster. In complexion the cabinet is advanced liberal or slightly leftist.

Doumergue achieved some measure of success when he exacted a promise from the labor federation that Monday's strike would be peaceful.

The venerated premier's political prestige quieted political passions. He brought to the council table a wide representation. The socialists' party principle forbade participation in the government.

Poincare Applauded.

Doumergue was encouraged by a message from former President Raymond Poincare, who said, "I congratulate you heartily for accepting the post you alone can fill; my affectionate good wishes."

His cabinet includes:

Premier, Gaston Doumergue.

Ministers of state, Tardieu and Herriot.

Foreign affairs, Louis Barthou.

War, Marshal Henri Petain.

Navy, Francois Pietri.

Air, General Victor Denain.

Commerce, Lucien Lamoureux.

Communications, Andre Mallarme.

Interior, Albert Sarraut.

Finance, Germain Martin.

Justice, Henry Cheron.

Health and hygiene, Louis Marin.

Education, Aime Berthod.

Colonies, Pierre Laval.

Public works, Etienne Flandin.

Labor, Adrien Marquet.

Agriculture, Henri Queuille.

Pensions, Andre Rivollet.

Merchant marine, William Bertrand.

Quit Party.

Herriot resigned as president of the radical socialist party to enter the government. Marquet represents the neo-socialists.

The cabinet promptly took over its functions after calling on the president. Doumergue installed himself in the foreign office as the successor of Edouard Daladier, whose ministry resigned because of the riots and the pawnshop affair.

Doumergue's ministers began drafting a declaration for presentation to parliament February 15.

The group of 20 men, with 17 portfolias, is the smallest cabinet France has had in many years.

Three men, the premier, Herriot and Tardieu, are without portfolios. The latter two are vice premiers, so named to placate Herriot and his radical socialists, who insisted he and Tardieu, a center republican, have equally important posts.

As his first act, Doumergue summoned the people "to do their duty" and maintain order.

Issues Plea.

He issued a proclamation posted throughout Paris which read:

"Citizens: I have been called to form a government of truce, appeasement and justice.

"This government is formed.

"In its name I ask you to accomplish in your turn your duty in renouncing all agitation and placing the interest of France and the republic above all else.

"President of the council, Gaston Doumergue."

The new cabinet contains four senators—Barthou, Sarraut, Cheron and Laval—two soldiers, Petain and Denain, and two other non-members of parliament, Doumergue and Rivollet. The others are deputies.

There are six former premiers: Doumergue, Barthou, Sarraut, Laval, Herriot and Tardieu; and four who have never been ministers—Petain, Denain, Marquet and Rivollet.

This ministry is the ninety-sixth in the history of the 64-year-old third republic, and the seventh during the period of the present legislature. The others have existed an average of three months each.

MISSING GIRL RETURNS TO WASHINGTON FORT

TACOMA, Wash., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Eleanor Durnell, 15-year-old niece of Captain and Mrs. Charles Perfect, missing from their home at Fort Lewis since Sunday afternoon, returned last night, Major Victor L. Taylor, adjutant at Fort Lewis, announced early today.

The 1,600 officers and men of the fort spent yesterday in an intensive search of the 70,000-acre army post in the belief the girl had been kidnaped, while state and federal officers hunted for her in Tacoma and Seattle.

She explained her mysterious absence by saying:

"I went to Seattle and walked the streets all the time I was away."

The girl was questioned at length in the presence of her uncle but no further details were announced.

Bremer Describes Captivity And Beating by Kidnapers

Long Ride Required To Reach House Where He Was Imprisoned, St. Paul Banker Reveals.

(Following is an account by Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul (Minn.) banker, of his experiences while kidnaped and held for more than three weeks for $200,000 ransom.)

By EDWARD G. BREMER.

ST. PAUL, Feb. 9.—(AP)—I left the baby at school I think about 8:20 o'clock the morning of January 17 and driving away I drove to the corner of Goodrich and Lexington avenue but stopped for the arterial highway. As I stopped the left door of the car was opened and a right arm was extended through the door with a gun pointed toward me. A gruff voice said "Don't move or I'll kill you."

I quickly put the car in low gear to cross the street and looked up and saw a man squarely in front of my car. I had placed my left foot through the door and the foot reached the running board. By this time the man who had opened the left door apparently had got inside my car.

He began striking me over the head and must have hit me 15 or 20 times. I tried to get out the right door and bumped into something there and it apparently was another man who also struck me over the head. My eyes became filled with blood and I was dazed. They pushed my head down under the dashboard. Meanwhile my left foot was still outside the left front door for I had been thinking all the time that someone surely would see me, as many people were taking their children to school by that route at that time of day.

Pulled Leg In.

Finally, I don't know when, they pulled my leg into the car and we started out. We drove a while, I don't know how long or I don't know where, but it must have been 10 or 15 minutes later that they stoped the machine. They put goggles over my eyes and told me to get out. I had recovered my senses somewhat and distinctly remembered the commands to get out of the car, which I did. Then they placed me in another machine.

I was placed in the back part of another car and I was told to lie down. At that time my watch was taken away, which they told me was for identification purposes. They asked me who I would like to have as contact man and I mentioned Walter Magee. They then asked me who else they could perhaps get in touch with and I mentioned the names of several of the boys whom I knew and was reared with out at the brewery.

I was told to sign some notes, but I don't know whether they were signed at that stop or a later stop. The car started and we proceeded to drive. I don't know how many hours. We drove and stopped again many hours later, and it was perhaps at that stop that I signed certain notes.

Another Car.

At this stop there was undoubtedly another car accompanying us. Meanwhile I was down at the bottom of the car and couldn't see or hear much. All I could hear was that they were refilling the car with gas. We again started to drive and we drove until it must have been dark. They later told me I could sit on the seat because no one could see me after dark. We again stopped and this time the car left us.

I was awfully cold, so I asked if I could walk up and down. They walked with me then so that I could warm up.

Then the car returned and I again was put into the machine. We drove several hours more and there was another stop. Here I was taken out of the car and led some distance, where we went downstairs. I sat on a chair. Then they examined my head and washed off the cuts as best they could.

I told them to cut the hair off because I would rather have that done than to have an infection set in. After that, they put some water in front of me and when they took off the bandages it was dark.

Again Bandaged.

I washed by hands and face in the dark as best I could and then I again was bandaged up and put to bed.

Undoubtedly it was the next morning that they put me back on the chair and served me with breakfast. I sat on that chair until I imagine it was time to go to bed, and I was put to bed.

That routine in the house continued all the time I was there.

I was told that unless I behaved as well as I should I would be chained to the bed. I consequently acceded to every wish.

After several days one of the boys came in. Every conversation that transpired was in a whisper. They told me I had acted very well and one suggested that my bandages be taken off while I was sitting in the chair in the corner provided I would not turn by head.

Bandages Removed.

If I did they told me they would replace the bandages and they would be put on for good. The following morning my bandages were removed.

Before anything was placed in front of me my head was covered so I could not see anyone placing anything in front of me.

Some days eats were hard to get. I was allowed to sit until I could not sit any longer and then placed in bed.

That routine kept on all the time I was in the room. The only time I walked was when they took me to the bathroom. After the first week the leg I had stretched out of the car to prevent them from closing the car door went out on me and I could not walk the entire week and they sort of pulled me into the bathroom.

The morning they told me arrangements were made for my release they sat me in a chair and they started to shave me, to which I objected. The job lasted one hour, they said.

They took me outside, placed me in the bottom of a car surrounded by gasoline cans and drove constantly except for one stop until dark. At this stop they took the cans out. Then they allowed me to sit on the seat, since it was after dark and they left two attendants with me.

Money Examined.

They told me they were going to find out whether or not the money was marked.

I told them I did not believe the money was marked. After a while they returned and I was told it was all right. We were nearing Rochester, they told me.

Then they said: "We will put you off on a dark street in Rochester. You are to get out of the car when you are told and face in the same direction, which, however, is not the direction in which you are to walk. You are to count up to 15 very slowly before you remove the bandages. Then turn about face and go to the Rochester bus depot and take the 9:40 bus to St. Paul. When you arrive in St. Paul you are to get off before you get to the bus depot, get into a cab and get to your house without anyone seeing you so that there will be absolutely nothing in the morning paper."

I got out of the kidnapers' car. I heard the car leave. I counted 15 but I heard their car stop so I did not remove the bandages. After the car started again I removed the bandages and I could just make out a light. I turned the right direction and started to walk. I walked around in circles first and then tried to walk straight so that no one would become suspicious by seeing me stagger.

No Bus.

I walked six or eight blocks but I did not get to the bus depot. I then asked a man the way to the bus depot. I inquired about a bus and was told there was none to St. Paul that night. I told them that I must get back to St. Paul and the lady in the bus depot said she thought I could take a train to Owatonna and get a bus there.

She called a taxi and I went to the depot, where I bought a ticket to Owatonna. I got into a seat, pulled my hat over my eyes and arose when they called Owatonna.

At Owatonna I got into a cab and went to the bus station. I purchased a ticket and went and got into the bus. I asked the drver to stop after he passed the Wabash street bridge. Near the courthouse I got out and luckily no one saw me. I then got a cab and told him I wanted to go to the West End Commercial Club. We got there and I got out, turned around and walked up Seventh street and went into the side entrance to the house.

CITY IS $20,000 RICHER, PAYDAY DRAWS NEARER

Atlanta was more than $20,000 richer Friday afternoon because of various collections and a pay day for employes, delayed since February 5, was nearer realization.

The Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company paid its 1933 gross taxes, amounting to $20,179.78, and $350 was collected from 14 beer dispensers.

B. Graham West, city comptroller, said that if revenue continues at its present rate, the city might be able to meet a pay roll for employes about the middle of next week.

A total of $8,546 had been collected in beer taxes for the first quarter of the year when the city hall closed at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon.

HIGH PRICE OF GOLD DRAWS OLD RELICS

A local gold rush that is different from the conventional gold rush, was reported on Friday by Marx Michaels, a gold buyer making his headquarters in the Candler Building pharmacy.

Among some of the gold articles brought to him in a week were spectacle frames, broken pendants, bent ring mountings, gold teeth and broken watch chains. The new high price of the metal, Mr. Michaels explained, is attracting it from its hiding places to its final goal, the United States treasury.

TYPEWRITER OFFICIALS MEET HERE MONDAY

W. H. Mathews, general manager of the typewriter division of Remington Rand, Inc., and other home office officials from Buffalo, N. Y., are in Atlanta to attend a typewriter sales meeting on Monday and Tuesday.

J. T. DeLiesseline, branch sales manager, says that all the sales personnel from the southeastern states will attend this convention. During this meeting arrangements will be made for the necessary expansion to take care of the continued increased business.

Plane Damaged.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The "Chief Oshkosh," baby plane piloted by F. J. Whitman, was damaged today when it turned over in landing during the air show celebrating the dedication of the Shushan airport. The plane will not be in condition to qualify for Saturday's racing but the pilot, who was unhurt, said it would be ready for Sunday. The rudder and elevator were damaged.

City Needs Grave Digger, License Collector Finds

J. Henson Tatum, city clerk, and his deputy, Charles M. Ford, were stumped Friday.

Usually, when Ford is sent on an assignment, he gets his man, but he failed miserably Friday. He wouldn't rob a grave.

Bill Lewis, 20, tomb sitter, is attempting a world's record for being buried alive to raise money to marry his sweetheart, and is interred in a clay chamber just off Peachtree street, near Baker.

Tatum heard of the exhibition for which a fee is charged, and dispatched Ford with an order to collect $10 a day. Ford found Lewis in the grave, scratched his head, refused to disinter him, and returned to the city hall, where Tatum joined him in the scratching.

GEOGRAPHICAL NAMES

No. 1—

What does every woman in Holmes county, Ohio, and everywhere else on earth desire to have? The name of this town means something invisible, intangible—like a spell or enchantment. Also a name applied to a trinket.

No. 2—

There's no place like it. What is this name of a town in Indiana county, Pennsylvania? In the same county are Loop and Smokeless. Everyone ought to have one. Rich folks have two or more.

No. 3—

Bookkeepers, and accountants—What two words form the type of record you use or know about? There's a place in Yancey county, North Carolina, by this name. In modern big business, the term is seldom used.

SOCIALISTS' DOOM SEEN IN AUSTRIA

Drastic Action Expected To Follow Expose of Alleged Marxist Plot.

VIENNA, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The belief that the Austrian government will follow the sensational expose of an alleged Marxist plot with the dissolution of the socialist party was expressed today in socialist circles, where it was said a general strike would thereby be precipitated.

Government spokesmen, on the other hand, pointed out that "all evidence" collected in police raids on socialist centers yesterday "will be carefully examined before a further move is to be expected."

Meanwhile, the agrarian party—which still has one minister and one secretary in the government—published an appeal addressed to Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss "in this earnest and decisive hour" to reorganize the government.

The chancellor returned from Budapest this afternoon after two days of conferences with Premier Julius Goemboes, of Hungary.

During his absence, the vice chancellor, Emil Fey, an avowed opponent of socialists, directed steel-helmeted police to occupy socialist strongholds and announced the raids uncovered "an unprecented criminal plot of bolshevist and Marxist elements" together with several thousand powerful bombs and machine guns.

The reported seizures were described in some circles as the possible forerunner of the elimination of all political parties. In this connection, Dollfuss has centered his drive against nazis, but the fascist heimwehr has demanded that if socialists were not ousted the homeguardsmen's support would be withheld from the administration.

Georgians Will Get $85,000 Farm Loans

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Officials of the farm credit administration today informed Representative Malcolm C. Tarver, of Georgia, that within a week or 10 days approximately $85,000 would be disbursed among Georgia farmers who deposited their 1930-31 cotton with the Georgia Cotton Growers' Co-operative Association.

Last year Representatives Tarver and Owen, of Griffin, Ga., took up with the administration the matter of making additional payments on short-staple cotton so deposited during the 1930 season, and a plan was worked out by which additional disbursements amounting to $85,000 would be made.

NEW AMBASSADOR FROM JAPAN SCOUTS WARFARE RUMORS

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Hiroshi Saito, Japan's new envoy to Washington, arrived today on the Berengaria to take over his post, which he described as "a great responsibility, but a cinch of a job."

The ambassador assured a group of reporters who interviewed him as the ship was coming up the harbor that Japan does not want the Philippines.

He also asserted that his government stands for peace.

"We are not going to fight," he said. "Russia does not want to fight us and we don't want to fight them. If we have a war with Russia it means war with all other nations, including the United States, and we do not want to commit suicide."

State W.C.T.U. To Continue Fight Against Liquor Traffic

Mrs. Mary Scott Russell, state president, W. C. T. U., on the left, and Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, national vice president, photographed at the regional conference of the W. C. T. U. Friday at the Henry Grady hotel. Staff photo by George Cornett.

Women wet organizations "fooled" the people by talking of working for temperance and "disbanded at a time when temperance work is made more necessary because of the success of their repeal policy," Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, vice president of the National W. C. T. U., said in a speech here Friday night at a regional conference.

She charged liquor control agencies were being swept aside, that arrests for intoxication are mounting to new highs and said the Women's Christian Temperance Union "will not quit until the liquor traffic quits."

"Repeal has not changed the poisoning effect of the narcotic drug alcohol and the only proper attitude of government toward the traffic in beverage alcohol should be that of opposition or prohibition. . . .

"All controls are being swept aside. At first liquor control boards pledged to do away with bars, as if it were the bar or brass rail which was injurious instead of alcohol. But they backed down and bars prevail. They prated against the evils of side doors and back rooms but control has surrendered to these. They talked of limited hours but on New Year's Eve sale was permitted until 5 o'clock in the morning. The women wets fooled the people by talking of working for temperance but they have disbanded at a time when temperance work is made more necessary because of the success of their repeal policy. The wets talked of protecting dry states but already they have repealed the Reed amendment and these states are being flooded with advertisements inducing people to imbibe.

"Whenever the liquor interests have made a demand for additional privileges these have been granted. It is the liquor interests which control the government, not the government controlling liquor."

Mrs. Colvin said repeal was effected by "only about 27 per cent" of the voters and said the W. C. T. U. would appeal to the "great mass of the citizens" to prohibit forever the whole liquor business.

In another address at a morning session of the conference she said the incentive to raise revenue was the chief factor in the final drive for repeal.

"If the young people are to be saved from acquiring alcohol habits," she said, "we shall have to develop in them a sales resistance against the relentless drive of the liquor power to build up its trade which was interrupted by national prohibition."

Approximately 200 delegates from over the state were present for the conference. Mrs. Mary Scott Russell, state president, presided at the meeting, which is one of 30 conferences being held by the organization in the country.

Other speakers on the program included Mrs. Marvin Williams, Mrs. R. M. Thurman, of the League of Women Voters; Mrs. W. J. Neel, of Bessie Tift College; Mrs. A. C. Vernooy, chairman of the kindergarten extension of the P.-T. A.; Mrs. R. H. Hankerson, president of the Georgia P.-T. A., and R. L. Ramsey, principal of the Fulton High school.

Friday night's session was featured by an illustrated lecture by Dr. Julius Gilbert White, national lecturer, author and dietitian.

DR. DEAN ACCUSED AS HOME WRECKER

Woman Physician Blamed for Marital Rift Between Kennedy, Wife.

GREENWOOD, Miss., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Smartly tailored in maroon tweed and black fur, her head held up under a trim felt hat, Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean, 33-year-old woman physician, listened without flinching today as the state attempted to prove that she not only poisoned Dr. John Preston Kennedy, Greenwood surgeon, with a whisky highball, but had also precipitated a divorce between Dr. Kennedy and his wife.

With equal serenity, the handsome defendant heard her own attorneys counter the state attack with cross-examination designed to show that Kennedy had been frequently gravely ill, sometimes from over-doses of drugs, prior to his strange 10-day illness last July which the state has charged followed a midnight meeting and a "farewell drink" between Kennedy and Dr. Dean.

Brother Testifies.

Dr. Henry Kennedy, brother of the dead surgeon and star state witness, who was used by the defense yesterday to identify 145 letters to Dr. Dean as being in Preston's handwriting, testified that the woman physician had come between Preston Kennedy and his wife.

When Henry Kennedy was asked a question by the defense about his own "divorced wife," the state objected and was sustained.

Henry Kennedy said his brother, Preston, was married in June, 1924, to Miss Bessie Barry, that they separated in January, 1932, and that Mrs. Kennedy obtained a divorce in March, 1933.

He testified the Preston Kennedys had made plans to remarry prior to Preston's death in August, 1933.

"You said you gave your brother the devil for his relations with Dr. Dean. Did he ever confide to you just what they were?" asked District Attorney Arthur Jordan.

"No, sir."

Caused Marital Break.

"What caused the strained relations between Preston and Bessie Barry?"

"Dr. Dean," said Henry.

On cross-examination, Defense Attorney Dick Denman asked the witness:

"You said Preston had agreed to remarry Bessie Barry. Do you know if he planned to marry anybody else?"

"No," said the witness.

"Would you believe he was if he said it?" Denman asked, glancing at the stack of letters before him. A state objection to the question was sustained.

Much of the cross-examination dealt with Preston's illnesses and questions about drugs he had taken on those occasions as the defense laid the groundwork for introduction of the letters in which Preston told of sickness and the use of opiates to alleviate pain.

Letters To Be Held.

Once today, the state offered to allow the defense to introduce immediately all of Preston's letters, asserting they would object to "selected portions," but the defense said the letters would be held until the state rested its case.

When Henry Kennedy had completed nearly five days of testimony, the state put on the stand Birdie LeFlore, negro janitor in the Kennedy clinic, who testified to finding Preston's offices in disorder on the morning after he and Dr. Dean were alleged to have had their "farewell meeting" there. He was asked about the operating table in the office.

"It was rumpled. The sheet was," he testified. "There were two glasses on the window sill."

Dr. Barney Kennedy, another brother of the dead man, was placed on the stand this afternoon to tell of the alleged dying statement by Preston charging that Dr. Dean had given him a poisoned whisky highball at their last meeting in the clinic last July 27.

$10,000 FINE BARS WAY TO FREEDOM FOR RALPH CAPONE

McNEIL ISLAND FEDERAL PRISON, Wash., Feb. 9.—(AP)—If he has $10,000 to pay the government, Ralph Capone, income tax law violator and brother of the notorious Scarface Al, will leave this unwalled prison February 27.

If he can't pay the fine imposed upon him when he was sentenced to three years imprisonment, Warden R. Archer explained, he can take the pauper's oath and spend another month here. But he would still owe the government $10,000 which he would have to pay when and if he acquires any property.

When Ralph leaves for Stickney, a Chicago suburb once dominated by his brother's henchmen, Al Capone will have about five more years to serve at Atlanta penitentiary before he is freed from his sentence for income tax evasion.

Ralph cut several months off his term by good behavior on McNeil Island, which Warden Archer tries to make as unlike a prison as possible. There are few guards, few restrictions and few escapes.

CAMPUS PAPER HITS BOARD OF TECH 'Y'; 8 DIRECTORS QUIT

Eight directors of the Georgia Tech Y. M. C. A. resigned from the board Friday as the result of charges in recent issue of the Technique, campus publication, that the body was illegally constituted.

Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, accepted the resignations Friday from Dr. George M. Sparks, who was chairman of the board. The school president will have charge of the Y. M. C. A. until an election is held within the next two weeks to name a new board. Dr. Sparks said feeling among students caused their action and that they resigned "for the best interests of the Y. M. C. A." The Technique charged that there were factions in the board which prohibited progressive work.

Other directors who resigned were: James S. Budd, vice chairman; Dr. N. S. Herod, secretary and treasurer; Professor L. R. Seibert, Frank A. Hooper Jr., John A. Dunwoody, C. L. Emerson and George C. Griffin. Members of the board whose terms expire March 1 did not resign.

Paris Hospital Spurns Check From Daladier

PARIS, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Edouard Daladier's check for 50,000 francs (about $3,000) was refused today by the police hospital where 200 persons were treated for wounds received in this week's riots.

"The mourning of Paris is too deep and too poignant for this house to accept a gift having so close a link with the recent dolorous events," said the hospital director's letter to the outgoing premier."

Excellent Film Entertainment Found at Fox and Grand Friday

By RALPH T. JONES.

New pictures at the Georgia and Rialto, with a new stage program of the Fanchon and Marco variety at the latter house, are offered Atlanta today. Programs at the Capitol, both stage and screen, will change on Monday while the burlesque offering at the Atlanta will bring a new production, with a new star comedian, for a premiere at the Monday matinee.

Of the new offerings seen Friday, it seems to be a matter of personal choice whether "Emperor Jones" at Loew's Grand, or "Six of a Kind," at the Fox, should take No. 1 ranking. If you like drama, with a study in negro physchology, you'll delight in the O'Neill play at the Grand. Whereas if it is sheer comedy you seek in your film fare, you'll find the Fox offering one of the funniest films in years.

As for "Dark Hazard," which bowed in at the Paramount yesterday, this ranks simply as a picture, entertaining enough but nothing out of the ordinary run.

Paul Robeson's performance as the Pullman porter who became king of a savage island, only to die when his inherited susceptibility to savage superstition overcomes his veneered civilization, is the thing that makes "Emperor Jones" a really great film. And Robeson's performance is enhanced by his singing of "Water Boy."

Aside from a few minor characters the cast is all colored, with one exception. That is Dudley Digges, who gives a masterful characterization of a besetted English trader.

There is a touch of strongly satirie humor in the story, while the closing episode in the jungle come closer to stark mental horror than most producers ever reach. Even if the film does resort to somewhat outmoded double exposure tricks for its effects.

"Six of a Kind," at the Fox, hasn't so much of a plot, but the performances by the six — W. C. Fields, Alison Skipworth, Charles Ruggles, Mary Boland and George Burns and Gracie Allen, make it so funny that you'll forget plot in the convulsions of laughter it inevitably brings.

Fields' famous pool game, in which he never makes a shot, and the scene where Boland and Ruggles, in turn, fall over the precipice, are highlights, wile Gracie Allen's modern Mrs. Malaprop dialogue provides gags for quotation for dozens of parties to come.

Jimmy Beers is again at his best in his organlogue, while there are several entertaining short subjects to round out the program.

"Dark Hazard" lists as its star Edward G. Robinson, who is excellent as Edward G. Robinson portraying a happy-go-lucky gambler. Genevieve Tobin turns in a finished performance as the small town wife who can't get into the vagabond spirit, while Glenda Farrell just has to be herself to portray the "women who understood."

The real star of the production, however, is the dog who plays the title role. The story is a copy of one of those old horse racing epics, only this time it is about greyhound racing. And the dog that wins, then loses and breaks a leg, only to be saved by the one man who loves it, and in turn wins again for its savior.

There is a colored boy who half sings and half talks an adaptation of "Lazy Bones," in a Boswell Sisters short, who provides the finest entertainment on the bill.

Cross-Continent Bus Locale in Rialto Film

The new feature on the program opening at the Rialto theater today is "Cross-Continent Cruise," Universal's production with a big passenger bus as the scene for its plot developments. It is a cleverly worked out story, with Lew Ayres as the star and June Knight providing the feminine enchantment.

There is a particularly original murder and a wreck which forms the crisis of the film near the end. With plenty of those character studies which are always to be found in pictures of this type.

The new Fanchon and Marco stage show presents the line girls in newer and snappier routines, colorful costuming and three acts of exceptional vaudeville. Zimbalist, a great harmonica player with a young lady soprano, provides the headline attraction. Then there are a couple of extremely fast comedy workers and a juggler said to be so clever he makes audiences dizzy. And, of course, Rudy Brown and his tuneful dance orchestra providing the music for the show.

Barthelmess Stars As Indian at Georgia

Richard Barthelmess' newest picture for First National, "Massacre," which will be shown at the Georgia theater for four days, starting today, is said to be the most pretentious production in which the star has appeared in years. The picure, which deals with the American Indian of today and his conflict with modern civilization, combines picturesque and colorful spectacles with dynamic drama and a unique romance.

Barthelmess has the role of a Sioux brave who has been educated at Haskell. Ann Dvorak and Claire Dodd, the former in the role of an Indian maid, and the latter as a white society girl, are rivals for the love of the young chief, the three forming one of the strangest triangles on record. Other members of the cast include such famous players as Dudley Digges, Henry O'Neill, Robert Barrat, Arthur Hohl, Tully Marshall, DeWitt Jennings and many others.

Beside the regular Hollywood stars there are 300 Indians in bit and extra parts, forming a colorful background. In addition to the realistic touches showing the Indian in his impoverished and neglected condition, there are picturesque scenes which reveal the ancient customs of the race.

Starting next Wednesday, the Georgia will bring back a special return engagement to Atlanta of Will Rogers and ZaSu Pitts in "Mr. Skitch." Many requests have been made for a return engagement on this Rogers' picture.

Noted Burlesque Star, Harry Fields, Coming

When Harry "Hello Jake" Fields appears in the new burlesque production, "Bare Facts," at the Atlanta theater next week, patrons will see one of the cleverest comedians of his type on the stage today. He has been famous for years as a burlesque headliner and his engagement for Atlanta is ample evidence that the local management is doing its utmost to bring to this city the very best talent available.

Next week's show will, in fact, surpass for talent almost any burlesque in the country. It is rarely that Harry Fields, Snooky Woods (she's staying one more week), Hap Farnell, Harry Collins and others in the company could be found working together on the same stage.

Final performances of "Steppin' High" will be seen today at 2:30 and 8:30. It is a colorful and fun-packed show.

There will be no Sunday midnight show this week, the new production playing its premiere performance at the Monday matinee. Seats for all performances next week may now be had at the box office, which opens daily at 10 a. m.

MARION TALLEY ARRIVES IN CITY THIS AFTERNOON

Marion Talley, sensational young American soprano, will arrive in Atlanta this afternoon, preparatory to her concert at the Capitol theater on Sunday afternoon. She is due at Brookwood station at 3:40, and will go direct from there to the Biltmore hotel, where she will spend most of the time before the recital in resting, so as to be in the best possible voice for her thousands of Atlanta admirers.

Miss Talley will be met at the station by a delegation from the Debutantes' Club, which is sponsoring her concert. The attraction is also one of the Celebrity Series, brought here this season by the Alkahest Lyceum Bureau.

There has been a heavy advance seat sale for the Talley recital, both locally and from out of town. There are, however, many excellent seats yet available and patrons will find no difficulty if they visit the box office in the Cable Piano Company today.

The concert Sunday afternoon will begin promptly at 3 o'clock, with the box office opening one hour earlier.

GORMLEY ENTERS SUIT AGAINST MACON FIRM

State Bank Head Asserts Loan Company Is Insolvent, Demands Liquidation.

MACON, Ga., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Claiming that the institution is insolvent and that it is his duty as state superintendent of banks to take charge of it for the purpose of liquidation, R. E. Gormley filed a suit in equity against the Franklin Savings and Loan Company, of Macon, this morning in Bibb superior court.

Technically, the state banking department took charge of the institution and its branches (in LaGrange, Griffin and Thomaston) on January 31, the petition sets forth, but officials of the company have declined to hand over the concern, and the petition asks that those now in charge be permanently enjoined and restrained from interfering with the superintendent in taking over the company.

In a temporary order signed this morning, Judge Louis L. Brown restrained the institution from carrying on any business except that of collecting accounts, etc., and ordered that no change whatever be made in the assets of the company pending a hearing on the suit on February 17.

Meanwhile present officials remain in charge of the offices here and the branches elsewhere.

SALE OF ISLE OF WIGHT IS ORDERED BY MAY 1

SAVANNAH, Ga., Feb. 9.—(AP)—A referee in bankruptcy has ruled that the Isle of Wight, a 2,000-acre island, must be sold by May 1 or abandoned and advertised for public sale.

Judge A. H. MacDonell, referee in bankruptcy, directed that the island be disposed of to satisfy a claim of $11,000 held by P. J. McNatt against E. L. Bergstrom, owner of the property.

McNatt directed his petition against E. T. Skeffington, as trustee for Bergstrom. The trustee was named December 11 when the referee restrained Dr. McNatt from selling the property at public auction.

Evidence was presented to the referee by Skeffington to show he had several prospective buyers for the island and that it would be to the benefit of McNatt if he were allowed a longer period in which to make the sale.

CAPTAIN D. W. PHILLIPS ENDS UNUSUAL CAREER

MACON, Ga., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Captain D. W. Phillips, 72, of Lumber City, Ga., died at a local hospital last night. Pneumonia that followed a rare blood disease was given as the direct cause of death. The body was taken to Lumber City this morning where the funeral will be held tomorrow.

Captain Phillips, born in Tattnall county, defeated Governor Eugene Talmadge several years ago for representative in the state legislature from Telfair county. He and the governor, then a young lawyer, were close friends and have continued to be friends, relatives said.

Captain Phillips served in the legislature for five regular terms and three special sessions. In his colorful career he served as master of a steamboat, owner of a steamboat line, banker and farmer. He had traveled extensively in Europe, Asia and Africa, as well as in the United States and Canada.

His wife is the former Miss Atha Thornburg, of Alston, Ga. He has two brothers, W. R. Phillips, Uvalda, and Carlos A. Phillips, Hattiesburg, Miss., and two sisters, Mrs. M. A. Kennard, of Livingstone, Ala., and Mrs. Ira E. McLeod, of Altamaha, Ga., and several nieces and nephews.

Governor Notified.

Governor Talmadge was notified Friday of the death of D. W. Phillips, prominent farmer, banker and former steamboat operator of Lumber City, Telfair county. Captain Phillips was a former legislator from the governor's home county. The governor expressed regret that other business would prevent him from attending the funeral.

BANK OF MANCHESTER NAMES NEW OFFICERS

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Feb. 9.—At a meeting of the stockholders of the Bank of Manchester, James S. Peters, former vice president of the bank, was named president of the institution. C. V. Truit, of LaGrange, the former president, was elected chairman of the board of directors. H. S. Peters and B. A. Dunn were named vice presidents and L. M. Bradford was re-elected cashier.

Two directors were added to the board, they are Dr. J. A. Johnson and J. W. Smith.

Members of the board of the Manchester bank now include the following: Eugene Brown, Cyp Bulloch, J. P. Worley, B. A. Dunn, J. S. Peters, H. S. Peters, W. H. Routon, D. H. Smith, M. M. Trotter, C. V. Truitt, J. A. Johnson and J. W. Smith.

Naval Stores Marketing Pact Means Better Times in Industry

VALDOSTA, Ga., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Better days for the naval stores industry will result from the marketing agreement to be signed February 19 by Secretary Wallace, it was said here by Harley Langdale, one of the largest turpentine operators in the belt.

Mr. Langdale, operator of turpentine lands in Lowndes, Clinch, Berrien, Brooks and Echols counties, was a member of the committee which drafted the agreement which was approved at a meeting of operators from all over the southern belt here last September.

"The system by which a survey of stocks on hand and estimated demand will be made and production prorated among operators will establish a balance between production and consumption, and thereby stabilize the market," he said.

"Under the agreement, in the fall of each year, a survey of the stocks on hand will be made and then an estimate of the demand for the new year will be determined. After this, the amount of naval stores needed for consumption will be prorated among operators."

Another important phase of the agreement, Mr. Langdale said, is that which provides a minimum size for trees to be worked. Trees which are not at least nine inches in diameter at a height of 4 1-2 feet from the ground may not be worked under the agreement, unless this provision conflicts with leases and contracts executed prior to September 14, 1933, or other cases in which exceptions would be justified. A tree which is worked on more than one face at the same time must be at least 14 inches in diameter at a height of 4 1-2 feet from the ground.

"This provision alone would almost stabilize the market," Mr. Langdale said. "The surplus stocks for the past few years which have held the price of gum down so low were produced by small timber. This limitation will stop the cupping of small trees and thereby reduce production."

Sale of naval stores will also be controlled by a licensing system which will prevent an operator selling more than he has been allotted by the control committee. The control committee will be selected by operators of the belt.

"Turpentine is going up now and I believe this agreement will pull it completely out of the hole in which it has been for several years," he said.

Negro Found Drowned Clutching Wild Duck

MACON, Ga., Feb. 9.—(AP)—The body of Mose Hawkins, negro, with a wild duck clutched tightly in his hand, was recovered from Stratton lake here several hours after he left home on a hunting trip.

The negro's gun and clothing were found on the shore of the lake. Officers said the negro apparently plunged into the water to retrieve the fowl after bringing it down with his gun.

EDITORS OF GEORGIA MEET IN MACON TODAY

MACON, Ga., Feb. 9.—(AP)—The executive committee of the Georgia Newspaper Alliance met here tonight in advance of the first annual general session opening tomorrow.

Discussion of codes affecting newspapers will be before the editors who represent weekly newspapers throughout the state at their assembly. The executive committee met to consider a constitution and set of by-laws.

Jere N. Moore, of Milledgeville, who is serving as president of the alliance, said approximately 100 editors are expected for the meeting tomorrow.

SNELLING IN HOSPITAL AFTER HEART ATTACK

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Dr. Charles M. Snelling, chancellor emeritus of the University System of Georgia, was in St. Mary's hospital today after suffering a heart attack at his home.

Dr. Snelling, who is 72 years old, suffered the heart attack yesterday.

A member of the faculty more than 40 years, dean for several years and chancellor of the entire university system until his retirement last June, he has recently been associated with university extension work.

WILL R. COX, VETERAN SUCCUMBS AT MACON

MACON, Ga., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Will R. Cox, 91, pioneer Macon businessman and a veteran of the War Between the States, died at his home here today.

For 42 years he was a director of the Southwestern Railroad Company, and for the last 31 years vice president. He resigned only yesterday because of his failing health.

He also had served as a director of the Georgia Southern and Florida railroad and was senior partner of Cox & Chappell, wholesale grocery firm. He retired from active business 25 years ago.

Cox was born near Macon. Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

MRS. MINNIE HACKETT SUCCUMBS AT MACON

MACON, Ga., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Minnie Savannah Hackett, mother of W. W. Hackett, prominent railway official, died this afternoon at the home of her son. She had been ill for several months and death occurred on her 78th birthday.

Mrs. Hackett, the widow of W. J. Hackett, had lived in Macon since 1919, coming here from Augusta. The body will be taken to Augusta for funeral services and interment at an hour to be decided later.

Mrs. Hackett's husband was prominently identified in business in Augusta for many years until his death in 1910. She continued to reside there with a son, A. C. Hackett, until his death in 1919. Then she came here to make her home with the other son, W. W. Hackett, division passenger agent of the Central of Georgia railway.

Besides her son here she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. F. T. Field, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and seven grandchildren.

GENTRY CONVICTED FOR KILLING GEORGIAN

ATHENS, Tenn., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Ed Gentry, 45, was under a second-degree murder conviction here today on charges of shooting Lucius Beasley, of White Stone, Ga., to death last June. A jury recommended a 19-year prison sentence.

Gentry, former deputy sheriff, pleaded self-defense, claiming trouble started when Beasley tried to run over my mule."

FUNERAL IN GEORGIA FOR REV. W. W. EDGE

LANCASTER, Pa., Feb. 9.—(AP)—The body of the Rev. W. W. Edge, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, one of the oldest in the United States, was taken last night to Statesboro, Ga., for burial from the church there, where he preached his last sermon.

Mr. Edge was found dead yesterday in a garage near his home. Deputy Coroner J. F. Trexler said Mr. Edge was a suicide.

Miami Enacts Levy On All Bulk Sales

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 9.—(AP)—The city commission Thursday adopted a 2 per cent bulk sales tax, applicable to all commodities except electric current, and Miami merchants immediately laid plans for a legal battle to prevent its enforcement.

The tax measure, expected by commission advocates to produce about $750,000 in revenue, becomes effective February 19 with the first report to be made to the city finance directory February 28, and the first tax installment to be paid by dealers March 15.

Various penalties are provided for in the ordinance, ranging from making a 100 per cent extra charge for a fraudulent return to $500 and 60 days for ignoring the return altogether. Any city official failing to enforce the ordinance would also be punished and barred from office.

COMMITTEES ON CODES MEET IN CAPITAL MAR. 5

Groups Will Co-ordinate With Johnson in Revising Agreements.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Hugh S. Johnson today set March 5 as the date for assembling in Washington the ruling committees of all coded industries to co-ordinate and revise the agreements.

Johnson, NRA chief, said that by that date he would have concrete proposals to offer for a general further reduction of working hours throughout industry.

He added he would be able also to inform trade as to what competitive restriction rules would be allowed in codes and what existing regulations on prices and similar subjects would have to be removed from the existing pacts.

He estimated that between 275 and 300 code authorities would be called into the session.

Though declining to outline his exact proposals for hour shortening, Johnson's comment apparently strengthened the possibility that a 32-hour average work week would be sought in place of the 40-hour week now generally in effect.

MINOR EARTH SHOCK FELT IN CALIFORNIA

MODESTO, Cal., Feb. 9.—(AP)—An earthquake rattled windows in Modesto at 1:20 a. m. today. No damage was reported.

ARKANSAS PARENTS FINED FOR CRUELTY TO CHILD OF 13

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Removed from the custody of her parents, who chained her to a bed to "keep her from running away," 13-year-old Lola Logston, lacking 33 pounds of normal weight for her age, became the charge of the Arkansas Children's Home and Hospital here today.

In a hearing for her parents before Judge F. F. Floyd at Bentonville yesterday, the child testified she was chained by the leg to a cot at intervals during the past three years.

Her father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Logston, were fined $50 each by Judge Floyd, who took the child from their custody and ordered it placed in the home here. The Logstons admitted they chained the child to the bed, but said they did so because she was "incorrigible."

Deadlock Disclosed On Electric Accord

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—A deadlock in negotiation of a code for electric utilities was disclosed today by Hugh S. Johnson, who said he would not approve "some of the things they want."

In reply to questions the NRA administrator said the electric industry insisted upon restrictions on municipal and other publicly-owned power projects which he said "are clearly unconstitutional."

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Charity Jones, born on an Iowa farm, works her way through high school and a Des Moines business college, goes to New York and gets a job with the Wall Street Trust Company, sending home half of her salary to save the heavily mortgaged farm. After three years she becomes secretary to Douglas Brookhart Temple, the president. She knows he is disappointed in his son, Doug, who is playing with art in Paris. Doug starts home but the old man dies before his arrival, leaving half his twenty millions to Doug and half to Charity on condition that they marry within a week. Charity, tall and slender, dresses very plainly and uses no make-up. When Doug sees her he bluntly tells her he can't marry such a plain, old-fashioned girl and that already he is engaged to Yanner Vandergriff, beautiful young debutante, of whom Charity has read in the society columns. Charity, furiously angry, declares she will keep on earning her own living. Yanner, knowing that her family's fortune has dwindled to nothing, craftily suggests that Doug marry Charity, then get a divorce and marry her. The infatuated Doug agrees. Meanwhile Charity has decided that she will marry Doug if he asks her, as she does not want to disregard his father's dying wish. They are married at city hall and go to the Temple estate on Long Island. Doug calls the housekeeper and leaves Charity alone. She is certain he is with Yanner. The next morning Charity tells Doug he has played her a contemptible trick. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT VI.

The housekeeper smiled over her glasses. "What time would you like breakfast, Mrs. Temple?"

"As soon as I bathe and dress—about five minutes," Charity jumped up. "I'm afraid I'm a little lazy this morning."

"You look rested. The long sleep was just what you needed." Mrs. Muggins handed Chority her robe. "Your husband is ready for his breakfast too. Shall I serve it on the porch again? We usually eat outdoors here in this nice weather."

"That will be fine." Charity turned her head to hide her confusion.

She'd have to eat with Doug—after all. There was no way out of it. Mrs. Muggins had taken it for granted. And she hoped Doug wouldn't think it was her idea.

Charity looked her new wardrobe over and selected a sport sweater and skirt in the inevitable blue. It would take her a long time to realize she didn't have to select things and colors because they would wear a long time. After her bath, she combed her hair straight back in the inevitable bun, slipped into the blue sport outfit and went reluctantly downstairs.

Doug was sitting in a wicker rocker with his head in his hands when Charity walked out to the porch. It was several seconds before he seemed to discover he was not alone. He looked up with a start.

"Oh—good morning."

"Good morning." Charity forced a smile. But the smile died on her face and her look became one of concern. "Are you ill? You look—pale," she began solicitiously when Doug's grin stopped her.

"Just a little hangover, sister. Just a little bun—that's all. Celebrating my wedding. Haven't you got a big head?"

"I have not." Charity's lips set in a firm, straight line.

She was furious when Doug shouted with laughter. Then he shook his head wonderingly. "I almost believe you. You look exactly like the head matron of an orphan asylum—or an old maid schoolma'am, sitting there in that outfit, with that holier-than-thou look on your face."

Charity winced. And once again a hot, unreasoning anger helped her to find her tongue. The color mounted in her face. Her voice shook when she answered: "It doesn't matter in the least to me what you think of my looks—or myself. Or what you say. But I'm going to tell you what I think of you, and the cheap, rotten trick you played on me."

Doug was so surprised he grasped the arms of his chair as if he were going to stand up. Then he sat back and a look half of amusement, half confusion spread over his face. Charity sat up very straight.

"I'm quite sure I know where you were last night," she went on. "And I don't care—for myself. I'm no more interested in you than you are in me. I have no desire whatsoever to be a wife to you. But, I don't see how you can marry me and start chasing around with another woman before your father's body is cold in the grave."

She stopped. Doug smiled slowly. But it was a rather sickly smile.

"So," he nodded, knowingly, "you are going to try to tell me what to do and what not to do. That's very interesting. But it won't work. I don't owe you a damn thing. You've got my father's money—and so have I. That's what we both wanted. We're even. You go your way—and I'll go mine. I don't care if you go out with every man in New York."

Charity sat searching his face a moment. Doug dropped his head before the scorn in the wide, honest gray eyes. Charity said then quietly: "I'm not surprised that you'd say a thing like that. I'm not even going to tell you the truth about why I married you. You wouldn't understand my code. We don't speak the same language."

Just then Mrs. Muggins came out on the porch to serve breakfast. But when she left Doug and Charity alone neither of them had an appetite for the tempting morning meal.

Charity stared at the table, her breath coming hot and short after her fit of anger. She hadn't known she possessed such a temper. Doug watched her angrily through lowered brows and tried to think of the proper retort. In a little while he leaned toward her, almost threateningly.

"You might just as well know now as any other time," Doug said, "that I have no intention of ever living with you—as your husband. We'll stick it out together, for appearances' sake, until I get this mess straightened out. Then, you take your money, I'll take mine, and we'll live happily ever after—with somebody else."

Charity got up with a cold little bow, her breakfast untouched.

"Now that we understand each other—" she left the sentence unfinished and started away.

Doug got up and threw his napkin down petulantly:

"And I don't want to live out here in this howling wilderness, either. I am going in town to find a penthouse some place!"

It was less than a week later that Doug told Charity he had found a penthouse overlooking Central Park. Charity was sorry to leave Templehaven because it was so quiet and spring had lent it the enchantment of fairyland. But from another angle the idea of moving into town appealed to her. Doug might not spend every evening with Yanner—and go out on parties till all hours of the morning, if it weren't quite so easy to drive over to her house.

Charity had felt at home in Templehaven. When Rafferty drove her into New York and stopped in front of a tall building, panic seized her. She had never been in a penthouse. How did one get up? She didn't even know the first thing about penthouse life.

Rafferty saved the day. She waited for him to take her bags, and followed. Inside she discovered it was an apartment hotel. The chauffeur spoke to the uniformed attendant who had opened the door for them.

"Mrs. Temple would like to go up to her apartment." The attendant touched his cap stiffly.

"The private elevator in the rear to your left, madame."

Rafferty handed a bellboy the bags and disappeared. The elevator took Charity to the top floor and the boy opened the door into what seemed like a huge hall.

A door swung open immediately and a butler, impeccable in livery and wooden in face, bowed to Charity. "I am Walker, madame."

Charity didn't know exactly what to say or do. As she hesitated, a maid appeared and, inclining her head, said, "I am Sylvia, madame. Mr. Temple says I am to serve you."

"Thank you," Charity gulped. It came to her with sickening realization that she knew nothing about servants. Not even how to make use of them.

"Shall I lead the way for madame?" Sylvia asked helpfully.

"Yes, do," Charity managed, then, "to my room first, please."

Sylvia, a tall blonde Swedish girl, was disappointed. She had seen Doug Temple several times in the two days since he had taken the penthouse and hired her along with it. And she had expected to serve a beautiful lady with a wardrobe of clothes, which would give her something to brag about. But it was evident from the blue suit and blue turban worn by Mrs. Temple upon her arrival that serving her would be no such gay adventure.

The maid led Charity through another hall, a small one off the large hall, and into a large room.

"This, madame," she informed Charity with a wide smile and only the slightest trace of an accent, "is the sitting room that goes with your suite."

Charity looked about in bewilderment. "How charming," she said then, noting that it was in walnut with blue satiny upholstery and blue drapes at the windows. In the corner was a grand piano.

Sylvia then led her through the living room and into a boudoir in blue and gold. It was stunningly beautiful. Off the bedroom was a large bathroom with sunken tub. Charity thought to herself that it was almost long enough to swim a few strokes in. But the crowning surprise came when Sylvia walked across the boudoir where a long row of windows opened to the floor and threw one of them open.

"Madame has a beautiful view from her balcony."

Charity gasped. For there, like a landscape painting, was Central Park—and beyond the fascinating tall buildings that make of New York's skyline a never-to-be-forgotten picture.

So that was what people meant when they said "penthouse"! It meant living on top of the world—with New York city at your feet. Then Charity surveyed the balcony. She began to walk and discovered she could go all around the roof. It was like a garden. Potted trees, blooming plants, flowers beginning to trail over trellisses. Sylvia followed Charity silently. Suddenly Charity stopped short and looked troubled.

"How many other aprtrments are there up here?" she asked.

"None, madame," Sylvia looked puzzled.

"Other tenants use the—roof—of course?" Charity asked, with a little flush of confusion.

"Oh, no, madame," Sylvia assured her, inwardly surprised that Mrs. Temple did not know her penthouses better than that. "This is your own private roof. No one else from the hotel is allowed up here."

Charity felt vastly relieved. "How many rooms have we?"

Sylvia studied a moment.

"Three in your suite, madame—a bedroom, living room, gymnasium and bath in your husband's suite. Ballroom, living room, billiard room—" she was silent a moment counting. "Eighteen, 19—about 20, madame."

Oak Dale Garden Club To Hold Annual Meeting on February 15

The Oak Dale Garden Club will hold its annual meeting Thursday, February 15, at 2:30 o'clock at the Locust Grove school auditorium, and officers for the coming year will be elected.

The president, Mrs. Chester W. Johnson, announces that Donald Hastings, of Atlanta, will be on the program at 3:30 o'clock to give instructions in the planting and pruning of roses and when and how to plant gladioli, dahlias and canna bulbs. A general talk will be given on vegetable gardens. A special invitation is issued to the Log Cabin Garden Club, the Spring Hill Garden Club and the Smyrna Woman's Club to attend the meeting.

The president requests all members to be present at 2:30, so the business of the club may be transacted and the election of officers held before the arrival of speakers and guests at 3:30.

Through the interest of Mrs. Chester W. Johnson, one year ago the Oak Dale club was organized. Mrs. Johnson was selected as leader with the following women selected to serve with her: Mrs. Joe McIntire, first vice president; Mrs. Hoyle Dobbins, second vice president; Mrs. Grady Ireland, secretary; Mrs. John Cahoon, treasurer; Mrs. Eugene DeBardeleben, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. George Anderson, auditor.

The major project of the year was the beautifying of the school grounds, which is not yet completed, but will be in the near future. Other activities of the club for the past year were a spring and fall flower show, one garden tour, a flower carnival, a musicale by the Griffin School of Music, three social teas, one silver tea, and a rock garden for the churchyard.

Distinguished speakers on the program for the past year were Ray Hastings, of Atlanta; Mrs. John Harper, of Atlanta; Mrs. J. R. Bachman, of Decatur; Mrs. Mat Turner, of Marietta; A. B. Simpson, of Atlanta; Donald Hastings, of Atlanta; Mrs. W. H. Medlin, past president of the Smyrna Woman's Club; Mrs. W. H. Douda, president of the Smyrna Woman's Club; Mrs. R. L. McEntire, president of the Spring Hill Garden Club; Mrs. W. N. Ponder, president of the West End Woman's Club; Mrs. C. M. Settles, former president of the West End Woman's Club; Mrs. Mary Griffith Dobbs, of Atlanta; Mrs. G. C. Green, president of the Smyrna Social Club; Mrs. Arthur Caldwell, president of the Log Cabin Garden Club; Mrs. Frank Baugh, of Spring Hill; Mrs. George Danniel, of Marietta; Mrs. Paul Lovejoy, of Spring Hill, and C. D. Chastine, president of the Atlanta Chemical Company.

Mrs. Massell Plans Party for Daughter

Mrs. Samuel Alan Massell will entertain her daughter, Sherley Claire Massell, at a valentine party this afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock, at her home.

Those invited include Laura Hope Asher, Marjorie Bloom, Barbara Fox, Ann Morris Gellerstedt, Marjorie Gross, Constance Jacobus, Mary Frances Kilpatrick, Catherine Kaufman, Catherine Morgan, Janice Oettinger, Marion Rosenberg, Frances Sanders, Margaret Shephard, Charlotte Simmons, Helen Sloan, Mildred Smith, Emily Frances Walsh, Valerie Blacknall and Helen Weill.

Rose Garden Club Holds Discussion

The Rose Garden Club met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Carlton McKenney on Peachtree road, with Mrs. Charles Evans and Mrs. Hayden Jones as co-hostesses. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Harrison Hines, president.

The feature of the meeting was a round-table discussion with Mrs. T. C. Erwin as an inspiration guest, adviser and source of information for various questions. As Mrs. Erwin is particularly interested in camellias, this flower was chosen as the principal topic of study.

Mrs. Donald Hastings, chairman of the judging course committee of the Habersham Garden Club, brought a message in regard to the course of lectures on "Judging, Arranging and Exhibiting in Amateur Flower Shows," which the Habersham Garden Club is presenting in Atlanta February 27 and 28. To take advantage of this opportunity, the Rose Garden Club is sending a large representation, with Mrs. Willard McBurne, and Mrs. Moreton Rolleston as official delegates from our organization.

Mrs. S. G. Beers, of Tauton, Mass., was a distinguished guest, and is remembered on her former visits to her sons and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Beers and Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Beers.

Luncheon was served in the dining room from an exquisitely appointed table presided over by Mrs. Carlton McKenney, Mrs. Charles Evans and Mrs. Hayden Jones. The following members were present: Mesdames H. W. Beers, Frank Berry, E. V. Carter Jr., Fred Cooledge Jr., W. M. Dunn, Charles Evans, Philip M. Graves, Harrison Hines, Norwood Griffin, Harry H. Johnson, Hayden Jones, Fleming Law, Mercer Lee, Charles Marshall, Willard B. McBurney, L. C. McKinney, Chauncey Middlebrooks, Bartow Morgan, Roy Morrison, Ernest Osborne, Moreton Rolleston, George W. Rowbothom, J. W. Speas, Frank Stevens, Cosby Swanson, Elwyn Tomlinson, T. E. Erwin, S. G. Beers and Donald Hastings.

Mrs. Edna Bentley Honored on Birthday

Mrs. Edna Bentley, worthy matron of Cascade Chapter No. 274, O. E. S., was given a Valentine party and handkerchief shower on Tuesday, which followed the business meeting, held at the chapter hall on Beecher street, in celebration of her birthday anniversary. A cake, embossed in pink, topped with pink candles, was presented the honor guest by Mrs. Bertha Hood, and Mrs. Carrie Bostwick presented the handkerchiefs encased in a fancy basket, decorated in yellow and white. Mrs. Carrie Bostwick arranged the details of the party and made the birthday cake.

Mrs. Agnes Harwell, past worthy matron of Cascade chapter, made a talk. The chapter sponsored a party at Base Hospital No. 48, and C. B. Meadows was master of ceremonies, assisted by his sister, Miss Evelyn Meadows and a group of young people. Dr. W. M. Powell and Tew Manning gave violin numbers, with Mrs. C. B. Meadows as the accompanist.

Mrs. Warner Gives Travelog LectureToday

Mrs. Edward G. Warner, president of Wesleyan Alumnae Association, who gives an illustrated travelog on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at Egleston Hall, will be assisted in receiving and entertaining by the executive board of the association, past president and national officers who will also form a welcoming committee are Mesdames Charles J. Haden, Harold McKenzie, R. G. Stephens, Herbert Alden, Carroll Griffin and Miss Annabel Horne.

Executive board members are Mesdames A. M. Roan, A. Worth Hobby, Nell Brown Coleman, Harvie Jordan, J. V. Poole, Miss Mary Ruth Senter, H. H. Ware Jr., W. T. Bryant, Randolph Wilson, T. L. Tidmore and William T. Asher, will receive the guests.

The travelog and oriental dance and musical program is an artistic affair sponsored by Wesleyan alumnae to raise funds for a scholarship fund. Groups are busy selling tickets, which are 35 cents for adults and 15 cents for children, and the program has wide appeal to those interested in travel, garden club devotees, school children and all friends of Wesleyan College.

Mrs. Warner is a charming speaker, whose magnetic personality and intimate knowledge together with the exquisite coloring and descriptive beauty of the slides, will afford delightful entertainment. The musical feature, in keeping with the Japanese motif, will be the aria from "Madame Butterfly," sung by Miss Minna Hecker, brilliant soprano. Oriental dances by Miss Nancy Keeler's pupils, dressed in colorful costumes, will complete the program. Members of Wesleyan Alumnae Association invite anyone interested to attend. Tickets may be secured at the door of Egleston Hall, on West Peachtree street.

Garden Hills Club Announces Plans.

Garden Hills Club met at the clubhouse on Wednesday with the president, Mrs. E. E. Limbaugh, presiding.

Mrs. J. Harold Hoover gave an interesting account of the fifth district garden meeting recently held at Sterchi's tea room. Mrs. W. Clyde Roberts, chairman of the garden divison, announced a meeting for Wednesday, February 14, at the home of Mrs. Ernest Rodgers, 218 Bolling road. Mrs. Limbaugh told of the plans to have a speaker for the meeting of the literary division to meet with Mrs. George Knapp an February 21.

The monthly dances being sponsored by the club have met with great success, the next one to be Saturday evening, March 3.

The program for the afternon was in charge of the music division, with Mrs. S. E. Treadwell as chairman. Mrs. Armand Carroll gave an interesting talk on "Music in the Home." Mrs. Carroll, who is chairman of music extension department of the federation of woman's club, presented Mrs. R. H. King, who gave a group of songs, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. John Cunningham. Miss Edith West rendered piano solos.

A social hour followed the close of the meeting with hostess as follows: Mrs. T. C. Branch, Mrs. J. S. Huff, Mrs. C. O. Johnson, Mrs. J. M. Kent and Mrs. W. H. Roane.

Miss Spalding Fetes Athens Visitors.

An attractive quartet of visitors including Misses Anne Wright Fortson, Janet DuBose, Elizabeth Lamkin and Ann Creekmore, of Athens, who are visiting Miss May Weltner at her home on Piedmont road, will be central figures at the theater party to be given by Miss Bolline Spalding this afternoon. The entertainment will follow the luncheon to be given by Miss Aline Cocke at her home on Thirteenth street, wheer the visitors were honor guests.

Since their arrival on yesterday they have been honored at a series of social affairs, and have proved the impetus for a perfect round of social affairs in the younger school contingent.

Paula Causey Plays Leading Role in 'The Mollusc' Tonight

Talented Paula Causey, who takes the leading role in "The Mollusc," in the play to be given this evening by the dramatic group of the Studio Club. Staff photo.

A dress rehearsal performance of "The Mollusc" was given in the little theater of the Studio Club at 1041-2 Forsyth street, on Friday evening for the membership of the club and their friends. The play, a bright English comedy, deals with a charming but self-indulgent woman, cleverly portrayed by Paula Causey, who persists in her pose of helplessness to the exasperation of her brother, home on a visit from South America. This energetic and charming young man, portrayed by Walter Paschall, proceeds to upset the complacent pose of his "molluscing" sister, arousing the henpecked husband, Irwin McKoy, and the thoroughly subdued secretary, Margaret Moss, to the realization of their individual rights, and ends by completely reversing her attitude toward her husband and announcing that he is taking the secretary back with him to South America.

After the play, members gathered in the reception room, where refreshments were served. Receiving the guests were Andrew Fairlie, president of the club, and Mrs. Paul French, chairman of the dramatic group. Assisting in entertaining were Mr. and Mrs. Allan Abele, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Allaise and Mrs. J. E. Campbell. Pouring coffee were Misses Jane Wallace, Angelyn Sasnett and Frances Watters.

The public will be given an opportunity to witness the play this evening at a special performance given in the theater of the club at 8:15 o'clock. An admission fee of 40 cents will be charged non-members. The stage settings were designed and built by Mat Jorgenson, Al Love has charge of the properties, Billy Elsas, the lighting effects, and George Ramey the makeup. The expert director is Elaine I. Minick.

Personals

Camp Fire Girls Deliver Doughnuts

Camp Fire Girls will make their first doughnut delivery today. Orders taken during this week will be filled at this time. Excitement has been great and competition keen among the many girls aiming for the prizes. A surprise group prize has been added to the individual awards to be given to the group that sells the greatest number of doughnuts.

The doughnut drive, an annual event of the Camp Fire Girls, was inaugurated last Saturday by girls in both in popular centers of Atlanta and Decatur. Girls and leaders, enthusiastic over their success of last week have asked to repeat this procedure.

Adopting as a slogan "Every Camp Fire Girl sells a dozen," groups are going far beyond that small quota. Some of the girls ranking high in sales are Suzanne Stewart, Winifred Lovingood, Inez Wilkins, Mildred Harris, Dorothy Malone, Katherine Brown. Many others have achieved a splendid record, but have not as yet reported definite numbers. Girls aiming for campships at Camp Toccoa this summer are working for the sale of at least five dozen.

The Camp Fire doughnut drive will continued another week, concluding Saturday, February 17, with that date as the final delivery. Girls will take orders throughout the coming week. Special orders will be delivered to individuals and clubs during the week it they will notify a Camp Fire Girl or call Walnut 3738.

Brilliant Valentine Ball Given By Pi Pi Club at Driving Club

Members of the Pi Pi Club entertained at a brilliant valentine ball last evening at the Piedmont Driving Club. Myriads of shaded lights and quantities of palms were combined with crimson and white carnations in the effective decorations. On each column in the ballroom were red cardboard hearts pierced by golden arrows and surrounded by garlands of southern smilax. Gay colored balloons were caught to each column. Over the arch at the far end of the room was a large red heart surrounded by electric lights and pierced by a golden arrow, from which showers of miniature hearts fell. The Pi Pi Club emblem hung in the center of the arch and a basket holding a lovely arrangement of crimson and white carnations graced the mantel.

Around the orchestra stand were garlands of tiny electric lights with red tulip shades. The entrance to the ballroom was guarded with palms and palms and ferns were banked in the corners of the room.

The tables for the dinner, which preceded the dance, were arranged in a semi-circle in the ballroom and in the center of each table was a mound of crimson and white carnations and arising from the mounds were slender red tapers. At the ends of the tables were silver candelabra holding red candles caught with white carnations and tulle bows.

The grand march was led by Miss Martha de Golian, president of the club, with Rutledge Tufts, assisted by other officers of the club and their dates, including Miss Ruth Hunnicutt with Tom Eve, Miss Mary Elizabeth Barge with Charlie Yates and Miss Annette Hightower with George Gault.

Miss de Golian was gowned in powder blue crepe fashioned with a short jacket and flaring net sleeves. A spray of mauve-shaded orchids combined with valley lilies completed her costume.

Miss Hunnicutt wore a light green crepe dress fashioned with a graceful skirt and arnamented with silver sequins. She wore a spray of purple and gold orchids caught to the left shoulder of her gown.

Miss Hightower chose a becoming gown of blue mousseline de soie, featuring a broad collar. Her flowers were a shoulder spray of deep-purple orchids.

Miss Barge was gowned in net of soft blue, fashioned smoothly to the knees and from there falling to the floor in several rows of shirred graduated ruffles. A spray of orchids and valley lilies completed her costume.

Oriental Night Planned by Club.

Oriental Night will be observed on Saturday evening, February 24, at the Shrine mosque by the members of the Oriental Club. Roy M. Felker, chairman of the dance committee, has arranged interesting plans for the affair which is an annual event of the club. The decorations will be eastern in character and the guests will appear in costume. Arabs, sheiks and dancing girls will be impersonated by the members and their guests and the entertainment will attract wide social interest.

Barbara Bell Fashions

A THOROUGHLY AMERICAN JUMPER FROCK.

Exclamations of Oh's and Ah's are expected to go up when little Miss Junior sees our pattern for today.

Mothers who have written in to ask the new style trends in everyday clothes for their daughters, whose ages are from 8 to 14, will no doubt be pleased when they learn that the most talked of garment for spring and summer, 1934, is the starkly simple jumper or suspender frock made in wool for immediate wear and wash fabric for summer.

The jumper is worn over a shirtwaist of any washable material, ranking from waffle pique to fine lawn or organdy. For immediate wear with the wool jumpers, fine pique, which has an especial affinity for dark wool, is the favorite of the moment.

Plaid gingham in gay colors is being shown for summer wear. The shirtwaists worn in conjunction with them are trimly tailored ones, made with round little child-like collars that are unfailingly becoming to youthful throats.

The two-piece construction of this style, which reduces laundry work considerably is an obvious reason for its universal appeal. And mothers who are concerned with having their daughters always appear refreshingly crisp and wholesome will heartily endorse the revival of this thoroughly American fashion.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1242-B is designed in sizes 8, 10, 12, 14. Size 10 requires 1 yard of 54-inch material, or 2 yards of 35-inch washable fabric. The blouse, with short sleeves, requires 1 yard of 35-inch material. Price of pattern 15 cents.

Every Barbara Bell has an illustrated instruction guide that is easy to understand.

Address orders to Barbara Bell Pattern Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

NANCY PAGE

Nancy's Down Town Trip Gives Her New Ideas for Draperies

By FLORENCE La GANKE

Two new ways of treating windows interested Nancy on a trip downtown. She saw one pair of draperies made of pongee or similar material. The drapery combined a swag effect with a draped back curtain.

The poles were of metal and had the appearance of long arrows. At one end was the simulated feather end and at the other the pointed dart.

The swag or draped part was thrown, in apparent carelessness over the rod. One end came cascading down almost to the sill.

The other part of the drapery had pinch pleats and covered about one-half of the width of the window. White tie backs held the draped part in place. Venetian blinds were at the dindows and glass curtains were dispensed with.

The other drapery seemed quite appropriate for summer cottages. Nancy could see them made from unbleached muslin in a good quality. The hem at the bottom and down the front was made of a piece of eyelet embroidered muslin. The embroidery was in dark blue.

The valance at the top was of dark blue lacquer covered wood.

Nancy knew she could get this eyelet embroidery, which is a machine version of the Broderie Anglaise of Victorian days, in a four or five-inch width. Not all the surface is covered with embroidery of course, but the plain part in the muslin was utilized as well as the edge. This allowed her to have a hem about four inches wide.

Nancy has a leaflet on "Color in the Home." Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your copy. Write Nancy Page, care of The Atlanta Constitution.

LaGrange Alumnae Announce Plans.

The February meeting of group No. 1 of the Atlanta chapter of the LaGrange College Club Alumnae and Former Students' Association was held at the home of Mrs. R. L. Brannen on Ponce de Leon avenue, with Misses Nell and Florence Foster as cohostesses.

Plans were discussed for a luncheon which the LaGrange chapter, group No. 1 and group No. 11 of Atlanta will have during the G. E. A. convention in April. Group No. 1 will sponsor a luncheon at Sears, Roebuck & Co. on Tuesday, March 6, at 1 o'clock, and groups Nos. 1 and 11 will sponsor a concert to be given by the LaGrange College Glee Club the latter part of March in Atlanta, the place to be announced later.

The speaker for the afternoon was Miss Mary Green, a LaGrange College alumna, also a graduate of Emory University and at present head of the English department of Hoke Smith Junior High school. Her subject was "Trend of Contemporary American Literature."

Those present were Mesdames J. M. Reeves, Thomas M. Campbell, W. H. Meacham, K. I. Gordy, J. T. Moon, W. H. Burnside, W. S. Norton, S. E. McConnell, Mary L. Everett, W. F. Culpepper, W. C. Ford, C. D. McDonald, Guy Carmichael, Harold Aldmand, E. W. Andrew, Misses Nell Foster, Flotence Foster, Mary and Sue Green.

The next meeting will be held on the second Wednesday in March at the home of Mrs. W. H. Burnside on Ridgecrest road, the date being changed from the first Wednesday of the month to the second.

Piano Recital.

A piano recital, featuring little eleven-year-old Pearl Feldman, talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Feldman, will be given Sunday evening at 8:30 o'clock in the Workmen's Circle Lyceum, 473 Capitol avenue, under the auspices of the Orpheus Music Club, Anna Mae Farmer, director.

Miss Feldman will play solos by Beethoven, Bach, MacDowell, Mozart and three preludes from the pen of Foote. With Miss Marie Winkelman, she will play duets from Verdi's "Il Trovatore," Gounod's "Faust" and Liszt's "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2."

Assisting in the program will be Miss Henri Anderson, pupil Bowie School of Dramatic Art, who will render readings, and A. J. McGowan Jr., tenor pupil of Wagner Voice studio, who will sing, accompanying himself on his accordion.

EPISCOPAL SCHOOL TO OBSERVE BIRTHDAY

Plans for celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the summer school of the Episcopal church at Sewanee, Tenn., were laid Friday by Episcopal leaders at a meeting at All Saints church.

Bishop Frank A. Juhan, of the Florida diocese, was chairman of the meeting and presided. Bishop H. J. Mikell, of Atlanta, will have charge of the school for the clergy, and Bishop William N. Grees, of Mississippi, will head the school for adults, while Dr. Gardiner L. Tucker, of Louisiana, will be in charge of the school for young people. The summer session will be held in August, at the University of the South, and will attract more than 1,000 students. Distinguished church leaders will speak during the course.

HEARING TO BE HELD ON HURT BOND ISSUE

A hearing on demurrers filed by Atlanta Trust Company to answers of Hurt Building Corporation and Atlanta Realty Corporation in which they seek to set up a defense of usury in the Hurt Building bond issue, will be had before Judge E. E. Pomeroy on Monday at 9:30 o'clock. If the entire defense of usury should prove successful, it will mean a reduction of the bonded indebtedness of the Hurt Building from $3,800,000 to $925,000.

At the same time Judge Pomeroy will consider the matter of the distribution among the bondholders of more than $600.000 now in the hands of the receivers.

SUICIDE ATTEMPTED BY CONVICTED BUTLER

Despondent over his chain gang sentence for thefts from the home of Ryburn G. Clay, where he was formerly butler, Robert Wallace, a negro, attempted suicide in the detention room of the courthouse Friday.

Wallace took poison and was admitted to Grady hospital but his condition was not thought to be serious. The former butler was arrested several months ago on charges of stealing $400 worth of clothes and money from the Atlanta banker's home, and Friday pleaded guilty before Judge Hutcheson. He was given a sentence of from two to four years.

Too Much and Too Little Land Two Men in Court

The paradox of binding over one man because he gave too much and another because he gave too little was carried out in police court Friday afternoon by Recorder John L. Cone.

W. T. Enterkin, president of the Enterkin Sales Company, was held for criminal court of Atlanta under $100 bond because, it was testified by City Inspector of Weights and Measures W. R. Echols, he sold beer containing 4.95 per cent alcohol in face of a city ordinance limiting the content to 3.2 per cent.

W. Satterwhite, of the Satterwhite Coal Company, was bound over under $100 bond on a charge of being 280 pounds short on a ton-and-a-half of coal ordered by the government for a relief agency.

Household Arts

By ALICE BROOKS

Quaint cross-stitch figures always meet with our approval. Here are some that are quick to do and so give a needlewoman a chance to quickly make some gay refreshment cloths that will come in most handy for her entertaining. The two separate figures embroidered and framed make a striking decoration for any room. The guest towel below them would be most acceptable to any housewife. The pillow is the sort of thing that adds a feminine touch to the bedroom.

In pattern 5048 you will find a transfer pattern of two 9-inch corner motifs, one motif 8x8 inches, two figures each 3x5 1-2 inches, a motif 3x11 inches as well as a towel motif and two corners not illustrated, directions for making the articles shown. Price of pattern 10 cents.

Culbertson on Contract

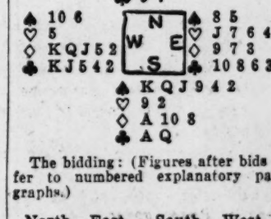

Reaching a Grand Slam

By ELY CULBERTSON
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Two things are very essential in the bidding of a grand slam. The first is information as to first-round control of each of the four suits, and the second is that there be sufficient low-card tricks, either established or easily establishable, on which to discard losers in one hand or the other. Grand slam bids, of course, are unusual. It is an extraordinary event when the partners find such perfect fits and so many high cards that a contract to take all 13 tricks is taken out of the realm of the impossible and removed to the realm of the probable.

The hand below, which was played in a recent championship tournament, is an example of accurate bidding to reach the desired result.

North, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

The bidding: (Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

North	East	South	West
1♡	Pass	2♠(1)	3◇(2)
3♡(3)	Pass	3♠(4)	Pass
4♠(5)	Pass	4NT(6)	Pass
5NT(7)	Pass	7♠(8)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—A forcing takeout. South has four honor-tricks and while it is true he does not have an especially good fit with his partner's suit, the hand is so strong that a forcing takeout must be made.

2—West, not vulnerable, seeks to obstruct the march of his opponents to game.

3—Some players would bid four hearts with this hand as showing a practically solid trump suit with not more than one loser, but North felt that since he was bidding three hearts freely, he was showing a strong hand.

4—Showing rebid values in the spade suit.

5—Inasmuch as South has twice bid the spade suit North now shows that he can support it.

6—The conventional bid showing two aces and the king of a bid suit.

7—The conventional response.

8—An equally logical bid would have been seven notrump. In rubber play seven spades is to be preferred. In match-point play seven notrump offers the chance to make the highest possible score.

There is, of course, nothing to the play of the hand as South has seven spades, four hearts, one club and one diamond available and thus makes the grand slam contract laid down.

Oglethorpe Woman's Board Holds Meeting.

Members of Oglethorpe woman's board met on Friday at the Piedmont Driving Club, with the president, Mrs. William Fisch, in the chair. Dr. Thornwell Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe University, made an informal talk. The completion of the fund of $250 for the bicentennial memorial to the late Colonel Robert J. Lowry and Mrs. Lowry, was announced. The names of Robert J. Lowry and Emma Markham Lowry will be placed upon the Georgia bicentennial tablet in the capitol.

The tablet will be constructed after February 12, which date concludes the bicentennial year in commemoration of the founding of the thirteenth colony over 200 years ago by General James E. Oglethorpe. The gift made by the late Colonel and Mrs. Lowry was the largest ever made to Oglethorpe University by Georgians.

Miss Barbara Settle Entertains at Dance.

Numbered among the social affairs of the week-end centering the interest of the younger set was the dance given last evening by Miss Barbara Settle at her home on Fairview road. The Valentine motif was featured in the effective decorations. Red and white roses and crimson tapers adorned the reception rooms.

Miss Settle received her guests assisted by her mother, Mrs. Fleming Settle, and her guest, Miss Sarah Latimer, of Marietta. The attractive young hostess was gowned in periwinkle blue crepe ornamented with narrow taffeta ruffles of a matching color tone. Her flowers were violets combined with pink rosebuds.

The dining table was overlaid with a lace cloth and centered with a silver bowl holding crimson roses encircled by silver candelabra holding red tapers. Favors were gay lace paper Valentines and the guests included 75 members of the younger school set.

Friendly Counsel

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

After my husband and I had lived together happily for 10 years, after we had two splendid boys, another woman came into his life. I tried in every way to break up this affair for I loved him and I wanted to keep the home for our children. No doubt I was often cross and irritable with him for the hurt was deep in my heart. He says I nagged him continually. I finally went to this woman and poured my heart out to her, told her that she was wrecking my life and my husband's as well. She said, in effect, that it was my business to keep him at home contented. I went to visit my mother hoping to get on my feet. In a few days I received a letter from my husband telling me to stay where I was because if I returned I wouldn't find him there. After a year's struggle to provide for the children I found it was too much for me so my husband took the oldest boy and I kept the younger one. He is well provided for by his father but it breaks my heart to be separated from him. As strange as it sounds, my husband comes to see me frequently swears he still loves me. On the last visit he suggested that we go to see some old mutual friends, which we did. I can't understand it but, after all and in spite of all, I still love him and want to go back to him. How I do want my home again with him and the two children! Can you help me solve my riddle? P. B. M.

ANSWER:

It is terrible to contemplate how a man can drag a woman's pride in the dust, humiliate her before her children and before the world and in the end retain her love. Like the tendrils of a vine a woman's love is reaching out to twine around some supporting object and if no supporting object be within reach then it will twine around anything that is within reach.

In view of the fact that there are children being brought up under adverse conditions, without a home, without the background that only a father and mother can furnish and in view of the fact that each professes love for the other, what can this couple do but patch up their differences, re-establish their home and let by-gones be by-gones. Perhaps a trusted mutual friend can be persuaded to undertake the reconciliation. It frequently happens that an outsider can point out to an estranged couple facts that have escaped their understanding. Any good man or woman would welcome the opportunity to be the medium of reuniting a little family and starting them on their way to a normal existence.

Mrs. Morgan Honors Trio of Debutantes.

Mrs. Thomas H. Morgan entertained at a seated tea on Friday at the Piedmont Driving Club in honor of a trio of attractive debutantes including Misses Caroline Crumley, Susanne Memminger and Mimi Fleming. The Valentine motif was reflected in the decoration on the table, which was graced by an old-fashioned bouquet of pastel-shaded flowers, encircled by a lace paperholder. White and silver ribbons radiated from miniature bouquets to the place of each guest.

The attractive place cards were lace paper Valentines and Mrs. Edward Lewis assisted her mother in entertaining.

Invited to meet the honor guests were Misses Florence Bryan, Mary Bryan, Lundye Sharpe, Betty Schroder, Carroll Hopkins, Elizabeth Hopkins, Harriett Grant, Judy King, Laura Smith, Mabelle Dickey, Mesdames W. W. Memminger, Robert M. Crumley, Malcolm Fleming and Edward Lewis.

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Big Saving! No Cooking! So Easy!

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It takes but a moment to prepare, and costs very little, but it positively has no equal for quick, lasting relief.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with granulated sugar syrup, made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's so easy! Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made, and you get four times as much for your money. It never spoils and children love its taste.

This simple mixture soothes and heals the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, the most reliable healing agent for severe coughs. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Southeastern Slated To Abolish Court Meet After 1934; Michigan Expects Great Game With Tech, Yost Says

SOUTHEASTERN ABOLISHES RULE ON GRID SCOUTS

Officials Fail To Vote on Expansion of Present Conference.

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 9.—(AP) Taking no action upon proposed membership increase and abolishing football scouting restrictions the Southeastern conference moved swiftly through a harmonious business session late today to wind up its scheduled two-day annual meeting in one day.

After disposing of proposed constitutional amendments without resorting to executive session and re-electing Dr. Frank L. McVey, of the University of Kentucky, conference president, the delegates packed their bags and arranged departure for home after tonight's annual banquet.

Possibility of Loyola of New Orleans or some other school being admitted to membership faded when a constitutional amendment to increase the conference membership from 13 to 14 was withdrawn without vote or discussion.

Had the amendment been adopted, invitation might have been extended to Loyola of New Orleans, Centenary, Southwestern of Memphis or Mercer to join the loop.

SCOUTING GETS BREAK.

With coaches voicing strong disapproval of scouting restrictions the conference adopted unanimously a substitute amendment by Dr. James F. Broussard, Louisiana State University, rescinding the constitutional article confining scouting to two opponent games a season.

The conference declined to adopt an amendment formally providing for boxing, tennis, swimming, and golf tournaments, and it was made plain in formal floor discussion that the basketball tournament would probably be discontinued after this year.

Expense of holding the cage tourney was cited as one reason for abolition. Another was that it required too much time for the students to spend away from studies and "was run principally for the amusement of the spectators."

The conference rejected a proposal to pay the central football officials' booking office $100 a year for each member school which would have been an increase from $60.

"TEAMS" OF FOUR.

It approved, however, a suggestion to group game officials in "teams" of four for game assignments, with provision for football committee supervision of the booking office's selection of the crews.

Requests for conference permission for two annual post-season football games in New Orleans were submitted and referred to the executive committee.

The New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports Association asked permission for a game on Christmas or New Year's Day between an outstanding Southeastern conference team and a leading team of some other section and a present and two past potentates of the New Orleans Shriners temple asked authority for an annual New Year's game between teams of the Southern and Southeastern conferences.

The Shriners asked a game for the benefit of their hospitals for crippled children at Shreveport, La., and Greenville, S. C.

UNWORKABLE.

Coaches Frank Thomas, of Alabama, and "Biff" Jones, of Louisiana State, urged unrestricted scouting, and A. H. Armstrong, conference secretary, quoted Coach Alexander, of Georgia Tech, as saying restriction was "unworkable in playing close schedules."

"It almost makes liars out of our coaches," Dr. Wilbur Smith, Tulane athletic director, asserted. "The coaches want scouting left open."

Freshmen football games permitted were increased in number from two to four.

Officers re-elected besides President McVey were Dr. James F. Broussard, vice president, Louisiana State University, vice president; A. H. Armstrong, Georgia Tech, secretary, and Judge William Hemingway, University of Mississippi, and J. J. Doster, Alabama, members of the executive committee.

Georgia's Great Outdoors

Let's see about the results you can expect from the small game farm, with anything like reasonable care and a bit of luck. Six pairs of quail should yield 390 eggs for setting, and a hatch of 300 young birds should be made, or an absolute minimum of 200, although 200 is not even a fair figure. Take it at that, however, and you have a potential 100 covies next year when you free them to propagate. From the grouse or pheasant, 240 eggs should be obtained which should yield at least 150 birds for restocking. Your six turkeys should produce at least 50 birds to turn loose. Four fawns should be raised from two does and one buck deer. Only 50 clubs of this kind would mean 10,000 quail, 7,500 grouse or pheasants, 2,500 turkeys and 200 deer. Five years of this with adequate protection would make Georgia a hunter's paradise.

Goodwin Is Winner In South Florida Play

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 9.—(AP) Tommy Goodwin, the youthful golf veteran from Monroe, N. Y., came through handily, as expected, to win the finals of the annual south Florida golf championship here this afternoon.

He defeated Manuel Ortuno, West Palm Beach, 7 and 6. Two weeks ago Tommy beat Ortuno, 5 and 4, in the annual Lakeworth tournament.

Ortuno, badly off his game in the afternoon round of the 36-hole finals, had no chance to stave off the fine attack the New Yorker showed. The local golfer's putting cost him heavily.

Goodwin was one up at the end of the morning round, but in the afternoon pulled out some fine shots and the outcome was never in doubt.

Willie Heston Greatest Back I Ever Saw---"Hurry-Up" Yost

"The greatest player? Willie."

It was Fielding H. Yost, of Michigan, speaking.

And he was talking about Willie Heston. He never identifies him other than by the one word, Willie. Any time "Hurry-up" Yost says "Willie" he is talking about Willie Heston.

Yost has been at Michigan since 1901. No coach in the game has had any greater teams than Yost. No coach has had as many.

Before going to Michigan he coached at Nebraska and Stanford.

He has looked at a lot of football players in almost a half century of football. And the best back he ever saw was Willie Heston.

Heston was a back at Michigan in 1901, 1902, 1903 and 1904.

He was a member of the great team of 1901 which played the first Tournament of Roses game and beat Stanford, 49 to 0, forcing Stanford to quit with nine minutes left to play because Stanford could not put 11 men on the field to finish the game.

"Heston was round and built like a barrel. But he was the fastest starter I have ever seen in football. We had an Olympic sprinter champion at Michigan in those days named Archie Hahn," said Yost.

"He was the champion at 60 yards and at 100 yards. Willie could beat him for 40 yards. That meant he was starting quicker and moving faster than the Olympic sprint champion.

"Willie could get through a hole quick as a flash. I've seen a lot of fast backs see a hole, make up their mind to go through it and start. But before they would get there the hole would close up. Not for Willie. He never failed once.

ALONZO STAGG AGREES.

Alonzo Stagg agreed that Heston was one of the greatest backs he ever saw. Stagg will never say which was the greatest. I have a sneaking suspicion that he would say Walter Eckersal. But Stagg refuses to decide.

Yost does too, for that matter. He won't say who was the greatest player he ever saw. But the greatest back he ever coached or put his eyes on was Willie Heston.

Yost likes to recall that game of January 1, 1902, when his famous 1901 team, the team that scored 550 points and did not have a point scored against it, went to the first Tournament of Roses game.

Dan McGugin, now coach at Vanderbilt, was a member of the team.

"We took only 15 players," said Yost. "And we played in Pasadena on an old dirt field. When there were nine minutes left it was a case of lending Stanford some of our players or calling off the game. We called it off."

That game is never included in the scores of the Rose Bowl classic issued each year. It was a Tournament of Roses game but it was not played in the Rose Bowl. For the very simple reason that the Rose Bowl was not built until years later.

Consequently, you may search the Tournament of Roses scores and not find the Michigan victory over Stanford on January 1, 1902.

Willie Heston was great that day. As was the entire Michigan team.

"It was quite a team," said Stagg. "I recall they beat Chicago, 21 to 0, that same season."

YOST'S TRIBUTE TO STAGG.

Yost and Stagg are great characters. They fascinate one with their knowledge of the game.

And yesterday at lunch Yost and Stagg had the knives and forks all lined up in formations on the table.

And Yost paid a tribute to Stagg that somehow made one proud of them both.

Stagg began at Chicago in 1892. He left there a year ago and last season had a great team at the College of the Pacific in California.

Yost, after three years of coaching at other institutions, was at Michigan in 1901.

And yesterday, after the coffee was gone, Yost looked over at Stagg and said:

"The first book on football I ever read was one by a fellow named Stagg. It was written in 1893. It was about this high," he said, measuring off about five inches on his hand.

"No, Fielding," said Stagg, "it was about six inches tall."

"Well," said Yost, "you can cut out all the stuff that has grown out of the forward pass and you can get everything you need to know about end play, line play, backfield play and the general fundamentals of football out of the book that Stagg wrote in 1893. That's how good a book it was. It's all in there—the game of football."

And Stagg looked pleased, and I am sure he was. And I, who am a rank sentimentalist, sat there and looked at the two of them—42 years of coaching for Stagg, 36 years of coaching for Yost—and wondered if any other profession could match these two for knowledge of their craft, for character and for personality.

STAGG LIKES THE COAST.

Stagg, whose College of Pacific team is scheduled with California and Southern California next fall, does not expect to win many games.

"We have a squad of about 35 men," he said. "Most of them are rather light. But they fight hard and they try. I had a good passer last fall and took advantage of his skill to keep our attack well balanced. I worked out a backfield formation which I like."

The two major California schools offered Stagg's team games for 1934. It was a distinct compliment to one of the greatest figures the game has produced. California and Southern Cal have many requests for games. But they wished to honor Alonzo Stagg

Stagg was retired at Chicago by the rule which automatically and honorably retires any member of the faculty after so many years of service. They remain with the university but are not in active work.

Stagg chose to continue actively. He remains hale and hearty and full of enthusiasm for his work.

KEY GOLFERS ARE ORGANIZED; OFFICERS NAMED

Fouche Elected President. Byrd and Kaiser Other Officers.

By Jack Troy.

The James L. Key Golf Association is no longer a matter of talk. Never again will golfers stand around on Sunday and peer around hopefully for a partner.

That's all a part of the dead past because Thursday night H. O. Davis, professional, saw hopes of long standing realized when players met at the club and organized the James L. Key Golf Association.

A. L. Fouche, of the Citizens & Southern National bank, was elected president of the association. Other officers included Lem Byrd, of the South Side Battery Company, vice president, and A. J. Kaiser, cashier of The Constitution, secretary-treasurer.

At a later meeting other officers will be named and further plans made for the season.

ALL ELIGIBLE.

All golfers are eligible for membership in the association. Dues are $1 a year. Membership may be secured through any of the officers or at the club through H. O. Davis.

Intentions of the association include:

1. Being a member of the Southern Golf Association and Georgia State Golf Association. Members will be eligible for play in tournaments held by above associations.
2. Holding of monthly tournaments or as often as the members desire.
3. Scheduling of club matches with other municipal golf associations of the city.
4. Promotion of closer relationships between golfers who play the course.

Pro Davis will assist the association in every way possible and will sponsor all tournaments and keep an accurate handicap system under the rules of the United States Golf Association.

"I am very happy to see James L. Key golfers organized," Davis said last night. "It is to be an opportunity for golfers to get closer together.

SECURE PARTNERS.

"A great advantage will be the chance to secure partners at any time. In the past many golfers have stood around on Sunday and have been unable to find partners. Now players can call up each other and arrange games.

"Then, too, the golfers will come to know me better. They will have a part in running the course. We will have a committee on ground rules for tournaments.

"We will have team matches with other municipal courses and a series of tournaments for teams within the association. Individual events will be held from time to time.

"Our first annual club champion tournament will be held in September. There will be a large cup for the winner and smaller cups for leading players. It is our purpose to have prizes for golfers never having won a prize."

The James L. Key course is well kept and very popular. The association is expected to add greatly to its popularity.

HUSTON LINKED IN DODGER DEAL

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The revival today of reports that the Brooklyn baseball club's stock might be put on the market, in whole or in part, brought into the picture the name of Colonel T. L. Huston, former partner of Colonel Jacob Ruppert in the ownership of the New York Yankees.

Atlanta newspapers credited Colonel Huston with being interested in a possible deal, which also would include the return of Wilbert Robinson to the management of the Dodgers, but Stephen W. McKeever, veteran president of the Brooklyn club, denied any negotiations were under way or in prospect.

"I haven't heard anything from Huston," said McKeever. "Every winter we get a lot of offers, but they don't mean anything and we are not interested."

Colonel Huston, an engineer, shared a 50-50 partnership with Colonel Ruppert in the purchase of the Yankees in 1915. After building a championship team and new stadium, they parted company in 1922, one of their misunderstandings involved Huston's desire to install Robinson as manager, whereas Ruppert insisted on retaining Miller Huggins. It was reported Ruppert purchased his partner's half interest for arount $1,500,000.

Ever since the death of Charles H. Ebbets in 1925, the Brooklyn club's affairs have been in some turmoil. A provision in Ebbets' will prevented executors from selling any part of his 50 per cent stock interest in the club for 10 years or until 1935. The other half is owned by the McKeever interests, which were responsible for the ousting of Robinson as manager two years ago.

Constitution Breaks News.

First news of the proposed purchase of the Brooklyn baseball club by Colonel T. L. Huston, wealthy Georgia sportsman and advisory director of the Atlanta club, was carried Thursday in The Constitution sports section.

It was announced that a wealthy former major league owner was considering the purchase of the Brooklyn club and make Wilbert Robinson, now president of the Atlanta Crackers, manager, a position he held for many years.

It was also stated that nothing regarding the transaction would be done until the end of the 1934 season.

Weaver Caught For Sylvester

SYLVESTER, Ga., Feb. 9.—Bob Weaver, young catcher recently reported signed by the Atlanta Crackers, caught last season for the Sylvester club in the Southwest Georgia league. He is a clean-cut, hard-working ball player, and there is no doubt among the fans of this little circuit that he will make good in most any company. He was one of the most popular players in the circuit last season.

PURPLE BEATS LANIER, 38 TO 33

Boys' High put on a great rally in the third period Friday night to defeat their old rivals, the Lanier High School Poets of Macon, 38-33, in a thrilling game played at the school auditorium.

The Poets were off to a swift start. They were ahead 14-6 at the end of the first quarter and 22-18 at the end of the half. But with the resumption of play in the last half, the Purple shooters cut into the lead and soon forged ahead.

Maffett with 19 points led the Boys' High scoring, while Ginsberg at forward rang up 11 points. Both played excellent games.

Lineups:

Watch Mac Smith At Merion, Says Densmore Shute

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 9.—(AP)—"Watch Mac Smith at Merion." That's the advice Densmore Shute brings back from the Pacific slope.

"And it's not just because I played two rounds at Agua Caliente with Mac," says the holder of the oldest golf title of them all, the British open, "and saw him shoot a 73 and a 71 without as many as three good putts falling.

"I'm thinking about those narrow fairways at Merion. And remember it's not one of those real long courses. Altogether, it is just the kind of a course Mac likes, and I know he has never been playing any better.

"Yes, he's got a mighty good chance to win the national open at Merion," opined positively that mild mannered son of a British professional.

But to turn from the old Carnoustie master to Shute himself—"How about yourself, Denny?"

He smiled a very quizzical smile. "I can't remember when I've played as uncertainly as those first few rounds out in California. But that's all over now. I stayed away from the San Francisco tournament and practiced all the time.

"Bobby Cruickshank — fortunately for me—had an infected leg and was forced out of the Frisco play, and so he helped me pull my game together."

Denny isn't sure even now what happened to his game—the play that won at St. Andrews last summer.

TECH DEFEATED BY VANDY, 38-30

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 9.—(AP) Grabbing an early lead which it lost only once, the Vanderbilt quintet won its basketball game with Georgia Tech here tonight, 38 to 30. An exchange of shots following the first whistle gave Vanderbilt its edge and the first period ended Vanderbilt 20, Georgia Tech 12. Tech came back after the opening of the second half, however, and for a few minutes ran several points ahead of the Commodores.

Geny, Vandy forward, kept up his fine shooting of this season again to lead the Commodore five in scoring with a total of 12 points to his credit. Glenn, Georgia Tech guard, led the visitors with 10 points.

Tech left for Lexington, Ky., where tomorrow night the Jackets meet the Kentucky Wildcats, present Southeastern conference leaders.

LOU LITTLE ARRIVES---HE'S A SWELL GUY!

Rose Bowl Victor Will Lose Nine Men From 1933 Team.

By Ralph McGill.

Lou Little is the sort of a guy one likes to write about.

The Columbia coach whose football Lions defeated Stanford in the Rose Bowl on January 1 to start the new year off with the dizziest of upsets, arrived yesterday for the national football rules committee meeting in Atlanta. (I think there may have been a paragraph in the papers about that meeting.)

He is a swell sort of person as we all had suspected. Most people are—who gets things done. (Such as winning Rose Bowl games, for instance.) Lou Little makes friends immediately.

Things happened about like this:

LIKES HIS EATS.

He registered at the club with his left hand.

"A southpaw?" said the observing reporter.

"All my life," he said. "Now and then I have tried to learn to eat from the right side but I always get too interested in the food and forget it."

On the way up in the elevator he said that he was, of course, delighted with his team's victory in the Bowl.

His greatest thrills, next to the touchdown run by Barabas, were the three great goal-line stands which his team made, within the 10-yard line to halt the Stanford drives.

His team next year?

"Probably not as strong as this past fall. You wouldn't think so, would you?"

"Well, said the inquiring reporter, "they seldom are after a year such as your team had. And especially when one loses a quarterback such as Montgomery, who called such a faultless game in the Rose Bowl."

"And how many men did he lose from the 1933 team?"

"We lose—let me see—we played 16 men in the Stanford game. We lose nine of those."

LOU LITTLE.

"What about the prospects for 1934?"

"Well, not so hot. Our freshman team hasn't won a single game in two years. That doesn't sound so good, does it?"

"What sort of spring practice will you have?"

"Well, not so good, either. We don't have much spring practice. Wish we did. Most of our opponents do. You see, our squad is small anyhow. And a lot of the men are out for track or baseball or crew or things like that. We don't have much spring practice.

"Say," he said, "how's Bill Alexander? There is a great fellow. Everybody likes Bill Alexander. I hope he has a good team next fall."

He was informed that Mr. Alexander was in great spirits and would likely have a good club. And that his 1933 team, by losing two games, 7 to 6; one game, 9 to 7; one, 7 to 0, and one, 12 to 9, had set an all-time record for hard luck.

Little is a distinguished-looking gentleman. He wears nose glasses and looks, for all the world, like a prominent scientist and educator.

A PESSIMIST.

He is something of a pessimist. I mean he wears suspenders AND a belt. The suspenders are blue and red—very neat.

He gives the impression of nervous energy. They say of him that he coaches that way. He's all over the field—dashing there to show the backs something—hurrying back to look at the line.

He gets credit for one of the most amazing coaching feats of 1933. He was not given a chance to win from Stanford.

Yet he put a team on the field which was ready. It fought hard, it did not lose heart. It played faultless football.

FAMOUS COACH, ATHLETIC HEAD PRAISES ALEX

Rules Committee Begins Deliberations in Secret Meeting.

By Ralph McGill.

Michigan expects a great game with Georgia Tech in Ann Arbor next fall, said Fielding H. Yost, the famous coach and athletic director at Michigan for the past 36 years.

Yost, who arrived Friday for the annual meeting of the national football rules committee, which is meeting in Atlanta this week, said that Michigan had lost most of her stars with the close of the 1933 season.

"We will have a lot of new players," he said, "and I cannot say what sort of a team we will have. I know that Bill Alexander's teams are always well-coached and I understand that his 1934 team will be stronger than the one of last fall," he said.

SERIOUSLY CONSIDERED.

"We never underestimate a team we are going to play. Georgia Tech has too fine a record to consider any other way than seriously."

Tech will play Michigan for the first time in the history of either institution on October 20 at Ann Arbor.

The rules committee held its first session last night. According to the annual custom absolutely no information as to the deliberations of the committee will be given out until they are completed. This is expected to be either late Saturday night or Sunday morning.

No radical rule changes are expected. The chief business will be clarification and slight revision of the present rules.

It is expected that a rule providing that all players be numbered fore and aft will be passed by the committee. Michigan and Michigan State have been numbering their players in this fashion for a number of years.

PASS DISCUSSED.

The forward pass, which is incomplete in the end zone, will be up for discussion. There is one group which would seek to make the pass merely another incomplete pass instead of a touchback as is now the rule.

The most likely rule will be a compromise. This will rule that the first pass incomplete in the end zone will be an incomplete pass but that any succeeding incomplete pass will be a touchback. This will serve to loosen up the goal line defense but will not destroy the chances of a goal line stand as would a rule making any and all passes into the end zone merely incomplete passes.

The goal posts will not be moved back to the goal line. The committee is sure to keep them where they are. They were found to be sources of injury and the committee is too fully committed to the policy of reducing, by every possible means, the chances of injury to touch this rule.

It will be emphasized that the rules prohibiting the flying tackle and block be stressed in the officiating.

OTHER MATTERS.

Clarifying the rule regarding the blocked kick; probable abolition of the five-yard penalty for the second incomplete pass; a rule making it mandatory on officials to notify coaches when the legal number of time-outs have been taken and other legislation of minor importance will occupy the committee.

The committee, with its affiliated committees from the coaches and officials, is headed by Walter Okeson, national chairman.

Fielding H. Yost, of Michigan; Lou Little, of Columbia; Alonzo Stagg, of the College of the Pacific; Bill Hunter, athletic director of Southern California; Dana Bible, of Nebraska; Ray Morrison, of T. C. U.; Noble Kizer, of Purdue; H. J. Stegeman, of Georgia, and W. A. Alexander, of Tech, are some of the notables attending the meeting.

GINO GARRIBALDI TOUGH CUSTOMER

Matros Kirilenko, a colossal cossack minus his horse, beard and fur hat, will ride down on Gino Garibaldi, popular heavyweight wrestling star, in their feature match Tuesday night at the city auditorium.

Kirilenko, a headliner in New York and other eastern cities, weighs 220 pounds. He has been a bona fide cossack. And it was as such that he learned how to be remonstrative.

They do say that Kirilenko is too much of a good thing for Garibaldi, who has been riding down no few good men in recent months. He has quite a consistent string of victories.

Garibaldi made a great impression with the fans here in his last match. And Matchmaker Henry Weber has been after the big fellow for a return appearance.

And so he is to return. And his "home-coming" is likely to be marred by a defeat.

Joe Cox and Carl Davis, former Ohio State football star, meet in an attractive supporting match.

Tickets are on sale at the Piedmont Hatters.

Winn Faces Test In Title Defense

A new attendance record is expected Monday night at the indoor Fair Street arena, Fair street and Capitol avenue, for Hugh Winn, champion of Georgia and claimant of the southern title, is going to wrestle Bill Crussell.

They were scheduled several weeks ago, but Bill went in training for the match and injured his arm. Winn refused to believe that Bill's arm was really injured, and said so. Bill was plenty mad when he heard this, and has posted $50 with the boxing commission as his answer to Winn's charge that Crussell ran out on him.

Ripper Reeves will have 90 minutes in the semi-final to perform against Bulldog Gust (also known as Pappas), with the odds in favor of Gust.

Avondale fans will be out to see their favorite, Bob Anderson, sometimes known as the pride of Decatur. Bob appeared once before at Fair Street and made a hit. Dave Terrell, the cowboy from Dallas, Texas, is making his first appearance at Fair Street in this match with Anderson.

Decatur, Commercial in Semi-Finals

MARIST, FULTON, NORTH FULTON ARE DEFEATED

Druid Hills Also Beaten in Second Round of N. G. I. C.

By Roy White.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., Feb. 9.—Decatur, defending champion; Griffin, Commercial (Atlanta) and Gainesville, the host, were winners Friday in the quarter-final round of the fourth annual North Georgia Interscholastic conference basketball championship tourney being played on the Chicopee Mills court.

Decatur defeated Marist, 33 to 17, and Commercial beat Druid Hills, 35 to 29, in afternoon games. Griffin defeated Fulton, 18 to 15, and Gainesville eliminated North Fulton, 33 to 8, in night games.

In the semi-finals scheduled for 10 and 11 o'clock Saturday morning, Decatur plays Griffin in the upper bracket and Commercial meets Gainesville in the lower half of the pairings. The winners of the morning game will meet at 8 o'clock Saturday night for the championship.

The Griffin-Fulton game was the closest of the entire tourney. It was a mild upset as Fulton had beaten Griffin several weeks ago in Atlanta.

A GOOD GAME.

Griffin displayed unusually good passing and guarding in the first half and was leading, 12 to 6, at the intermission. The Spalding county lads slowed up considerably in the second period but continued to hold a slight advantage as Fulton fought frantically to tie the score. The entire Griffin team played well without a substitution. Brooks and McDonald led the way for the losers.

Gainesville had little trouble in winning from North Fulton, 33 to 8. Coach Pittard gave every player in uniform a chance to play and had little difficulty in breaking through the North Fulton zone defense, the only one of its kind being used in the tourney.

Hamilton, of North Fulton, gave Gainesville two points as he fired away at the wrong basket in the closing minutes of play and the ball dropped through the hoop.

Atlanta teams have an even break to win the tourney with a representative in both the upper and lower brackets and both the Saturday morning games should be well worth the while.

Evans, of Commercial, and Woodall, of Druid Hills, share honor for the highest score in a single game with 18 points each scored in an afternoon game.

AFTERNOON GAMES.

Decatur, winner of the past three championships, was forced to stage a rally in the last half to win out as Marist was leading, 13 to 10, at the intermission. Roberts was shifted from center to guard and Burgess took up the burden at center as the final half opened. The change worked perfectly for Burgess held his own at getting the tip-off and Roberts guarded excellently.

Burgess, who was held to a lone field goal Thursday night, came through with five and a total of 13 points, while Flynt and Richards scored seven each to give Decatur a decided advantage in the last half. Decatur's passing was very good all the way.

York, Vandiver and A. D. Lyle played good basketball for the losers but could not keep pace with the fast passing and accurate shooting of Decatur in the closing minutes of play.

Evans, a tall center, was outstanding in Commercial's 35-to-29 win over Druid Hills. Evans scored 18 points and together with Jernigan played unusually good ball for the winners.

Woodall, one of the best forwards in the tourney, scored 18 of the 29 Druid Hills points. He was a marked player Thursday and scored only seven but came back strong with a fine game today and shared honors with Evans, of Commercial, for the best scoring in a single game.

MICKEY ARRIVES.

LAKELAND, Fla., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Mickey Cochrane, newly-appointed manager of the Detroit Tigers, Mrs. Cochrane and their two children, Gordon Jr. and Joan, arrived here from Philadelphia for a vacation before the Tiger training season starts March 4. Cochrane said they spent Tuesday night in Washington and last night in Augusta, Ga.

George Harmon, Basketball Wizard

George Harmon—now there was a basketball player for you.

Talk about a dream walking, he was a dream at dribbling the ball.

Basketball fans of Atlanta and the south will concur with your faithful chronicler in saying that George Harmon, of Josh Cody's 1922-23 Mercer team, was the greatest basketball player the south has produced since the sport was popularized down here.

As a floor man and dribbler he had no equal in basketball circles of the time, either in the south or in the nation.

As a shot he was superb. His feats of point scoring were amazing both on long and short shots.

Although Cody played him at a running guard position, he was a far better shot than most forwards one sees today.

Ask any one of the fans who witnessed the old southern intercollegiate basketball tournament here back in 1922 about little George and his wizardry.

Cody's great Mercer team of that year fought its way to the finals against North Carolina and its team of Carmichael, McDonald, et al.

SCORES 18 POINTS.

North Carolina won, 40 to 26, but Harmon stole the show by shooting 18 of his team's points.

The night before he virtually eliminated Georgia Tech single-handedly, scoring 17 points as his team won, 29 to 14.

That was in 1922, mind you, when George Harmon was a freshman. Freshmen could play varsity then and he was so good that he was unanimous choice for guard on the All-Southern team picked by newspapermen and coaches following the tournament of that year.

He was high-point man in the tournament and also for the south at large that season.

Some of the south's basketball fans of that period probably have trouble suppressing a giggle when they read where some writer is running a heat over the fact that so-and-so is leading the south in scoring with a mere 200 points. As a matter of fact, "Jelly" Akin, an Auburn forward of '28, holds a six-year record for Dixie with his 234 points of that season.

Why, one season George Harmon scored 500 points!

300 POINTS A SEASON.

He average over 300 points a season for his three years of college competition.

In those days basketball was more emphasized than it is today. Most southern colleges played a schedule of from 20 to 25 games, not including the tournament. And they traveled more, playing several intersectional games a season. One suspects that one trouble with basketball in the south right now is that the teams don't play often enough—that is, some teams don't.

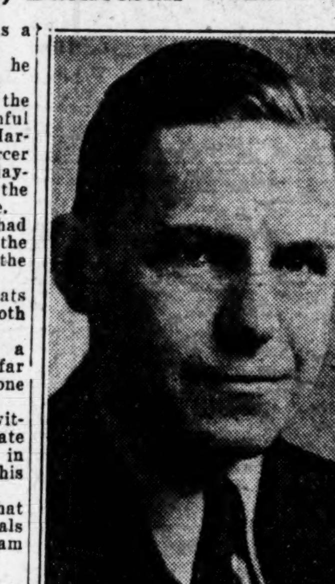

George Harmon was the perfect antithesis of a then prevalent theory that good basketball shots should be of the tall, rangy type. Most of the good players of his time were tall and rangy.

But Harmon was small. He was of the short, compact type and the sports writers often referred to him as "the diminutive Harmon." He was, however, fast as a streak on the floor and had mastered the art of dribbling to the point of ambidexterity—dribbling equally well with either.

His favorite trick was to take the ball off the backboard, pivot sharply and dribble the length of the court without once losing it. He dribbled the ball low and often tricked defensive players into fouling him. Which was just what he wanted, for he was a deadly foul shot. His style of dribbling brought protests, but it was strictly legitimate.

DEMORALIZED FOES.

At other times Harmon completely demoralized opposing teams by scorning to dribble and shooting from the center of the court several times in succession, sending the ball swishing through the mesh with amazing accuracy.

In 1923 Harmon again electrified the galleries at the combined Southern Conference-S. I. A. A. tournament in Atlanta and his team went to the semi-finals before losing to the great University of Chattanooga quintet of that year, which featured Bill Redd, now a professional player; Barnes, Hill and others.

Harmon played with two broken bones in his right hand, but played every game at full tilt.

In 1924 his game efforts were rewarded when Mercer captured the southern championship. Harmon again was high-point man and made All-S. I. A. A.

Outstanding feats of his career include:

Scoring 35 points in a game against Jacksonville Y. M. C. A.

Scoring 21 of Mercer's 24 points to defeat Ole Miss, 24 to 22.

Scoring all 19 of his team's points as Mercer lost to University of Pennsylvania on a northern tour, 31-19.

SOUTH GEORGIAN.

Harmon, a minister's son, by the way, was born in south Georgia. He had never played a basketball game until 1918, when Charley Morgan, the celebrated coach of Lanier High school in Macon, put a uniform on him and started in a game against Boys' High of Atlanta over the protest of the crowd which thought him too small.

He had a brilliant high school career under three coaches, Morgan, Slap Rentz and Jim Clements. He had two coaches in college, Josh Cody, now at Vanderbilt, and Tink Gillem, of Birmingham, who had charge of the team in '24, his last year.

In high school, he played on a crack team that included Ed Gurr, later a Georgia star. In college he had such teammates as Consuello Smith, Bubber Pope, "Red" Simmons, Bob Gamble, Manly McWilliams, Smokey Harper, Gidden Wilkes and others. It was a stellar aggregation.

And Harmon was the star of that galaxy of stars.

He is at present employed by the Bibb Mills of Macon. His father, the Rev. J. A. Harmon, is pastor of the Centenary Methodist church at Macon.

King Levinsky Wins A Disputed Decision

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—King Levinsky, porky Chicago heavyweight, managed to drag out a disputed 10-round decision over Charlie Massera, 22-year-old coal miner from East Monongahela, tonight, but he added nothing to the campaign the Garden is waging on his behalf to build him to heavyweight title challenging status.

Seminary Defeats Jonesboro, 70 to 32

The Washington Seminary girls won a decisive victory over Jonesboro in a game played on their court last night, defeating the visitors, 70 to 32.

Roddey, forward, with 35 points, led the Seminary scoring and Murray, with 23 points, was close behind.

Turner, forward, with 22 points, was the star for Jonesboro.

The Seminary plays Athens girls here next Friday night.

BLICK'S RECORDS ARE SHATTERED ON FIRST NIGHT

George Tyler Rolls High Games To Take Sweepstake Lead.

By Jack Troy.

George Hiram Tyler, secretary of the Atlanta Duckpin Association, rolled new one and five-game records in the process of assuming the lead in the first block of the second annual John Blick sweepstakes last night.

Tyler's finishing game of 151 stands out as the best single game achievement of the Blick sweepstakes to date. And the five-game mark of 631 also is pre-eminently better than any bowler ever has done in this special event.

It was a spectacular finishing burst by Tyler that put him out ahead of George French by a single pin. The pressure was on and Secretary Tyler hammered out strikes and spares, including a doubleheader strike, to set the new sweepstakes record.

John S. Blick held the previous one and five-game records for the sweepstakes. He established the marks last year when he bowled 148 for one game and 601 for a five-game block. Blick, who won the event last year, last night rested in sixth place.

Fred P. Kellam, pinch-hitting for Bill McAdams, who is out of the city, came third last night with 630.

The second block will be rolled this afternoon at 2 o'clock and the final five games at 8 o'clock tonight.

Scores as a whole are representative. Not a single bowler is out of the running. And action promises to be of a high grade sort from here out.

WALLICH GIVEN STECHER MATCH

Leo Wallich, popular wrestler from Detroit, was awarded the decision over Al Stecher, Joplin wild man, in the feature match of Happy John Bolas' second mat card at the city auditorium Friday night.

It was one of the roughest matches ever seen on a light-heavyweight card. Each had won a fall and it appeared that Stecher had the best of his foe when he started using rough tactics and fouled Wallich several times.

Miss Orcutt Beats Miss Hicks for Title

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Miss Maureen Orcutt, of White Beeches, N. J., four times winner of the metropolitan championship, today captured the Miami-Biltmore women's invitation tournament, defeating Miss Helen Hicks, of Hewlett, L. I., 3 and 2, in the 36-hole finals.

Reaching the half-way mark 2 up on Miss Hicks, the White Beeches shot-maker increased her lead to 4 up at the 27th hole. Staging a brilliant but futile rally, Miss Hicks won back three holes, starting at the 29th but missed a four-foot putt on the 32d, which would have squared the match. The shot was the turning point in the match, as Miss Orcutt collected the next two holes to win the match.

BANDED BIRDS.

The press of the state of Georgia has been unusually full of items about banded birds this year, it seems to me. There have been many returns from hunters, of course, and a few from song birds, noted here and there. One account that had wide publicity was the story of a dove that was shot seven miles west of Statesboro, bearing a band indicating that the bird was banded at Celina, Ohio, by Paul Forstoefel, on June 18, 1933. That bird will always be able to answer the question as to what he was doing on that date.

Another report deals with a blackbird that was banded at Mont Belvue, Texas, January 25, 1932, and which was killed at a farm in Coffee county by Mr. Willie Williams.

Just two records out of nearly a million bands that have been attached to the legs of birds that were turned out to roam the pathless air. There is something fascinating about the flight of birds. Migration is one of the oldest observed natural phenomena in nature, and aside from charting the routes of migration we know as little about it as did the Egyptians. What causes it and what its results are we cannot say. Some astute biologist will unravel this question some day, and then there will be little left to guess at. The day we mention, however, seems all too remote.

I would like to see a bird-banding station in Atlanta, which is in a peculiar position with reference to migration lines. Emory University, with its wooded campus, would make an admirable place for such a station and I hope the authorities of that institution will see fit to establish just such a research station. What about it, Dr. Rhodes?

Shed a tear for Moby Dick. The 24-year-old goldfish in the municipal water plant at Americus, is dead. The fish was placed in the pool 24 years ago by J. C. Stevens, who died some time ago. At the time he was put into the pool, Moby Dick was just an infant, but grew to 10 inches in length 1 1-2 pounds in weight. I had the shock of my life last year when making a survey of a lake. I set a few hooks to get some of the bream to examine for possible infections, and was amzed to find that two goldfish took hold before the bream even knew there was any bait around. They were about the size of the late lamented Moby Dick.

Despite the times, Dougherty county, Georgia, started the new year with all current obligations paid, an old debt of $26,000 paid off and a surplus in the bank.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES!

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

Central Press Association

Alex Morrison says:

Golf has been called a gentleman's game and it has been said that "only a gentleman can become a real golfer."

What is meant by this is that the first rule of the game is courtesy. Courtesy of the sort which stresses a politeness and fairness toward others playing the game.

At least, that is the spirit back of every rule laid down by the rules committee of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of At. Andrews.

Every golfer should know the rules of the game. But, even if he doesn't know them he should remember that every move he makes on the course is to be governed by courtesy to his fellow players.

AUBURN MEETS GEORGIA TONIGHT

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 9.—Ten Georgia basketball players will leave Athens Saturday morning for Auburn, Ala., where they will meet the Auburn basketball quintet Saturday night. It will be the first Bulldog encounter with the Plainsmen this season.

Following the Auburn game the Bulldogs will journey to Tuscaloosa Monday night to play the Alabama five.

Players making the trip with Coach Rex Enright are: Frank Johnson, Harrison Anderson, Al Mazo, Rutherford O'Kelley, Hal Gibson, Brown Wilder, Hal Hatcher, "Flip" Costa, Dan Bowden, Hoyt Chastain and Cliff Sheffield, manager.

STATE HANDLING ASKED FOR U.S. SCHOOL FUNDS

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—While approving a recent announcement by Harry L. Hopkins, federal emergency relief administrator, that proper provision will be made for continuing employment of teachers in public schools out of the new $950,000,000 relief program, Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, has served warning that congress will expect the school funds to be administered by duly constituted authorities in the various states, instead of through some centralized government agency in Washington.

The Georgia senator has introduced a bill calling for a federal expenditure of $150,000,000 over the next two years in maintaining public schools where, because of failure to collect taxes, local school units, cities or counties are unable to keep them going for full terms. Of the amount proposed $50,000,000 would be spent in the first year and $100,000,000 during the second.

Referring to a recent news release by Administrator Hopkins in which it was indicated the federal emergency relief administration will maintain supervision over the school funds, Senator George, in a brief speech on the floor, reminded Mr. Hopkins that "there are three branches of this government and that one, at least, is legislative."

In order that the various states might know definitely what they might expect in the way of funds for maintaining the schools, he insisted that the funds should be expended by the established state agencies and not subject to the discretion of federal officials.

"Obviously," said Senator George, "the simple, businesslike way of carrying out the purpose which Mr. Hopkins himself declares that he expects to execute, is to use the established educational agencies in the country charged with the responsibility, limiting his allocation to the precise purpose to which he indicates he wishes to limit it. Obviously, the established agencies should be regarded and the fund, while used to provide employment to unemployed teachers, should be expended through these agencies rather than through the administrator of an emergency relief fund."

To Build More Airports.

PARIS.—(UP)—While lack of funds has temporarily halted the work at Le Bourget, which is to become a model super-airport, Councilman Rioter has introduced a bill for creation of three other such airports.

By JOHN L. COOLEY.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Stocks went down today as traders anticipated the regulatory legislation prepared for them at Washington.

Shares had extreme losses of 1 to 5 points; this range was reduced to about 1 to 3 net, although prices on Pacific coast exchanges went somewhat under those here, markets there having had opportunity to study the actual proposals.

For the past several weeks there has been little interruption to the flow of favorable evidence on the industrial recovery, and today brought additions to the record.

Freight loadings in the week ended February 3 reached a total of 564,098 cars, up about half of one per cent from the previous week and 16.7 per cent from the 1933 week. Traffic volume is approaching that of two years ago. Building permits for January, on the basis of data collected by one agency, are nearly 14 per cent above January, 1933. Favorable dividend actions hold a prominent place in market news, Kroger Grocery today declaring an extra of 50 cents. The stock rallied a point.

STOCKS DECLINE ON COAST ON NEWS FROM WASHINGTON

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 9.—(UP) President Roosevelt's stock exchange attitude and cancellation of air mail contracts sent leading issues on the San Francisco curb and stock exchanges into a sharp slump today.

The stock exchange reported that some of the losses were regained before the close as issues firmed. Each exchange, however, closed below New York final quotations.

On the curb exchange, Aviation Corporation of Delaware closed at 8 1-2 in New York and 6 3-4 here; General Motors 38 7-8 in New York and 38 here; American Telephone and Telegraph 120 7-8 in New York and 119 1-2 here.

On the stock exchange, United Aircraft and Transport, which opened at 29 5-8, slipped to as low as 24 1-4 following the air mail contracts cancellation announcement. The issue climbed back to 25 1-4 at the close, off 3 7-8 from the New York close.

Trade Review Notes Continued Upturns

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The Dun & Bradstreet weekly trade review said today that "all reports indicate retail buying in excess of the comparative period in 1933, while the majority reveal some gain over the previous week's good level. Installment sales have shown a decided increase, with indications of a further extension of this method of buying."

The review asserted that each succeeding week brings reports of fresh gains in one direction or another, with prospects becoming more encouraging as the spring season approaches.

"Following devaluation of the dollar," continued the agency, "higher prices for many raw materials and manufactured products are imminent, but thus far purchasing by consumers against expected advances has not reached a total of any consequence, as the covering of actual needs, many of which have been long deferred, appears to be the policy for the present."

CHRYSLER DECLARES DIVIDEND OF 25 CENTS

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Directors of Chrysler Corporation today declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share, placing the stock on a $1 annual basis. On December 30 last 50 cents was paid and in September, 1933, the company made a special distribution of 50 cents.

The company reported net profit for 1933 of $12,129,120, equal to $2.78 a share, contrasting with net loss of $11,254,232 in 1932. The dividend is payable March 31 to stock of record March 1.

DU PONT TO INCREASE SIZE OF VIRGINIA PLANT

WILMINGTON, Del., Feb. 9.—(AP) E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Company today announced that plans are being made for the construction of new buildings and equipment costing $5,000,000 at the Du Pont Rayon Company's plant near Richmond, Va.

The announcement said capacity of the plant will be increased and that floor space at the factory will be doubled by the project.

When the construction is in operation, the announcement said, between 700 and 800 persons will be added to the pay roll.

25,000 WILL BE CUT FROM ALABAMA CWA

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 9.—(UP)—Immediate reduction of civil works administration employes in Alabama by approximately 25,000 was ordered by Washington officials today in a long-distance telephone communication with Thad Holt, Alabama CWA director.

VALUES ON CURB MEET PRESSURE

By BERNARD S. O'HARA.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The curb market closed heavy today following the renewal of selling in virtually all departments of the list. Prices eased off quietly in the forenoon but a slight recovery occurred in the final minutes of trading.

Utilities and a number of industrial favorites were marked down sharply. Aluminum Company of America and General Tire & Rubber dropped 5 points each. Gulf Oil lost 3 1-2, while other petroleum shares yielded fractionally. Aircraft shares were in further supply. Pan-American Airways sagged more than 2 and Waco eased nearly a point.

Among the power group, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore and Columbia Gas & Electric preferred lost more than 2 each. Electric Bond & Share conceded nearly as much and American Gas & Electric and American Light & Power around a point each.

Transfers approximated 498,000 shares, about the same as yesterday.

Foreign Exchanges Hold in Narrow Range

By the Associated Press.

Foreign exchanges moved within the most narrow ranges yesterday of any day since the dollar was revalued. Trading in all centers was in more normal volume and that market lacked the excited trading and wide moves experienced within the past few days.

In New York the British pound sterling moved only 1-4 of a cent during the entire day, closing at $4.02 for a gain of a quarter of a cent against a low of $5.01 7-8. In London the dollar opened and closed at $5.01 1-2 and did not get away from that figure to an extent in interim trading.

At Paris the dollar also was quiet, opening at 6.45 cents to the franc and closing at that figure. In New York the French unit was unchanged from the previous day at the closing figure of 6.44 cents, after reaching 6.45 in earlier transactions.

In terms of the franc at its final New York rate, the dollar was valued at 60.87 per cent of its former parity, compared with 60.87 Thursday and 64.21 a month ago.

FREIGHT LOADINGS INCREASE IN WEEK

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The American Railway Association announced today that loadings of revenue freight for the week ended February 3 were 564,098 cars, an increase of 2,532 above the preceding week and 78,039 above the same week in 1933.

By VICTOR EUBANK.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The bond market picked up some of the nervousness of stocks today and prices in most categories slipped moderately lower.

Trading enthusiasm slackened perceptibly, transfers totaling only $15,717,000, par value, against $19,291,000 yesterday. It was the smallest aggregate for a full session since January 29. The average for 60 domestic corporate issues eased two-tenths of a point.

There was still plenty of bright business and industrial news. Freight car loadings for the week ended February 3, recorded a seasonal gain and week-end trade reviews reported a continued expansion in retail sales. International dollar rates were narrow and the European situation appeared to be improving.

Foreign obligations were irregular. Those of France reacted 1 to 3 or more.

The New York Stock Exchange reported that all listed bonds, as on February 1, had a market value of $36,263,747,352, as compared with $34,861,038,409 on January 19.

Brokers' Views

STOCK OPINIONS.

FENNER & BEANE—We continue to favor the purchase of stocks on reactions.

BEER & CO.—The action of the market in the near future will probably depend to a marked degree on reactions to proposed security legislation.

DOBBS & CO.—We would hardly expect any major change in the outlook over the short session Saturday.

COURTS & CO.—After Friday's heavy liquidation there must have been a prettey thorough cleaning out of weak accounts and the attitude will now be one of suspending judgment.

LIVINGSTON & CO.—With leadership absent from the market, something in the way of solid trade improvement will be necessary to put the market into new high ground for the move.

COTTON OPINIONS.

FENNER & BEANE—Legislative developments at Washington will probably continue to be the principal influence for a time with the possibility that any delay in passage of the Bankhead bill may increase the realizing movement.

BEER & CO.—We continue to favor buying cotton on recessions.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO. TO DOBBS & CO.—With the administration's plans to raise the price of cotton to around the 1926 level the trade as a whole despite the possibility of reactions from time to time, favor the long side of the market.

COURTS & CO.—We believe the advance will continue, but this advance has been of such proportions that good sized reactions are to be expected any time.

LIVINGSTON & CO.—The market is in an excellent position to continue its advance if no unfavorable news develops.

GRAIN OPINIONS.

FENNER & BEANE—We believe wheat can be bought on minor recessions for profits later on.

Futures: Idaho russets, April $2.00.

Sugar and Coffee.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Raw sugar was less active today, but the tone was firm and holders were asking higher levels. A few small lots of duty-free sugars were available in early March positions at 3.40 without duty guarantee, while a small quantity of Cuban was offered at 3.65.

Local refiners as a rule showed no interest, although there was a fair inquiry from outport refiners, principally in later positions, with sales confirmed of 45,000 bags of Philippines for March-April shipment at 3.45, and 18,000 bags of Philippines for April-May at 3.46, or fractionally above previous sales in these positions.

Futures were generally lower, under tired long liquidation, which seemed to be prompted by the failure of the president's recommendation for the industry to bring in more general buying. The market closed 1 to 3 points net lower. Sales were 31,750 tons.

The range follows:

	High	Low	Last
March	1.67	1.63	1.65-66
May	1.70	1.65	1.67
July	1.73	1.67	1.69
September	1.76	1.71	1.74
December	1.81	1.77	1.78
January	1.79	1.77	1.78b

b—Bid.

In refined prices were advanced 20 points at the close by one refiner to the basis of 4.50 for fine granulated, or to the level quoted by all others, who advanced earlier in the week. Demand was light.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Coffee was higher today on trade and foreign support prompted by sharply higher prices in the primary markets. Other trade interests, commission houses and locals sold on the scale up.

Santos opened 3 to 8 higher and closed 8 to 10 higher. Sales 28,000. No. 7 opened 9 to 19 higher and closed 16 to 17 higher. Sales 13,000. Closing quotations: Santos, March 10.01, May 10.25, July 10.37, September 10.71, December 10.85; No. 7, March 7.90, May 8.02, July 8.15, September 8.27, December 8.39.

Spot coffee dull but firm; Santos 4s 11; Rio 7s 10½.

Metals.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Copper quiet; electrolytic spot and future 8. Tin steady; spot and nearby 51.50; future 51.75. Iron quiet, unchanged. Lead dull; spot New York 4.00; East St. Louis 3.90. Zinc steady; East St. Louis spot and future 4.40. Antimony, spot 7.20@7.25. Quick silver 70.00@71.00.

Earnings.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—The P. Lorillard Co., for 1933, reports net income of $2,380,254, after various charges, compared with $4,556,052 in 1932.

Fireman's Wife Denied Right To Attend Blazes

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—(AP)—By court order issued today, Mrs. Alexander W. Grim must stop following her husband a hook-and-ladder man, to fires.

The injunction was granted by Judge Rudolph F. Desort after Grim's attorney had related how Mrs. Grim had followed her husband to various conflagrations for the express purpose of throwing cold water on any romances Grim might be tempted into while rescuing women.

By JOHN P. BOUGHAN.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Down swings of values predominated in grain markets today influenced by likelihood that drouth districts would receive moisture relief tonight and because of stock market unsettlement.

Much selling of grains was associated with expected bearish results of a special message from President Roosevelt to congress relative to federal government control of stock exchanges. Wheat and other cereals gave evidence also of disturbing effects from proposed legislative measures which would tighten restrictions on grain exchange dealings.

Wheat closed nervous at almost the day's bottom prices, 3-4 to 1 1-4 cents under yesterday's finish, corn 5-8 to 1 1-8 down, oats at 3-4 to 1 cent decline, and provisions varying from 5 cents setback to a rise of 7 cents.

Corn and oats followed the downward trend of wheat. Shipping call here for corn was extremely light.

Provisions averaged higher, responsive to a rather broad demand for lard.

VIRGINIANS DEFEAT REDISTRICTING BILL

By the Associated Press.

A proposed congressional redistricting bill was defeated by the Virginia house of delegates yesterday when supporters of the measure failed to muster the four-fifths vote necessary. The vote was 73 for and 20 against.

The prospect of a fight over a general sales tax was placed before the Virginia assembly by Delegate G. A. Massenburg who said he would introduce a measure calling for a two per cent levy at Monday's session.

Tax Commissioner Morrissett estimated such a tax would return $8,000,000 to the state treasury. Massenburg made his announcement after declaring the legislators had reached the point where they apparently could not agree on a method of raising revenue for schools.

Undergoing a change of heart overnight, the South Carolina house defeated on third reading the Connor bill to compel payment of property taxes on a motor vehicle before issuance of a license for its operation. Passed yesterday, 57 to 40, on second reading, the bill was killed today, 49 to 39.

Governor Blackwood sent up a message to the legislature, entering its fifth week, urging expeditious action on a program of rural electrification for the state.

With the constitutional convention issue still to the fore, the Mississippi senate adopted a measure exempting homesteads from the 8-mill state ad valorem levy. Both houses recessed at noon for the week-end.

Enlivening talk about the constitutional convention was a statement from Governor Conner, charging that opponents of the proposed assembly had resorted to subterfuge.

"A convention bill has been killed by a margin of one vote, but the convention has not been killed—this issue can not be settled until it is settled right. It can not be settled right until the people secure the relief a convention alone will give them."

SMALL LUMBER MILLS WILL GET CODE RELIEF

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The lumber code authority of the NRA today advised Representative Malcolm C. Tarver, of Dalton, Ga., that as a result of a recent investigation of wages paid by small mill owners in his congressional district, some sort of remedial action would be taken to enable them to carry on and at the same time comply with regulations of the code.

In the meantime the federal trade commission will continue its own investigation in Judge Tarver's congressional district and after its report to NRA it is confidently expected that the small sawmill operator will be placed in a position to compete with the larger lumber manufacturers.

Some few weeks ago Representative Tarver complained to officials of the NRA that sawmill operators in his district were being driven from business by code regulations which fixed wages in too high a bracket.

MAN 'TAKEN FOR RIDE,' ROBBED AND WOUNDED

Shot and robbed by two acquaintances who "took him for a ride," James B. Bradford, LaGrange (Ga.) textile worker, was in a serious condition Friday at Grady hospital, according to police and hospital reports.

Bradford said he met two men he knew Thursday night at Five Points and got in their car with them. They carried him to a point on the Fairburn road and demanded his money, he said. When he refused to give it to them, one of the men fired at him pointblack with a pistol. He was wounded in the abdomen.

The men then brought him back to Atlanta early Friday morning and put him out in front of 1312 Holderness street and residents of the neighborhood called an ambulance. Bradford gave police the name of one of the men, both of whom he said were from LaGrange.

Market Outlook

By MAX BUCKINGHAM

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Little cheer could be found in Wall Street tonight as brokers and traders read the bills introduced in congress for regulating securities markets.

The hike in marginal requirements, which will necessitate putting up at least 60 per cent of the stock's value before a share can be purchased, was the chief worry. Traders feared it would cut volume of trading appreciably and eliminate many of the so-called "public" who operate on slim margins and aid in all bull manifestations.

There were other things, too, which brought knitted brows to the trading group and these included:

Stiff punishment for violations.

Restriction in short selling.

Banning of manipulation of security prices and also "combination of purchases and sales made to raise or depress prices" which was interpreted as preventing pool operations.

SEEK MORE TIME.

There were few who wanted to commit themselves. They wanted a chance to read the bills carefully. But there was also a dearth of cheerfulness for the immediate market future. Few believed that the decline today—which amounted to 1 to more than 3 points at the close—was sufficient discounting of the report. The market recovered slightly from its lows because of rumors in the Street that actual parts of the bill would be less stringent than was found to be the case when the bill was published.

Expectation was for a selloff tomorrow and few would venture a guess as to how far it would go. One close observer of the market pointed that some modicum of cheer could be gained from the fact that when the legislation is enacted it will not become effective until October 1.

"That will have us from a drastic break at this time," he said, "although prices will go lower and speculation will almost be eliminated."

MANY ADVICES.

There were many advices tonight for the small trader to get out of the market, at least until the news of the legislation has been absorbed.

Meanwhile there were other discouraging factors including:

Cancellation of all air mail contracts.

Greater than seasonal reduction in building permits in January.

The favorable factors from industry included such items as:

Increase in retail trade of all classifications with reports of fairly heavy sales in winter clothing as result of the cold wave.

Excellent earnings report for 1933 by Chrysler Corporation and placing of stock on a $1 annual basis.

Increase in tire prices by individual companies expected to become general.

Expectation of favorable action within 10 days on the proposed communications legislation.

NON-AGGRESSION PACT CONCLUDED IN BALKANS

ATHENS, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The Balkan-non-aggression pact, which it is hoped will change the whole history of this stormy peninsula, was signed formally today by representatives of Turkey, Greece, Jugo-Slavia and Rumania.

The pact was seen as offering an opportunity for economic collaboration by the long non-co-operative 55,000,000 inhabitants of these four countries.

The absence of envoys from Bulgaria and Albania cast a shadow over the ceremony in the historic audience chamber of the Greek Academy, but it was said Bulgaria might accept later.

Signatory nations agree among other things to guarantee one another's frontiers for five years.

Today Greece was represented by Premier Panahoti Tsaldaris, Rumania by Foreign Minister Nicholas Titulescu, Jugo-Slavia by Bosko Jeftitch, and Turkey by Foreign Minister Tewfik Rushdi Bey.

Americans Dissatisfied With Sugar Program

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—A number of representatives of American sugar interests here declared today they were dissatisfied with the sugar program announced yesterday by President Roosevelt in his special message to congress.

They declared they held to their original belief that the "American sugar market should be reserved for American producers," and should not be turned over, even in part, to foreign growers.

Objections were raised particularly to the schedule of sugar quotas for island possessions, the claim being advanced that the Cuban quota was unreasonably high.

Farm administration officials said the figures given for American producers were tentative and might be revised upward in case domestic beet and cane growers produce larger crops this year.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.

Atlanta spot cotton closed steady, 10 points up, at 12.30. Receipts, 32; shipments, 1,970; stocks, 215,732.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—An early advance in cotton today was followed by rather nervous and irregular fluctuations, but after reacting from 12.36 to 12.18 for May, prices firmed up again on trade and commission house buying. May closed at 12.34, or within 2 points of the best for the day and the season so far, with the general market finishing firm at net advances of 6 to 11 points.

After opening 2 points higher to 4 lower the market firmed on a broadening of the demand attributed to reports of a continued firm spot situation and the prospects for legislative control of this year's crop.

All months made new high ground for the movement with March selling up to 12.20 and October to 12.73 or 10 to 13 points above yesterday's closings. Some reaction followed but the trade continued to buy on the soft spots.

The market firmed up again on buying which appeared to be promoted by reports that the senate agriculture committee had favorably reported a bill appropriating $150,000,000 for the purchase of cotton to be made into cloth for the relief of the needy. Closing quotations were within 2 to 5 points of the best for the day.

Exports today, 19,828, making 5,179,927 so far this season. Port receipts, 21,604; United States port stocks, 3,675,606.

COTTON IN NEW ORLEANS HITS NEW SEASON HIGHS

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Cotton prices made new highs for the season in active trading. There were frequent and sharp fluctuations. At the highest prices were 5 points above the previous close in active months and at the lowest 10 to 11 points below that close. The close was steady with prices 3 to 6 points net higher.

The opening was easier on heavy overnight realizing orders, although Liverpool came in slightly better than due and sterling was steady.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow practically unchanged.

Port receipts 28,601; for week 93,095; for season 6,257,898; last season 6,971,172. Exports 20,641; for week 155,278; for season 5,057,821; last season 5,192,8789. Port stock 3,688,547; last year 4,659,237. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 146,387; last year 133,465. Spot sales at southern markets 18,514; last year 9,063.

Japanese Ruler Listens To Hour of Talk on Dollar

TOKYO, Feb. 9.—(AP)—If Emperor Hirohito doesn't know all about dollar devaluation today it isn't Finance Minister Koretiyo Takahashi's fault.

Complying with an imperial command the minister delivered a one-hour lecture before the emperor on the subject:

"Devaluation of the American dollar and its effect on Japan."

TARZAN THE INVINCIBLE No. 138

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Little Nkima had traveled far. Around his neck was a stout thong, supporting a little leather bag in which reposed a message. This he had brought to Muviro, war chief of the Waziri; and when the Waziri had started on their long march, Nkima went with them.

For some time he had remained with the black warriors; but then, at last, moved perhaps by some caprice of his erratic mind, or by an irresistible urge, he had left them to insult or annoy any creatures he met. He was forever getting himself into trouble by playing pranks.

Sometimes he fled in one direction, sometimes in another, so that he occupied more time than was necessary in making his journey. Otherwise, he would have reached his master in time to be of service to him at a moment when Tarzan needed a friend badly.

While Nkima played in the forest, Dorsky approached the tent where Nkima's master lay bound and helpless. The five minutes were up, and Dorsky had come to demand Tarzan's answer. As he entered the tent, his plan of action was well formulated in his mind.

STATE OF GEORGIA,
DECATUR COUNTY.

WHEREAS, Maddox Grocery Company, a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of Georgia, with its principal office and place of business in Bainbridge, Decatur County, Georgia, did on the 15th day of August, 1924, execute and deliver to Union Trust Company of Maryland, a corporation of the State of Maryland, and Atlanta Trust Company, a corporation of the State of Georgia, as Trustees, its security deed conveying the lands hereinafter described, for the purpose of securing the payment of certain promissory negotiable notes numbered consecutively from 1 to 24, both inclusive, aggregating the principal sum of Twenty Thousand Dollars ($20,000.00), and the interest coupon notes attached thereto, all executed by said Maddox Grocery Company, dated August 15, 1924, and payable to bearer at the office of the Mortgage Security Corporation of America, Norfolk, Virginia, or the Union Trust Company of Maryland, Baltimore, Maryland, with one of said principal notes due and payable on February 16th and August 15th of each year, beginning with February 15, 1927, and concluding with February 15, 1934, and with the last nine of said notes or bonds, numbered from 16 to 24, inclusive, due and payable on August 15, 1934, the first five of said notes being for the principal sum of Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00) each, the sixth of said notes for the principal sum of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00), the seventh of said notes for the principal sum of Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00), the eighth of said notes for the principal sum of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00), the ninth of said notes for the principal sum of Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00), the tenth and eleventh of said notes for the principal sum of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) each, the twelfth of said notes for the principal sum of Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00), and the remainder of said series from 13 to 24, both inclusive, for the sum of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) each, with all of said notes bearing interest from date at the rate of six per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, and evidenced by coupon notes attached to said principal notes. In addition to the indebtedness secured as set forth above, and evidenced by said notes or bonds which are referred to in said security deed as first series, said security deed further secured ten notes duly executed by the Maddox Grocery Company under date of August 15, 1924, aggregating the principal sum of $3,285.00, which were subordinated in rank to said first series of notes so secured, and have since been paid and discharged. Said security deed was duly recorded in the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of Decatur County, Georgia, in Book A-4, Page 453, et seq., to which reference is made for its exact terms and conditions; and

WHEREAS, said security deed provided in Article VI thereof as follows:

"VI. That should either of the Trustees herein named, decline, or fail to execute this Trust, then the other Trustee shall have all the rights, powers and authority, and be charged with all the duties that are hereby conferred or charged upon both Trustees, unless and until a Co-Trustee be appointed; should such a vacancy occur, then the holder or holders, owner or owners of sixty per centum (60%) in value of said principal notes (1st series) are hereby authorized and empowered to appoint another, or if necessary, two other Trustees in the place and stead of either or both of those herein named, which Trustee or Trustees shall have all the rights, powers and authority, and be charged with all the duties that are conferred or charged upon the Trustees herein named;" and

WHEREAS, Union Trust Company of Maryland did on the 15th day of November, 1933, refuse and declare its refusal to act, and resigned as such Trustee, and the Atlanta Trust Company did on the 16th day of November, 1933, likewise refuse and declare its refusal to act, and resigned as such Trustee, which resignations are duly of record in the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of Decatur County, Georgia, in Book P-4, Page 520, to which reference is hereby made, and the General American Life Insurance Company, as the owner and holder of at least sixty per cent of the notes or bonds secured by said security deed, and of all of said notes remaining unpaid, did under the authority contained in said deed elect to appoint and did appoint William H. Stubblefield, Jr., of the City of St. Louis, State of Missouri, as successor Trustee in and under said deed of trust or security deed in the place and stead of said Union Trust Company of Maryland, and did further elect to appoint and did appoint M. N. Leavitt, of the County of St. Louis, State of Missouri, as successor Trustee in and under said deed of trust or security deed, in the place and stead of the Atlanta Trust Company, and said successor Trustees so appointed did on the 24th day of November, 1933, duly accept the appointments so made, which designations and the acceptance of said trust appear duly of record in said Clerk's Office in Book P-4, Page 521, to which reference is hereby made; and

WHEREAS, said security deed or deed of trust referred to provided that if default was made in the payment in full at maturity of any interest coupon note or principal note, first or second series, secured by said deed, or in the performance of any of the covenants and agreements set forth therein, including the obligation to pay all State, City and County taxes assessed upon the property described in said deed, the Trustees should declare all of the first series of notes representing the principal debt and accrued interest thereon to be due and payable, and upon such declaration (to be in writing to the first party by mail at their address as shown in said deed of trust), then the first series notes representing the principal debt and accrued interest thereon should at once become due and payable, time being expressly made of the essence of the contract, and the Trustees would thereupon be authorized at the direction of one or more of the holder or holders, owner or owners, of said principal notes, first series, to sell the real estate described in said deed at public auction, for cash or for at least one-half cash, and the residue on such credit as the Trustees might determine, with such sale to be made either upon said premises or at the place selected by the Trustees, and after advertisement of the time, place and terms of sale for at least ten days in some newspaper published in the City of Atlanta, Georgia; and

WHEREAS, Maddox Grocery Company defaulted in the payment of the note or bond, first series, secured by said security deed or deed of trust, designated as No. 13, for the principal sum of $1,000.00, which was due on February 15, 1933, and further defaulted in the payment of the note or bond, first series, secured by said security deed, designated by the number 14, for the principal sum of $1,000.00, which was due on August 15, 1933, and further defaulted in the payment of the interest due on the bonds or notes of said first series numbered 13 to 24, both inclusive, on February 15, 1933, and August 15, 1933, and further failed and refused to pay certain taxes due on said property to the County of Decatur and City of Bainbridge, and on December 9, 1933, the undersigned, as successor Trustees as herein set forth, served written notice upon Maddox Grocery Company and its Trustee in Bankruptcy of election to declare all of said notes or bonds, first series, secured by said security deed, due and payable at once, and there now remains due and payable under the terms of said deed the principal sum of Twelve Thousand Dollars ($12,000.00), representing the principal amount of the bonds of said first series, numbered from 13 to 24, both inclusive, the first twelve of said bonds having been paid and retired, with interest on said principal sum to August 15, 1933, amounting to $720.00, $360.00 of which amount bears interest from February 15, 1933, at the rate of eight per cent per annum, and the remainder of said amount bears interest at the rate of eight per cent per annum from August 15, 1933, with interest on all of said amounts, both principal and interest, from August 15, 1933, at the rate of eight per cent per annum.

NOW, THEREFORE, the undersigned, as successor Trustees, as herein set forth, under the authority contained in said security deed, and at the direction and request of the General American Life Insurance Company, the present holder of all of the outstanding bonds or notes, first series, secured by said security deed, will sell at public outcry, before the Court House door of Decatur County, Georgia, which is specifically designated as the place of sale by said Trustees, during the legal hours of sale, on the first Tuesday in March, 1934, to the highest bidder for cash, the following described property, to-wit:

All that tract or parcel of land lying and being in the City of Bainbridge, Decatur County, Georgia, and being more particularly described as follows:

Commencing at a point on the east side of Webster Street one hundred sixty-five (165) feet north of the northeast corner of Webster and Calhoun Streets (same being the northwest corner of property now or formerly owned by Rosa Wood); and running thence north along the east side of Webster Street one hundred sixty-one (161) feet to the southern line of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company's right of way; running thence east along the south side of said railroad right of way two hundred seventeen (217) feet to the property now or formerly owned by Gordon Chason; running thence south along the west line of said Chason property one hundred sixty-one (161) feet to the property now or formerly owned by Rosa Wood; running thence west along the north side of the said Wood's lot two hundred seventeen (217) feet to the east side of Webster Street at the point of beginning; and being the same property conveyed to the Maddox Grocery Company by Warranty Deed of C. C. Willis dated November 4, 1912, and recorded in Deed Book P-3, Page 474, Decatur County Records.

Said property will be sold for the purpose of paying the indebtedness due on the notes or bonds of the first series secured by said security deed as herein set forth, together with the costs of this proceeding, as provided in said security deed, and a conveyance will be executed to the purchaser by the undersigned, as authorized in said deed.

This first day of February, 1934.

WILLIAM H. STUBBLEFIELD, JR.,
As successor Trustee in and under said deed of trust or security deed, in the place and stead of the Union Trust Company of Maryland.

M. N. LEAVITT.
As successor Trustee in and under said deed of trust or security deed, in the place and stead of the Atlanta Trust Company of Atlanta, Georgia.

Charlie Holliway, alias Albert Brown, was indicted by Fulton county grand jury Friday for involuntary manslaughter and larceny of an automobile belonging to Ollie Hopkins. According to the bill, Holliway was the driver of a car which struck and killed Judson McKenzie on January 17 at Piedmont and Auburn avenues.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hanson, of 277 Washington street, was ordered to spend four months at the state farm by Judge Jesse M. Wood on Friday, after she had appeared at the courthouse Thursday to report under probation and had caused a disturbance in the courtroom.

The question of whether being shot and killed constitutes accidental death is raised in two suits filed in Fulton superior court Friday by Miss Ruby Gibson against Metropolitan Life Insurance Company and The Life Insurance Company of Virginia. The complainant contends that she is entitled to double indemnity on the life of her brother, shot and killed in Cincinnati. Attorney John W. Morrow represented the plaintiff.

C. T. Williams, of 1251 Grant street, was in a serious condition at Grady hospital Friday night as the result of injuries he received Thursday night when he fell off a train near McDonough. He was taken to a private hospital Thursday night and his left arm was amputated. Friday he was taken to Grady.

C. H. Suttles, assistant service manager of the Buick and Pontiac Motor Company, who recently underwent an operation at a private hospital, was taken to his home at 2055 Emory place, N. E., Friday.

Walter A. Sims, state senator and former mayor of Atlanta, became a grandfather Friday when a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Lowry Sims. The mother and baby were reported doing well at the Emory University hospital.

Widening and repaving of the Atlanta-Marietta road was begun Friday by the Whitley Construction Company, of LaGrange. The work is expected to be completed in about three months.

T. J. Bailey, of the state motor vehicle department, Thursday night was host to a number of state officials at dinner at the Henry Grady hotel. Among those attending were Chairman W. E. Wilburn, of the highway board; Chairman Paul Doyal, of the revenue commission; Secretary of State John B. Wilson, Chairman Jud Wilhoit, of the public service commission, and others.

Commissioner of Agriculture G. C. Adams Friday invited about 20 leading farmers and businessmen of the state to meet at a luncheon here February 15 to discuss plans for utilization of land abandoned for cotton production. Mr. Adams said that about a million acres were being abandoned and he hoped to use them for some profitable crops.

M. P. McWhorter, director of the state revenue commission's motor vehicle department, said Friday that with only four days remaining before the penalty for failure to put 1934 auto tags went into effect more than 100,000 Georgia auto owners have not yet received their tags. The penalty usually goes into effect February 1 but Governor Talmadge this year extended the time-buying period 15 days.

Burglars looted the residence of R. H. White, of 1348 Ponce de Leon avenue, during the absence of the family on an oriental tour, it was discovered Friday. The burglary was discovered by servants living in the rear of the home, but the amount of the loss will not be determined until the White family returns.

Fraternity house at 741 Spring street was entered by burglars early Friday and $100 in cash was stolen from J. T. O'Donnell and a watch from J. H. Houser. In another burglary reported to police Friday, a large quantity of oats was stolen from the feed house of the Independent Ice Company on Hunter street. Stores at 145 Simpson street and 564 Boulevard, S. E., also were broken into, but little was missing.

D. W. Garrett, 26-year-old fireman, of 935 Euclid avenue, was badly cut by falling glass and suffered burns early Friday while fighting a fire in a house at Elizabeth street and Euclid avenue. He was treated at Grady hospital and was allowed to return to his home. The house was damaged slightly.

Atlanta Model Airplane Club will meet at Miller's book store at 12:15 o'clock today. Cliff Fligg, formerly divisional manager of the west coast of South America for the Pan-American-Grace air line, will tell of air service in South America.

History of Chattahoochee County, written by N. K. Rogers and published by the Columbus Office Supply Company, Columbus, has been deposited in the Georgia department of archives, according to announcement by Miss Ruth Blair, state historian. The book, which has 397 pages and an index, contains rosters of county officials and military companies, abstracts of marriages and wills, church records and many family compilations.

Dr. T. C. Davison will show moving pictures of throid surgery at the fifth annual assembly of the Southeastern Surgical Congress to be held at Nashville, Tenn., March 5, 6 and 7, inclusive. The most celebrated surgeons in America will take part in the program.

Members of the Atlanta Columbia University Club will meet at the Piedmont hotel at 12:15 o'clock Monday afternoon for luncheon, after which they will hear radio broadcasts of the sixth annual round-the-world Columbia Day. Rexford G. Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture and professor of economics at Columbia University; Mark Sullivan, author and journalist; Joseph C. O'Mahoney, United States senator from Wyoming, and Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the university, will speak on the program.

Tax Collector R. A. McMurry Friday had an order he could not fill. R. W. Howard, of Fort Worth, Texas, wanted one of Georgia's $3 automobile tags for 1934. The tags are issued by the state and McMurry so informed the applicant.

T. J. Ratliff, well-known north Georgia evangelist, will preach at Whitefoord Avenue Methodist church at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. B. Y. P. U. services will be held at 6 o'clock Sunday night.

James W. Hartsfield, of Anniston, Ala., one of 12 employes of the Swann Chemical Company there who are suing the company for $1,200,000 damages for injuries received in chemical work, is being treated in Atlanta and is stopping at 538 Capitol avenue. The workers allege they were permanently injured by the gases of chemicals with which they worked. Hartsfield's condition is good and he will recover, his physician said.

Charlie Humphries, alias Fred Palmer, alias J. R. Wilson, an escaped convict from Florida, is being held by Atlanta police in connection with the automobile theft ring detectives are seeking to break up here. His bond was placed at $1,000 and officers said he probably would be taken to Florida.

ELMER JORDAN.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 9.—(AP) Plans remained unsettled this morning for the funeral of Elmer Jordan, 50, of here and New York, who died at a West Palm Beach hospital last night after receiving burns from scalding water while taking a shower bath at a local golf clubhouse. Friends expressed belief that a stroke, while standing in the hot water, contributed to his death.

Collins and Coppedge Identified in Holdups

Floyd Collins and Jack Coppedge, young robbers who were arrested recently in Birmingham, Friday were identified in five Atlanta holdups.

Both Collins and Coppedge were said by employes to have been in the gang which robbed the Southern Feed Stores, Inc., of $1,000 several weeks ago, and Collins was identified by W. M. Caldwell, manager of the Tru-Blu Beer Company, as having been one of several bandits who robbed the beer company office of approximately $1,000 January 5.

W. L. McGill, employe of the Piggly-Wiggly store at 802 Highland avenue, identified the two as having robbed him two weeks ago, and Carl Kalmas, operator of a store on Gordon street, said they held him up several weeks ago. They also were identified as having robbed a pharmacy at Hemphill avenue and Tenth street.

Banker, Union Chief Convicted of Fraud

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Feb. 9.—(AP) Alvanley Johnston, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and C. Stirling Smith, president of the now closed Standard Trust bank, were found guilty by a jury here today on charges of misapplying $450,000 of the bank's funds and of making false entries.

James H. Cassell, secretary of the brotherhood and former director of the bank, was acquitted on the same charges.

The verdict was given by the jury of nine men and three women after 15 hours of deliberations.

Smith and Johnston were found guilty on all but two of the 11 counts of the indictment.

The case involved a guaranty of the brotherhood on $904,000 in securities which the bank assumed when it was formed in 1930.

Smith and Johnston, as the result of their convictions, are liable to fines totaling $90,000 and to penitentiary sentences of 30 years on each count.

NEW ORLEANS OPENS SHUSHAN AIRPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 9.—(AP)—With aerial salute, speech making and ceremony the new $4,000,000 Shushan airport, combination land and sea terminal located on 400 acres reclaimed from Lake Pontchartrain, was dedicated here today, as a feature of carnival.

The dedication formally opened four days of Pan-American air races in which many nationally and internationally-known fliers will participate for $12,000 in cash prizes and trophies.

Rain curtailed many of the aerial demonstrations planned for opening day. Competition will get actively under way tomorrow afternoon.
